U-BOAT ATTACKS DESTROYER SMITH NEAR NEW YORK

PROJECTILE'S WAKE SEEN

Warning Sent Broadcast, Navy Department Accepting Report as Being Correct.

IN WAIT FOR COMMISSION?

Raider Sighted Between Steamship Lanes May Be Seeking Vessels Bringing Allies.

BOSTON, April 17.—The war was brought to the shores of this country today when the United States destroyer Smith reported by radio that an enemy submarine had tried unsuccessfully to torpedo ner 100 miles south of New York at 3:30 this morning.

Additional reports were received from the destroyer tonight and were forwarded to Washington. Nothing of an official nature regarding the additional reports was made public here. A suggestion in shipping circles that the lookout on the Smith had perhaps mistaken a large fish for a torpedo in the uncertain light of the early morning met with the reply that the Smith's officers "stood by their original statement."

The Navy Department's version of the original statement was:

> Reported from Fire Island Lightship to the Naval Stations at Boston and New York at 3:30 A. M. on the 17th, an enemy submarine was sighted by the U. S. S. Smith, running apparently submerged. Submarine fired a torpedo at the U. S. S. Smith, which missed her by thirty yards. The wake of the torpedo was plainly seen crossing the bow. Submarine disappeared.

Whether the swift destroyer dashed for the spot where the U-boat was thought to be lurking was not made known by officers who had seen the Smith's report of the incident. Neither could it be learned here whether there was a chance for the Smith's quickfirers to come into action. It was learned, however, that another destroyer passed near the position mentioned in the Smith's report without sighting anything unusual.

Activity in Navy Department.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Government information that the United States destroyer Smith, engaged on the Atlantic coast patrol, had sighted a German submarine, which fired a torpedo at her, was received at the Navy Department early this morning and caused the naval authorities to take additional measures for overcoming possible submarine menace. The Government's information was such that no credence was placed in suggestions that the report was erroneous.

The scout cruiser Chester was near the Smith when the submarine was sighted. The U-boat disappeared. From Maine to the Chesapeake Capes destroyers, submarine chasers, and other units of the naval coast patrol are combing the seas for the submarine, while radio messages have been sent broadcast, warning any vessels making for the American coast to be on the alert for a U-boat and use their radio outfits in notifying American war vessels if the enemy craft is sighted.

The Navy Department credits the report officially made to it from the destroyer Smith, through the scout cruiser Chester and the Fire Island Lightship, and is acting on the theory that the Smith actually saw evidence of a German submarine and had a narrow escape.

Secretary Daniels said at 11:30 o'clock tonight that no additional report had been made by the Smith, and that while the Navy Department was without further particulars the information received in the original message was regarded as accurate by the Navy Department, and the navy was acting on the theory that there was a German submarine in American coastal waters.

"We are acting on the theory that this information is correct," said Secretary Daniels, "and have everything at work along the coast."

Near Steamship Lanes.

The location of the Smith when the submarine was sighted was not announced officially by the Navy Department, but the unofficial understanding is that it was near the intersection of 73 degrees west longitude and 40 degrees north latitude. This point is fifty-three miles slightly northeast of the entrance to Barnegat Bay, N. J.; seventy-five miles northeast of Absecon Light, Atlantic City; fifty-five miles southeast of Sandy Hook, thirty-nine miles south of Fire Island Inlet, on the Long Island coast, and 155 miles west of the Nantucket Shoals Light vessel, where the U-53 operated.

The point is midway between the steamer lanes from Northern Europe, British, French, and Mediterranean ports after they sight the Nantucket Shoals Lightship, and then diverge westward toward the entrances to New York Harbor and the Delaware Bay. Vessels passing up and down the Atlantic coast between New York and Cuba or Panama steam much closer to the coast, and their customary path is nearly fifty miles west of the point.

The impression is strong in well-informed quarters in Washington that the submarine reported by the Smith has been detached from the U-boat force operating off the Irish coast and sent to the American coast to try to dupli-

Mariners Here Doubt Report of U-Boat's Attack

Despite the reports that a German submarine had been sighted less than 100 miles from Sandy Hook, steamships were not diverted yesterday from going to sea. There was no advance in marine insurance rates, as it was said the underwriters would wait until they received confirmation of the sighting of the U-boat before taking action.

One marine insurance broker said that if the report proved correct, a meeting of the underwriters would be held today and the rates for coastwise and Atlantic insurance would be increased considerably.

Captains of some outbound steamships telephoned to the navy yard to know if there were any instructions regarding sailing from this port, and received word that there was nothing to communicate.

Up to 6 o'clock in the evening, when the Port of New York was closed, none of the incoming steamships had seen anything of a German submarine or mine-laying craft.

SENATE IS A UNIT FOR BOND ISSUE

BANKERS APPROVE LOAN

McAdoo, Confident of Success, Now Contemplates a First Offering of $3,000,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—All the factions in the Senate, which had had their varying views on the proper American policy before war was declared against the German Government, united today to push through by a unanimous vote the Administration's first important measure for prosecuting that war. By 84 votes to 0, the greatest bond bill in the history of the world, authorizing credits aggregating $7,000,000,000, was passed after a single day's debate. Although the Vice President appointed conferees tonight to expedite the final stages of the bill, it is believed that the House will accept the Senate amendments without insisting upon a conference. The bill had already passed the House by a unanimous vote.

The great measure carrying the provision for a loan of $3,000,000,000 to the Allies was under discussion for just seven hours. Whether a conference is held or not in a few hours the executive branch of the Government will have the great war chest at its disposition to conduct the war. The dominant thought in the debate was that in the inability of the nation to supply men at once for the fighting lines, money should be America's immediate contribution to her allies. The discussion was totally devoid of partisan expression. Every Senator speaking announced stanch intention to aid the Government in prosecuting the war to a speedy conclusion.

Included among the Senators who voted for the bond issue measure today were eight of the "wilful men" who now are members of the Senate, who blocked a vote on the Armed Ship bill in the last Congress. These were Senators La Follette, Stone, Gronna, Norris, Jones, Kirby, Vardaman, and Cummins. Senator Lane is ill.

While the debate was progressing Secretary McAdoo conferred with the Advisory Council of the Federal Reserve Board about the bond issue. Among the members of the Advisory Council who were present was J. P. Morgan of New York. Mr. McAdoo told the members of the council that he would advise with the leading financiers of the country as to the methods to be followed in the flotation of the bonds.

Senate Accepts Amendments.

All the amendments recommended yesterday by the Finance Committee were adopted without division by the Senate, as were other changes of a verbal sort. The substantive changes adopted today were accepted for the committee by Chairman Simmons, so that they caused no division. One of these, proposed by Mr. Weeks of Massachusetts, a Republican of the committee, gave the duration of the war as the time limit within which the authorized bonds might be converted if subsequent issues carried a higher rate of interest. The bill had limited this conversion privilege to Dec. 31, 1918.

Another amendment proposed by Mr. Weeks and accepted by Mr. Simmons limited the amount of receipts from the bonds to be deposited in banks and trust companies, not affiliated with the Federal Reserve system, to the amount withdrawn from each of these banks for subscription to the loan. Mr. Weeks explained that the proposal to deposit with nonmember banks was intended to encourage their participation in the loan and that his amendment simply would prevent financial dislocation.

The committee also accepted an amendment proposed by Mr. Pomerene of Ohio exempting the proposed bond issues from taxation by municipalities as well as by State and Federal Governments.

Divergent opinions were expressed as to both the fiscal and international policies embodied in the bill, but those expressing these views agreed that they had no desire to thwart the Administration's purpose and none of these major differences was forced to a vote. Mr. Stone of Missouri, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations; Mr. Borah of Idaho, and others thought that the amount of the needed war funds to be raised by immediate taxation should be increased, to lighten the burden on posterity.

Weeks's Amendments Defeated.

The only fight of the day came over two amendments proposed by Mr. Weeks with the same idea, one providing for the termination of the bonded debt in twenty years and one in thirty years. The first amendment was defeated by a vote of 40 to 40, the second by a vote of 37 to 42. When the tie vote was announced, the Vice President said:

"Without the vote of the Vice President, by the vote of 40 to 40 the amendment is lost. The Vice President knows nothing about it and refuses to vote."

Both Mr. Stone and his colleague, Mr. Reed, spoke against the committee's amendment permitting the deposit of bond receipts in banks not in the Federal Reserve system. Mr. Reed said that the system had been created with great care and hopes had been built on the assumption that all banks ultimately would join it. He said that the system should be made attractive to outside banks by such favors as permitting the deposit of Government funds only in member banks. This suggestion, however, was opposed by Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts, a Republican of the Finance Committee, who said:

"The United States is now at war.

SELECTIVE DRAFT WINS MAJORITY IN HOUSE COMMITTEE

Report May Be Unanimous, Chairman Dent Indicates, After Night Session.

NEW CONSCRIPTION AGES

NO TRYOUT OF VOLUNTEERS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Administration made such headway in the House Committee on Military Affairs today that the reporting of the Army Conscription bill, with but one material amendment, became a practical certainty. The bill is expected to go into the House within forty-eight hours; indications favor its report tomorrow afternoon.

The recalcitrants on the committee gradually lost ground today until the proponents of the selective draft gained the majority. On the showdown in committee it is not believed more than half a dozen members, mostly Democrats, will oppose the bill.

A change in the ages of the classes to be called out by the President under the selective draft plan is the only material modification to receive the approval of the House committee. Instead of a draft of men between the ages of 19 and 25 the House committee is expected to vote, and the Administration to accept, that the muster of men under the conscription plan shall be as follows: First call, eligible men between the ages of 20 and 25, inclusive; second call, ages 26 to 32; third, ages 33 to 37; fourth, ages 38 to 42. If a fifth class should be needed the ages would be between 43 and 48.

Consult Republican Leaders.

The President summoned to the White House Chairman Dent of the House Military Affairs Committee and two Republican leaders—Mr. Mann of Illinois and Mr. Lenroot of Wisconsin. It was made plain at these conferences that the Administration would not yield on the conscription issue.

Chairman Dent went to the White House with suggestions of a compromise bill providing for a tryout of the volunteer plan before conscription was put into effect. The same compromise was proposed while Secretary Baker was before the House committee. Both the President and the Secretary of War flatly rejected the proposition for a volunteer army, or an army half-volunteer and half-conscript.

The Secretary of War agreed to yield on certain minor features of the Administration measure; he would not budge on the fundamentals. Mr. Baker was before the House Committee in the morning and returned for a further conference and free discussion tonight. When the committee adjourned after 10 o'clock the Administration appeared for the first time to be in control of the situation and the Army bill was on the way to a favorable report.

Secretary Baker told the House Committee flatly tonight that the War Department's plan for the organization of an army by selective conscription was the only feasible way of meeting the emergency with Germany. After the committee adjourned Chairman Dent called all the Democratic members together in conference. He expressed hope of getting a unanimous report, despite the division in the committee over the draft provision. The committee will meet tomorrow for the final vote on the draft issue.

Representative Quin of Mississippi is said to have been one of the recalcitrant Democrats who fell into line after Secretary Baker's visit to the committee. Representative Fields of Kentucky, who voted "present" on the test vote, is expected to support the bill after the change relating to the ages of the men drafted for service. Mr. Fields objected to a bill providing for a call of men between the ages of 19 and 25 only.

In the House the Administration has been gaining recruits for the bill for a week.

Impatient at the Delay.

The Administration made it entirely clear today that it had no intention of yielding an inch on any essential part of its program for raising an army by conscription.

The subject was discussed at a brief Cabinet meeting. There were many evidences that the President and his advisers were becoming impatient over Congressional delay in giving the Government support in its war program, and it was hinted that unless the House showed greater readiness to acquiesce in the President's policy it was possible that he would take means to tell the country who was holding up army preparations. It was recalled that on March 4 last, the day the Sixty-fourth Congress ended, he publicly scored the "little group of willful men" who killed the armed neutrality bill in the Senate.

President Wilson and Secretary Baker take the position that further delay on the Army bill will endanger the war plans against Germany. There were intimations that the President did not mince words in expressing his views of the seriousness of the present problem in talking with Mr. Dent this afternoon.

After the Cabinet meeting it was indicated that the full influence of the Administration would be concentrated on the passage of the army measure.

Cruiser Birmingham Halts British Ship Off Nantucket

BOSTON, April 17.—The United States cruiser Birmingham reported by radio today that she had halted the British steamship Southdown by a shot across her bow off Nantucket Lightship this morning. The steamer was allowed to proceed after an examination. The message said:

"Fired shots across bow of British merchant vessel Southdown—10:25 A. M. Latter allowed to proceed—two and a half miles east of lightship."

No further details were given, and naval officers did not seem inclined to attach much significance to the incident except as it showed the strict watch kept over all shipping in these waters.

No steamer Southdown is listed in available maritime registers, but the British steamer Southerndown has been a familiar figure in Atlantic waters.

BIG PROGRAM FOR WAR CONFERENCES

Six Major Subjects to be Discussed with French and British Commissions.

HOST OF EXPERTS COMING

Charles R. Crane En Route to Russia to Prepare Way for an American Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—In addition to a better international understanding and the arrangements for furnishing financial assistance to some of the Entente Allies the British commission, headed by Foreign Minister Balfour, will specifically take up with the United States Government the matters of blockade, naval operations, munitions, military dispositions and resources, and foodstuffs. Officials who are authorities in each of these subjects are to accompany Mr. Balfour. The party, exclusive of assistants and clerks, consists of twenty persons divided among these branches of the British Government: Foreign Office, 5; Blockade Department, 5; Admiralty, 2; Finance, 1; Munitions, 2; War Office, 4; Wheat, 1.

At some unstated time in the near future the French Commission will come to Washington for a conference with President Wilson and officers of the United States Government. The subjects to be considered will be generally similar to those to be taken up by the Balfour Commission.

It was admitted today that the United States would send a commission to Russia to confer with that Government. Charles R. Crane of Chicago, who has lived in Russia and has had large business dealings in that country, will be a sort of advance agent at Petrograd for the commission.

The composition of the commission is not disclosed, but there is expectation that it will consist of men of the highest ability and standing. A report that Secretary McAdoo would head a commission to be sent to France was denied and it was explained that the denial probably would apply to Mr. McAdoo's membership on any commission sent to Russia.

With reference to the coming of the British commission, there is no disposition anywhere to drive a bargain of any kind with Great Britain. No radical differences of opinion are expected between American and British conferees. The whole atmosphere of the Washington Government suggests a desire to reach agreements quickly.

Some officials expressed the opinion today that the British Commissioners would find this country better prepared for the part it would play in the war than was understood in England. It was said that the United States was ready for action, being in entire agreement with the necessary policies of the Entente Allies and that the more difficult problems would not relate in any manner to military, naval, or economic matters.

A dinner in honor of the commission, probably to be marked by speeches referring to the entrance of the United States into the world war, will be given by President Wilson soon after the arrival of the visitors in Washington.

Precautions have been adopted by the British and United States Governments to prevent any publicity being given as to the whereabouts of the commission until it actually reaches Washington, as it is believed that the Germans will make an extraordinary effort to sink the vessel upon which Mr. Balfour and his associates sailed. This belief is based on the fact, now disclosed, that the Channel liner Sussex, which was sunk in the English Channel on March 24, 1916, was attacked by a U-boat on the supposition that she was carrying the late Earl Kitchener, British Minister for War, from England to France.

The secrecy concerning the movements of the commission is to be extended to the rail journey from the port of arrival.

ARGENTINA WILL ASK GERMANY TO EXPLAIN

Immediate Answer, It Is Said, Will Be Required Concerning Sinking.

BUENOS AIRES, April 17.—The fact having been established that the Argentine sailing vessel Monte Protegido was sunk by a German submarine, the Argentine Government, it is stated on good authority, has decided to demand an immediate explanation from Germany.

The German Minister is said to have intimated to the Argentine Government the possibility of an assurance that in the future no Argentine vessel will be attacked by the Germans under certain conditions.

The German Minister has withdrawn his protest relative to the recent hostile manifestations, in view of the fact, as he himself expressed it, that they were not due to Argentineans.

Supporters of the Allies and advocates of neutrality clashed last night during a street demonstration. Several persons were injured.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 17.—In replying to the Brazilian note announcing the breaking off of relations with Germany the Chilean Government today expressed to Brazil its sympathetic appreciation of the motives actuating that nation.

Chile called attention to the fact that she, as well as Brazil, had protested against the inauguration of unrestricted submarine warfare by Germany, and said that countries which had thus defined their concept of neutrality must henceforth be guided by facts, and not by sentimental considerations.

FRENCH PIERCE NEW 11-MILE FRONT; 13,500 GERMANS TAKEN IN TWO DAYS; STRIKES AND WARNING WORDS IN BERLIN

HARDEN SPEAKS OUT PLAINLY

In Thinly Veiled Language Warns Germany of Defeat.

WHEN SHE SEES THE LIGHT

'What the Enemy Demands Too Loudly, but We in Secret Feel to be Necessity, Will Come.'

WARNING BY OTHER CRITICS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 18.—According to The Times this morning, Maximilian Harden is now preaching the doctrine that Germany's best hope of saving the situation is to hasten constitutional reforms. If she did that, he suggests that peace negotiations might begin this year by both sides abandoning their faith in the possibility of a military decision of the war.

In the current number of Die Zukunft he declares and enlarges on all these subjects and permits himself to make fun of the Kaiser's Easter rescript. He points out that there was no evidence whatever for the statement in the rescript that the Kaiser at the very beginning of the war ordered "preliminary work" to be done with a view to the reform of the Prussian franchise. He shows that the rescript contains absolutely nothing that is new, and he suggests the object of publication was to show that the Kaiser and the Chancellor, King of Prussia and Minister President, are as one, and that Bethmann Hollweg's wishes do not go beyond those of the most orthodox Prussian Ministers, like Herr von Loebell and Baron von Schorlemer.

But the most interesting parts of the articles are those in which Harden indicates that the general outlook, unless Germany can be saved by conversion to democracy, is as black as can be. He disposes first of the idea that Germany can profit from the Russian revolution, and says:

"The Russian today sees a goal, on reaching which he hopes to be compensated for all his suffering, and he knows that his ideal, which is now breaking into leaf, must return to darkness if the war brought him only loss. Consequently, we must reckon with the possibility that he will endure the war bravely and patiently."

Harden then says:

"Bagdad English, the advanced troops of the British and the Russians in contact on the frontier of Persia, wide areas of the soil of France once more in the possession of the republic, China's revolt from Germany, the success of the British at Arras, a new community with 100,000,000 Americans who desire for themselves neither land nor money nor even repayment of the cost of the war, and who, with their ideal solution work upon the nerves of all mankind, confident in the hope of Central America and South America—in these circumstances is it possible for any sober man who does not want to blush before our warriors to say in his madness that the results of these 'three months have wearied our enemies and set them whimpering for feeble peace?'"

Harden indicates the effect upon French opinion of the German devastations in France by quoting the resolution of the French Senate and adding:

"Since April 1 this resolution has been posted on the walls of every French community. Every word burns with unquenchable wrath, and no peace bells can be heard from the Island Empire, which is surrounded by our submarines and mines, nor from the telegrams exchanged by the enemy commanders. What use would be a contradiction? Of how much less use would it be to raise hopes of peace which might be followed by disappointment and a dangerous weariness that must not be. Close the sacred circle and in the anxious time of waiting set your house in order."

Harden concludes on what The Times calls his highest democratic note:

"Our fate depends, not on bits of territory which European States can no longer take away from one another and can no longer hold to their own permanent advantage, but upon the acquisition of higher spiritual values. Elevate the conscience of mankind and light up the German house also! Then what the enemy demands too loudly, but what we in secret feel to be a necessity, will come to pass. The will of the people will be free and Germany will know for what the dearest children of her bosom are dying and suffering!"

ATTACKS OFFER TO RUSSIA.

Reventlow Calls It as Idiotic as the Mexican Plot.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 17.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns in well-informed Dutch circles that a difference of opinion regarding the political and military situation and its possibilities exists in competent German circles. Further details are not available, but the violent attacks by Count von Reventlow on the German civil Government, especially Foreign Secretary Zimmermann, illustrated the strained situation.

Reventlow says the terms wherewith

126,000 Strike in Berlin; Munitions Makers Among Them; Trouble Thought to Be Over on Monday Now Renewed

Special Cable to The New York Times.

THE HAGUE, April 17.—A message from Berlin says that 126,000 workers are now on strike in Berlin. The Tageblatt admits that a considerable number of these are munition workers.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 18.—According to a dispatch from Copenhagen, the National Tidende's Berlin correspondent says that some of the ammunition factories in Germany have been affected by the strike. Most of them, however, are being operated. Leaflets urging peace are being distributed at various places among the workmen. There have been no disorders.

Advices received in Amsterdam from Berlin and forwarded here say that work was resumed today in a majority of the factories which were idle yesterday.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

BERLIN, April 16, (via The Hague.)—It was freely predicted that Sunday would see great demonstrations on the part of the laboring element under the pretext of a protest against the diminished bread rations. Hundreds of thousands of people were out to enjoy the finest Spring day, but there was no sign of any intended disturbance anywhere. Various organizations for food distribution had succeeded during the week in convincing the labor committees that there were other kinds of food enough to last till next harvest if the bread rations had diminished, and the evidence produced sufficed to reassure the large labor organizations, who gave out word that no demonstrations must take place, and that everybody must remain at work Monday.

This message seems not to have reached the employes of a few suburban factories in the metal and wood line and certain factions of the Transport Union, who did not report for work or left off at noon. There was no strike, however, in the large munition factories, and the street cars, underground trains, and buses of Berlin ran as usual. In factories where strikes took place pamphlets agitating for an early peace were distributed, but their confused contents were sufficient proof that organized labor was not responsible for their publication.

During the morning and afternoon a few hundred workers, mostly boys and girls, hardly any men, marched through the principal streets and asked employes in business places to join them, but THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent who followed the procession did not observe a single case in which this solicitation was successful. In a few isolated cases the police saw fit to bar the way against the demonstrators to the centre of the city, but there was no need of violence anywhere.

There were various meetings in the forenoon, the principal one being at Labor Hall or Gewerkschaftshaus, where the presiding officers of the organizations reported on the disclosures of the authorities regarding the food situation and expressed their conviction that the Government would keep its promises.

In Charlottenburg a labor deputation called on the Lord Mayor, or Oberburgermeister, who received them in company of two Socialist Aldermen. The deputation simply stated the wishes of the laboring element regarding food distribution and left quite satisfied with the information accorded.

Later in the evening the strikers notified the factories that they would be at work tomorrow.

There was no strike at Spandau, nor, as far as is known, in any other German city.

BRITISH PREPARE FOR NEW ATTACK

ARMY WORKING BEHIND LINE

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, April 17.—For the moment there seems to be inactivity along the British front because today there were no great advances to record and no sensational battles. It is only a false quietude which may deceive and disappoint the people at home, but does not hearten the enemy, who knows as well as any of us out here who see the terrific energy at work behind the British lines, that the great British war machine is closing in upon him, and that when the word is given, it will strike him at another vital point, and not before that word is said.

To me there is something awful, like fate itself, in this deliberate unhurried war while we wait and prepare for the exact time of delivering another blow, which shall be smashing in effect and not merely theatrical byplay, to get applause from the gallery, which is filled with the world's onlookers. So it is with Lens. The British Generals might be tempted to risk many fine lives against all those machine guns and redoubts which are concealed among the streets in order to satisfy the popular imagination, which is impatient to get this news. They are bigger men than that now. Lens will be in British hands as soon as they care to take it, and the enemy knows that, and is still burning and destroying while he is given time to stay.

But British strategy aims at something more than the entry into the ruins of this mining town. The enemy knows full well that the British captured documents to prove that he knows that the British menace is to smash through the switch lines of the Hindenburg line which they already have broken round about Arras. So that all his system of defense is pierced and his retreat made enormously unsafe. Meanwhile the enemy is working day and night to strengthen his Wotan switch line, which strikes down from Drocourt to Queant, where it joins the Siegfried line, and so on to the Albrecht line by Laon. Very strong in parts, it is patchy and weak in others, with shallow trenches or trenches just begun, and without dugouts or gun emplacements, showing that the time table of the German General Staff failed in reckoning with the speed of the British advance. But the Germans are amazingly quick workers, and, if given time, they will make the Wotan line formidable to assault. The British are working in order not to give them time, and are not idling.

Behind the lines it is like a world in movement, with tides of the swirling traffic of transport wagons and motor lories and horses and mules and guns. Always guns are moving, monster howitzers, long muzzle guns, and field batteries. In the battles of the Somme, the big guns did not have to be moved far during the first few weeks, because the ground was only gained by yards. We have gone so far and so quickly forward this year that the guns have to follow up hard, and it is hard following on roads that are broken down under the stress of six months of the most

A GREAT VICTORY NEAR, PARIS SAYS

GEN. MANGIN AS DIRECTOR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 17.—The big French offensive now in full swing between Soissons and Rheims and developing on a wider front is something for which informed circles in Paris have been waiting several days. It is something to which I have made several allusions in previous dispatches, but even now on account of good military reasons I cannot discuss it too freely.

In my cable dispatch, which appeared in THE TIMES on March 28, I referred to that first great retreat of the Germans to the Hindenburg line as being possibly the beginning of "the last great battle of the war." In view of information now in my possession, and also inasmuch as a progressive series of big attacks all are nowadays referred to as part of the same long drawn battle, I am far more optimistic today than on that day in March that that possibility to which I referred is correct.

In an interview which Marshal Joffre gave to the American correspondents last September he said: "The German Army will crack." Therefore, to use plainer words than my foregoing reference, I believe that today the German Army is cracking, and is cracking fast—at least, that portion of it on the western front. Today also it is easier for everybody to understand Nivelle's and Haig's tactics that are likely to make the crack spread very wide. To use another simile, time worn but best illustrative, last week the British Army landed a left hook that certainly staggered the already groggy "champion" and made him "cover" that portion of his anatomy as much as possible in order to avoid another blow in the same place. While in the process of that operation the French Army yesterday landed a right wallop that is today making him think of covering somewhere else. It was not a swinging right wallop that in itself would reach the solar plexus—it was not dealt exactly at the solar plexus—but it went home true with about the same force as the British blow a week ago, and it went just where it was meant to go.

Today, this very afternoon, the French right is swinging again—this time swinging low and far out—and there is a horseshoe concealed in the glove that may mean a knockout very soon. Even before this dispatch reaches America there may be fresh news to show a new mark upon the Teuton's body over on his left side near the heart. And meanwhile the deadly British left is preparing to develop further consideration.

As a matter of fact, so optimistic is

FRENCH HOLD GROUND WON

Beat Off Counterattacks Near Craonne and on Both Sides of Rheims.

BRITISH ALSO GO FORWARD

Make Progress Toward Le Catelet and Cambrai—A Lull in Lens District.

PARIS, April 17.—The French troops struck another blow today on a new line, the eleven-mile stretch of front east of Rheims from Prunay to Auberive. Over the entire front the German front line positions were captured while the support positions from Mt. Carnillet, southeast of Nauroy, to Vaudesincourt, a distance of about seven miles, a line of heights solidly organized, fell into the hands of the French. The extreme depth of the advance was about two miles. By the extension of the attack east of Rheims today the battle is now raging over a front of about 150 miles.

Prisoners taken today number 2,500 and with the 11,000 captured yesterday on the Aisne the grand total in two days' fighting is 13,500.

The French attack was delivered in violent rain and snow storms and the bad weather made the uphill fighting extremely difficult, but as General Nivelle reports tonight, "our troops proved themselves irresistible." The newly captured positions were immediately consolidated and it was only at Mt. Carnillet that the Germans attempted a counterattack. This attempt was speedily broken up by the French fire.

At Auberive, the extreme easterly point of the advance, the French found a strongly fortified position, the German line running in a salient around the village. The French, however, were not to be denied, and they swept clear over the position, occupying the village. It was Auberive which served as the western pivot of the great French drive in Champagne in 1915.

Rheims Now in a Salient.

The French advance on both sides of Rheims leaves the city in a salient which is likely to prove very dangerous to the Germans. Northwest of the city, where the French have taken the enemy's second-line positions, there are no great natural barriers in their way, so that a further advance in this region would automatically force the enemy out of his strong positions in the Rheims forts, from which he has bombarded the cathedral city at will.

Further details regarding the great attack yesterday on the front from Soissons to Rheims show that the Germans had brought up nineteen divisions or about 400,000 men in preparation for the offensive. The magnitude of General Nivelle's victory, therefore, is the more marked. On the high plateau north of the Aisne the French have reached the crest of the ridge west of Craonne. Here the Germans launched two counterattacks today in considerable force, but they broke down under a withering fire. The plateau is seamed with valleys, and the French advanced up these depressions, exposed to a heavy fire from all sides. They took advantage, however, of every bit of cover and an exceedingly heavy artillery barrage was thrown ahead of them. This kept down their losses while at the same time inflicting great damage on the defenders, as prisoners testify.

The struggle was hottest east of Loivre, as well as in the whole sector of Berry-au-Bac and to the east of Craonnelle, but the French heavy shells were too much for the Germans, and before noon the whole first line was won. On the right the action began a little later in the morning. The French met with a very determined resistance and the fighting was terrible. The losses of the Germans, all told, are said to be in the neighborhood of 100,000. In capturing Loivre they have drawn nearer to Bermericourt and have gone far beyond the famous position which they lost in the first weeks of the war and failed to win back at the battle of the Marne.

Advance of Two and One-Half Miles.

The French advance averages in depth from two to two and a half miles beyond the German first position, which is composed of lines of five and six trenches, one behind another.

It is worthy of note that the War Office's report tonight gives credit to the Russian contingent for its defense of the new positions in front of Courcy, on the Aisne-Marne Canal. This is the first big attack in which the Russians have taken part since they came to France more than a year ago.

> We enlarged our action today east of Rheims and attacked the German lines between Prunay and the road between St. Hilaire and St. Souplet.

Notwithstanding violent gusts of rain and snow our troops proved themselves irresistible. They carried on a front of fifteen kilometers, (nine and a third miles,) despite the resistance of the enemy, all the first German position south of Moronvilliers.

Pushing beyond this position our troops brilliantly carried on a front of eleven kilometers (about seven miles) a line of heights solidly organized from Mont Carnillet as far east as Vaudesincourt.

Further to the east a spirited action enabled us to capture the village of Auberive and a powerfully fortified salient formed by the German line around the village on a front of three kilometers.

Counterattacks by the enemy in the direction of Mont Carnillet were broken down by our fire. The number of prisoners taken by us on this part of the front exceeded 2,500.

About 3:30 o'clock this afternoon a strong enemy counterattack in the region of Hurtebise Farm (west of Craonne) was repulsed. Another violent attempt in the sector of Courcy, occupied by the Russian troops, likewise failed.

According to latest reports our troops in the battle of April 16, between Soissons and Rheims, overthrew very important German forces. In expectation of our attack the enemy had brought in nineteen divisions, (380,000 men.) According to the declarations of prisoners they had received the formal order to hold, cost what it may, the first position, which had been reinforced as to depth.

The losses suffered by the Germans were considerable, not only in the course of the battle, but on the preceding days. On the eve of the attack an enemy division while engaged in going to the relief of the sector of a neighboring division lost under the violence of our artillery fire the greater part of its effectives.

The number of unwounded prisoners taken by us yesterday between Soissons and Rheims has reached a total of 11,000.

The statement issued this afternoon follows:

North and south of the Oise there was intermittent artillery fighting. Our patrols brought back prisoners.

Between Soissons and Rheims our troops are organising the positions captured. In the region of Ailles a strong German counterattack on our new lines was broken up by oud artillery and machine-gun fire, which inflicted severe losses on the enmy. Other German counterattacks in the sector of Courcy also were broken up. The weather continues to be very bad over the whole front.

In Champagne the night was marked by more active artillery fighting west of Auberive. Everywhere else the night was calm.

In the period between April 10 and 15 our pilots accomplished numerous exploits. Captain Lécourt, Captain Grandmaison, sub-Lieutenant Languedoc, and Sergeant Rousseau brought down each his fith German machine. Lieutenant Pinsart accounted for three enemy airplanes, bringing up to eight the number to the credit of this officer. Adjutant Vitalis destroyed his seventh adversary, Lieutenant Deullin his thirteenth, and Captain Guynemer scored his thirty-sixth victory.

GERMANS TRAPPED IN AISNE QUARRIES

Irresistible French Advance Cut Them Off, Taking Thousands of Prisoners.

GRAND HEADQUARTERS OF THE FRENCH ARMY, ON THE FRENCH FRONT, Monday Night, April 16.—Not only did the French army get astride and partly around the so-called Hindenburg line today, but in doing so they captured many thousands of German prisoners. After one of the most intensive artillery bombardments of the war the French today advanced along another twenty-five miles of the front. Shells were poured daily into the German positions, and this morning, from north of Soissons to just west of Rheims, the French infantry started the work for which they had been patiently waiting.

The Germans opposed the advance with their utmost power, bringing into play thousands of cannon and machine guns, which had been emplaced in the most advantageous positions. Nothing, however, could withstand the gallantry and skill of the French, whose ardor was strengthened by the sight of the desolation through which they passed.

The correspondent of The Associated Press watched one phase of the battle from a prominent position in the new French advance. The brigade with which he was stationed was composed of troops who had won the highest fame in pushing back the Germans around Verdun. Now, as then, it was under the command of a Colonel, who proudly informed the correspondent that he had fought beside both Americans and British in the boxer uprising. Part of the brigade's task today was the capture of a position forming one of the most difficult problems along the line owing to its being undermined for its whole length and breadth by deeply tunneled quarries, whose galleries were immune to artillery and bristling with machine guns.

There was no hesitation among the French soldiers when the order to advance was given, but they did not throw their lives away. There was no hurry; every movement was executed as though on parade. Advantage was taken of every inch of cover, and thus the infantrymen were able to approach up the sloping ground until within striking distance of the numerous entrances to the tunnels. They then encircled the whole plateau, and left sufficient men around to prevent the garrison's retreat or its communication with the main body of the Germans. Its fate was then sealed.

Meanwhile the bulk of the French troops continued their advance, both here and on other parts of the line. Telephonic reports from various sectors told of the successes, sometimes big, sometimes small, of the different corps engaged. Everywhere behind the advancing French, batches of German prisoners were to be seen on their way to captivity. Before evening more than 10,000 had been counted, and others were arriving. Some of the prisoners told of exceedingly severe losses, their companies being reduced in several cases from 250 to 80 men or thereabout. All seemed pleased over their capture, some of them saying that there would be many desertions except for the constant vigilance of their superiors, as most of them were tired of the war.

ALLIES NOW FIGHTING ON 100-MILE FRONT

FRENCH FRONT ABOVE THE AISNE, Monday, April 16.—Rather more than 25 miles have been added to the field of recoil of the Allies, which now extends over 100 miles. That is the most momentous thing about the new battle, a sector of which I have been watching since last night's storm clouds fell away behind the mountains.

The artillery preparation has been upon a prodigious scale. Between Friday afternoon and 6 o'clock this morning big quantities of shells were thrown into the enemy's lines along the Aisne heights. At night time, thirty miles away, the cannonade sounded like a number of muffled typewriters working continuously in the next room. When I passed through Soissons by the first glimmer of the cold gray dawn this morning it swelled to a nearly unbroken roll of thunder. On the front itself it was as though a score of invisible goods trains were being raced by insane drivers to and fro, smashing through piles of wooden boxes every few yards of their passage.

When the infantry began to go forward the storm somewhat subsided, except at points where the barrage fire had to be maintained or a portion of the field submitted to a special hammering. Never, however, has the preponderant part played by big guns in modern battle been so evident as it is today. The enemy must have lost very heavily before the infantry came into action and there was today pitiful evidence even in the case of Germans so lightly wounded that they could walk to the rear, of the nerve-shattering effect of this sustained gunfire. The German prisoners show it to be as real as any wounds.

The ground chosen for today's attacks was one of the most difficult as well as one of the most important parts of the western front. This would evidently be defended with the utmost obstinacy unless we were to suppose the Hinderburg line was nothing but imposture. On the right the ground is of the same character with an edge of lowland added which runs north from near Rheims to the edge of Laon and the mountains of Craonne.

The marked progress made in this last sector, and especially near Juvincourt, is most promising. These hills defied the British and French armies in succession since the battle of the Marne. They rise along the famous road called Chemin des Dames to 630 feet, which is an ascent of nearly 600 feet in six miles from the Aisne Valley. The elevation is not serious, as there are good roads.

The things that make the plateau an almost ideal defensive position are its numerous and sharply cut valleys, and its base of solid limestone, with guns easily hidden in a hundred wooded bottoms and its stone-built villages and hillside caverns, are so many first-class modern fortresses.

BERLIN ADMITS WITHDRAWAL.

"Our Object to Spare Lives of Our Forces," Says German Report.

BERLIN, April 17, (via London.)—One of the greatest battles of the war is in progress on the Aisne, according to the announcement of the War Office today. The official statement says that huge French forces were thrown into the attack, which extended from Soupir on the Aisne to Betheny, north of Rheims. The battle swayed backward and forward over threnches which had been leveled by the artillery fire, but the French faile dto mreak through. Extremely heavy losses, it is said, were inflicted on the enemy, who also lost more ah n 2,100 prisoners.

The fighting extended this morning to the Champagne district, where there was "bitter fighting throughout the day on both sides of Auberive.

The text of the staeement follows:

Oneof the greatest battles of the mighty was, and, therefore, also in the history of the world, is in progress on the Aisne.

Since April 6 preparatory fire by the artillery and mine-throwers had continued uninterruptedly. By this fire, which was unprecedented in duration, volume and intensity, the French endeavored to render our poshitions ripe for assault, put out batteries out of action, and exhaust our troops.

Early yesterday morning the French, on a front forty kilometers wide, launched, with the object of beraking through, a deep column attack from Soupir on the Aisne to Bethany, north of Rheims, with the huge weight of strong infantry forces fed by reserves which had been brought up in the rear.

During the afternoon the French throw fresh masses into the fray and carried out lateral attacks against our front between the Oise and Condé-sur-Aisne. The artillery fight, which was continued today, leveled the positions and produced wide, deep craters, rendering an obstinate defense no longer possible.

The fighting is no longer against a line, but over quite a deep and irregular fortified zone. The battle swayed backward and forward around the foremost positions, ou robject being, even if war material weer lost, to spare the lives of our forces and inflist heavy, sanguinary losses upon the enemy and thus decisively weaken him. This was achieved, thanks to splendid leadership and the heroic bravery of our troops.

The great French attempt to break through yesterday, the object of which was far-reaching, failed. The sanguinary losses of the enemy were very heavy, and more than 2,100 prisoners remained in our hands. Where the enemy at a few places penetrated into our lines the fighting still continues and fresh enemy attacks are expected.

In Champagne this morning fighting between Prunay and Auberive has developed, the battle line therebq extending from the Oise into the Champagne.

The troops look forward with entire confidence to the coming heavy fighting.

A supplementary statement, issued this evening, follows:

After failure with aevy losses of the French attempt to break through our lines they have not renewed their attacks on the Aisne.

CANADIAN CAVALRY IN ACTION.

Performed Daring Deeds During German Retreat, Ottawa Reports.

OTTAWA, April 17.—Successes by Canada's cavalry in recent fighting at the front are described in an unofficial dispatch received here today from Canadian Headquarters in France.

During the enemy's recent withdrawal, the dispatch recounts, Canadian horsemen were used to keep the retiring infantry on the move, accomplishing this with such success that within four days six villages were captured, including three which were well organized. This advance was made ahead of the Entente infantry on a twelve-mile front to a depth of six and a half miles.

"This cavalry dash into the enemy's lines," the dispatch reads, "was one of the first operations of the sort on the western front since the Marne campaign, and it furnished many incidents that, but for the great events taking place elsewhere, would have afforded much material for descriptive writers.

"The most dramatic of all is the case of a young Lieutenant who, while leading his troops to the attack on one of the villages the Canadians captured, came upon a trench protected by three strands of wire and occupied by twenty Germans who had a machine gun. The Lieutenant jumped from his horse and ran straight for the machine gun, clearing the wire. In the best cross-country running form he sprang at the machine-gunner and captured the gun. He found out afterward that the unexpected appearance of a body of horsemen had made the gunner nervous and prevented him from getting into action before being shot down. A second's hesitation on the part of the horseman would have meant many casualties to the men of his troop."

Another dispatch from Canadian Headquarters says that "the enemy resistance east of the Vimy Ridge has stiffened." The message says the Germans seem to be "burning everything of value" in Lens, and points out that, while the mines in the Lens district may be wrecked, "the coal remains and new shafts will be sunk."

"Everybody on this front has been greatly encouraged by the good news from the south of Arras," the cablegram adds.

Of 4,000 Germans captured in the battle of Vimy, the dispatch declared, more than 800 required medical attention, and the theory is advanced that this large percentage of wounded indicates that the Entente bombardment "produced a panic among the German infantry" who garrisoned the ridge.

Although no official figures are available, it is understood that officers' casualties already received dating back to April 8 number more than 400. These include 300 Lieutenants wounded. Most of these casualties occurred in the first three days of the Canadian drive.

Today's casualty list includes the following Americans:

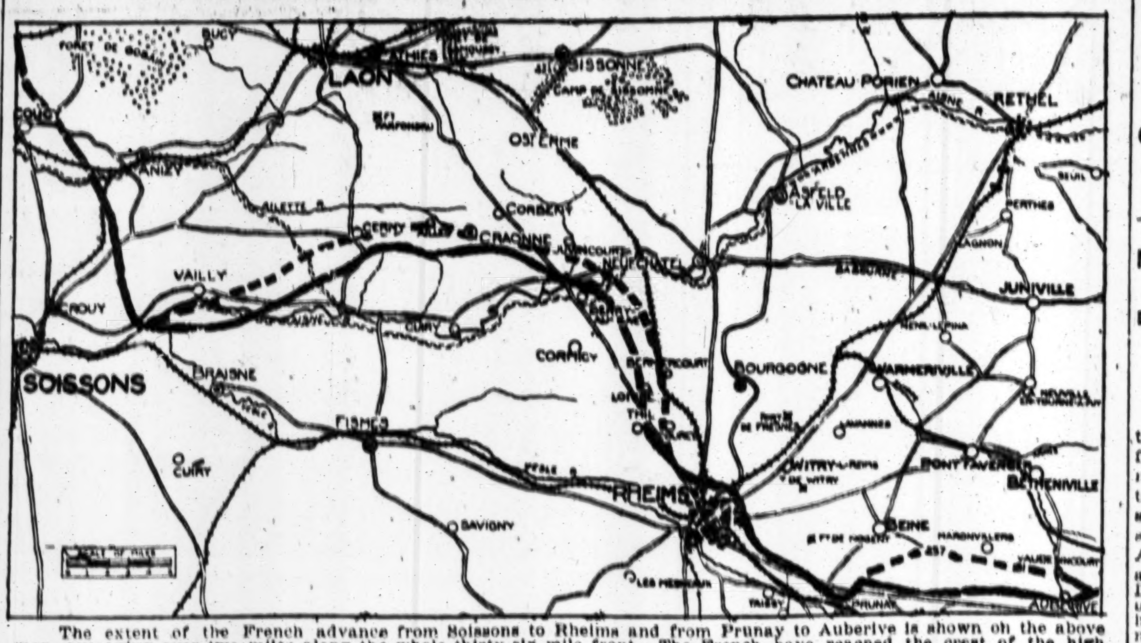
Missing: Lieutenant W. F. Bynum, Richmond, Va.

The French Gains East and West of Rheims.



The extent of the French advance from Soissons to Rheims and from Prunay to Auberive is shown on the above map, averaging over two miles along the whole thirty-six mile front. The French have reached the crest of the high plateau north of the Aisne, as well as the important heights east of Rheims.

VOTE SIX MONTHS' LIFE TO PARLIAMENT

NATIONALISTS OPPOSE IT

Dillon Attacks the Government for Alienating Irish Confidence in English Fair Play.

LONDON, April 17.—All possibility of the country being disturbed in the near future by a general election was removed tonight, when by a vote of 286 to 52 the House of Commons passed on second reading the bill for the extension of the life of the Parliament from April 30 until November. The Nationalists, whose chief spokesman was John Dillon, were the chief opponents of the bill, on the ground that no solution of home rule for Ireland had yet been announced.

Andrew Bonar Law, in concluding the debate on behalf of the Government, admitted that a solution of the home rule problem would be a great advantage in the prosecution of the war. The Government, therefore, was most anxious, he said, for a settlement, and was hopeful that the spirit the war had produced in Ulster would create an atmosphere favorable to a settlement now instead of one deferred until after the war. Premier Lloyd George's statement on the Government's intentions, Mr. Bonar Law said, had been postponed until next week. He asserted that there never had been a time when there was so much good will existing on this question, and that it was needless to despair of arriving at a solution.

In his speech moving the second reading of the bill, Mr. Bonar Law said that the British troops were engaged in the greatest operation since the beginning of the war, and were meeting with success which exceeded his expectations. It would be highly disadvantageous, he said, if the country should be plunged into the turmoil of an election, with the possibility of a division, which would certainly divert the energies of the nation from the prosecution of the war.

Mr. Dillon, moving in behalf of the Irish Nationalists the rejection of the bill, said the Nationalists would vote against the measure at every stage. The present Government, he said, appeared to be no nearer a solution of the Irish question than ever, and was continuing a state of things in which the Nationalist Party in the House of Commons could rightly be taunted with the fact that it could not speak for Ireland.

At the root of the terrible situation in Ireland today, Mr. Dillon said, was the fact that the Nationalist Party's work, extending over thirty-five years of instilling into the minds of the Irish people the belief that, whatever had been their treatment in the past, there was a sense of justice and fair play in England, if it could only be reached, had been undone by the repeated disappointments and breaches of faith and the contempt with which the advice of the Nationalists regarding the conduct of recruiting in Ireland and the whole campaign in favor of the war had been treated.

"Although for thirty-five years," he said, "the Nationalists have been subjected in Ireland and in America to vigorous reproaches, abuse, and vilification by their own people, they have succeeded in converting twenty-nine out of every thirty people to their view. The Government now is converting them back by tens of thousands to the old view and undoing to a very large extent the life work of the Nationalists and at the same time increasing the power of the republican party in Ireland."

Mr. Dillon urged the Government in any settlement it proposed not to present again any mutilated measure. It must produce, he said, some solution that would strike at the imagination of the Irish people.

One of the first acts of the Government at this session will be to offer in both houses resolutions welcoming the entry of America into the war. These will be moved on Wednesday by Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons and by Lord Curzon in the House of Lords. It is expected that former Premier Asquith will second the resolution in the Commons.

REVENTLOW HITS OFFER TO RUSSIA

the German Government officially supported the peace offer to Russia were nearly as idiotic as Zimmermann's attempts to stir up trouble in Mexico and Japan. Reventlow reproaches the apologetic tone used toward Russia regarding the recent advance on the Stokhod.

"Russia is our enemy—dare we say it now * * *" He adds: "If it is intended to abandon all our war aims in the east it would have been better to court-martial the German General responsible for the 'strategic necessity' on the Stokhod and send the Socialist representatives to the Hindenburg staff."

Captain Persius in the Tageblatt points out that it is the greatest mistake to under-estimate the power of the American Navy, as numerous naval critics have recently done. He calls the American dreadnoughts and superdreadnoughts the finest specimens of their class, and says that there is no likelihood of a shortage of men, and that the American ships are famous for their gunnery. Moreover, it will be wise to reckon that the British and American Admiralties will not find any difficulties in arranging close co-operation.

The American navy is admittedly weak in light cruisers and Captain Persius is doubtful whether the submarine chasers will prove as effective as the Americans hope, but he warns his country that American ingenuity is likely to prove an awkward factor and advises them to face the fact that the existence of the American marine, plus the seized German vessels, considerably alter the outlook.

Although Capt. Perius's statements are true in appearance and form the article, probably has political importance. The sort of article against which he writes is a statement by Professor Wygodsinski, who makes an effort to cheer up his countrymen's spirit by assuring them that America is about to starve.

AUSTRIA IS HUNGRY FOR A QUICK PEACE

Would Hail Any Settlement That Would Leave Empire Intact, Says Observer.

BERNE, Monday, April 16, (via Paris, April 17.)—Peace and Spring weather are what the Austrian and Hungarian people most desire. During a long stay in Vienna, whence The Associated Press correspondent has just come, there was observed every indication that the Government and the people were willing to accept any peace proposal leaving Austro-Hungarian territory intact and making no claims for war indemnity. By the same token, there appears to be no doubt that the monarchy will continue fighting unless these minimum conditions are met. While the public is extremely weary of the war, its mind is made up to persist in the struggle to the end rather than accept humiliating terms.

The demands made on Austria-Hungary's economic resources and human reservoir by the war are beginning to reach the limit of bearableness, and the severe Winter, whose after effects are still felt, tended to increase the great burden borne by the population. The sowing of crops is about three weeks behind, which causes considerable anxiety, notwithstanding the fact that the Winter crops are reported as in good condition. Spring weather is awaited eagerly for the planting of potatoes and other Summer crops.

The lateness of the season has been the cause of deferring the calling to the colors of recent levies of recruits, who will start training May 15 instead of April 15.

Vienna and other large cities continue to struggle with food problems, which are due very largely to the extremely poor conditions of transport. The long war has caused a general depreciation of railroad tracks and rolling stock. Another factor in the food shortage in the cities is the shortsighted system of regulations, leaving comparative plenty in many rural districts, while the thickly peopled industrial sections are in want. Although food prices in Vienna are three times those of peace times, it is still possible to procure supplies in far-off districts almost as cheaply and easily as in times of peace. The Government regulations have been far from successful in many respects, although thus far they have served to keep in reserve supplies which ultimately will be available. In the meantime, however, the public is paying a terrific price for this system in the form of extortion practiced by unscrupulous middlemen, whom the Government in most cases has been unable to reach, owing to the fact that they have powerful Vienna banks behind them.

The recent conviction of the President of the Allgemeine Verkehrsbank of Vienna to nine months' imprisonment and a fine of 20,000 crowns ($4,000) had a salutary effect, however, and other similar cases are now pending before the courts.

The efforts of the Government to punish those who have driven up food prices have resulted in a demand for investigation of the affairs of the aristocratic landed class, which is charged with having availed itself of opportunities created by the war to profit financially. Some of the charges appear to be well founded. The correspondent understands that Emperor Charles is taking a personal interest in this affair.

The young Emperor is indefatigable in his labors in connection with the civil administration. He has demonstrated recently that, in addition to eagerness for work, he has an unusual amount of courage, as was shown several days ago when he summarily adjourned the Hungarian Parliament owing to the obstreperous tactics of the Opposition. The charge was made by the Opposition that the monarchy was actuated by the selfish motive of desiring to obtain control of the Hungarian political situation at all costs.

Emperor Charles also takes the greatest interest in agriculture, and realizes, it is said, that not the soil or weather conditions are responsible for the short crops, but lack of labor. Two years of farming by old men, women, and children has shown that labor is the greatest factor in agriculture, and the Emperor is now insisting that machinery be used wherever possible.

BERLIN, Monday, April 16, (via London, April 17.)—Emperor Charles of Austria is quoted by Björn Björnson as saying in an interview at Laxenburg, near Vienna:

"I believe I know war better than most of the men who are at the head of the enemy powers today. I know not only the financial and economic effects of war, but I know also what it means to die in the trenches. I have lived a long time in the field and have seen men fall and die at my feet. Therefore I know also, maybe better than any other Emperor or King, what peace means."

SAYS PENFIELD OFFERED PEACE PLAN TO AUSTRIA

Berlin Told of Alleged Proposal to Give Bavaria and Silesia to Her Ally.

AMSTERDAM, April 17.—The Budapest correspondent of the Berlin Tageszeitung says he is "reliably informed" that Frederic C. Penfield, former American Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, before his departure from Vienna made definite proposals for the separation of Austria-Hungary from Germany and the conclusion of an agreement with the Entente. The basis of this agreement, the correspondent says, was the cession by Austria-Hungary of part of Galicia, the Trentino, Bosnia, and Herzegovina, as an offset against which it would receive Bavaria and Silesia after Germany's defeat.

This proposal was given in such a form, says the correspondent, that Mr. Penfield realized the uselessness of prolonging his stay in Vienna.

SURE RUSSIANS WILL STICK.

Italians Look for Failure of Teuton Efforts for Separate Peace.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 17.—The general opinion in political circles here is that the Austro-German attempts to induce Russia to agree to a separate peace will only result in new proof of the weakness of the Central Powers, as all reports from Petrograd agree that no party there dreams of betraying the Allies or of undertaking negotiations without their consent. Assurances to this effect have been received by Italian Socialists from their Russian comrades.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron Sonino, discussing the situation today said:

"It is strange that the Central Empires do not understand that the Russian revolutionary masses are more dangerous to their existence than the Anglo-French military forces."

AGAINST SEPARATE PEACE.

Russian Extremists Who Favor It Opposed by All Other Elements.

Russian Socialists, revolutionary leaders returning from exile in Siberia, workingmen's representatives, and soldiers have just joined forces at a convention in Petrograd and decided to support the new Government and continue the war against Germany, according to cable messages received from Petrograd yesterday by The Jewish Daily Forward, a paper published in Hebrew in this city. The messages, from The Forward's correspondent in Petrograd, Samuel Charney, a Russian, announce that the union of these elements leaves the extremist Socialists who favored an immediate and separate peace hopelessly in the minority.

SAYS GERMANS WANT REFORM.

AMSTERDAM, April 17.—The Frankfurter Zeitung, a copy of which has been received here, says the German people and the Imperial Government desire peace.

"The people and the Government, the newspaper adds, "also desire reformation in internal German conditions, but we will not permit outsiders to confuse the two questions in order to make democratization of our State the price of our attaining peace. We reject such interference in our affairs."

RELIEF SHIPS IMMUNE AGAIN

LONDON, April 17.—The arrival of eight loaded relief ships at Rotterdam between April 6 and 15, following the recent torpedoing of four commission steamers, indicates, according to the Directors at the London office of the Commission for Relief in Belgium, that the Germans have ceased sinking immune relief ships, and leads to the belief that these vessels now will suffer only the ordinary perils of wartime navigation.

The ships reaching Rotterdam carried 17,500 tons of wheat and 9,800 tons of general cargo, including bacon, lard, corned beef, peas, beans, and milk.

villainous fire and vile weather, over battlefields that are worse than mountains to pass because of the countless shell craters, filled with water which have turned all this ground to the squash of a bog.

There is an army of men on the roads repairing them into something like soundness, filling up the vast mine craters exploded by the enemy on his retreat, and making brand new roads across the desolate swamps. I salute these road menders as the most gallant men and especially pioneers, who never rest from the job which is always at hand, and not always safe.

The enemy is fighting stubbornly and bravely to avert the disaster which may be coming to him, but his General Staff, in spite of its great skill and science, is chilled and scared, I am sure, by the doubts of its own men—not the doubts of their courage, but of their faith in necessity of the final sacrifice. In the German army now fighting against the British are thousands of men who think they are doomed to death because of the ambitious bloodlust of the war lords, who fight not only without hope of victory, but conscience-stricken because of all the evil they have done and have been forced to do in France. It is putting a coward into the conscience of the German soldiers so that they are troubled and afraid.

Here is an extract from a German soldier's letter, found on a man captured a few days ago. What he writes there other men have written, and it is a revelation of tragic-tortured hours.

"To give you a picture of our situation I will go back in my mind a few days to Trescault. It is 8 P. M. Our company has just returned from trench digging. A beautiful scene is presented to our eyes. A little later there suddenly arises flames and Trescault is doomed to destruction. Everywhere explosions are heard and the terrific heat reaches us. Then we, too, are seized with the madness of destruction and set fire to everything. All Trescault is in flames and a marvelous spectacle, one which I shall never forget, meets the eye.

"On a little hill stands a wonderful castle, spared by us till the last moment because we are quartered there. But castle must go, too, and quickly the flames envelop it. Where before were peaceful people and a flourishing village is now a heap of ruins. Far indeed did the destructive fury of the 230th extend, and we can scarcely be looked upon as soldiers. When we are up at the front it is as if we were the greatest criminals. Thus it is we do our work of destruction in France. Picture to yourself how we live now, not like men, but like beasts. Far and wide there are no trenches, only bare fields and stumps of trees growing where once man plowed his field and worked for wife and child. That is our retirement and our part in it. My mind cannot dispel the thought that I shall not return."

Men who are haunted by thoughts like that, melancholy thoughts, do not fight with any conviction of victory nor with faith in the justice of their cause. Among the thousands of prisoners taken by the British there is, I think, only one hope—that the war will end soon and relieve them of its curse.

I must write a few words about the enemy's counterattacks at Monchy le Preux. I have already described how the British cavalry swept into this village above the Cambrai road and how Monchy was held by types of English battalions. They had to endure great gunfire and had to hold the ridge upon which Monchy stands against several strong counterattacks ordered by the German staff who were desperate to retake this dominating ground on the way to Cambrai. From two woods on the opposite and lower ridge, divided from Monchy by a gully swept by German machine gun fire, the enemy's troops debouched and advanced upon the British line on April 14. The first two attacks were shattered by British gunfire before getting near the British, and another attack approaching from the south was stopped dead within 150 yards of the line by the rifle fire of the British infantry, who showed great nerve and courage.

Only broken remnants of the German battalions escaped, but the German staff, working far back at the end of the telephone wires, said: "Attack again!" So more men had advanced behind an intense barrage and this time broke through a section of the British line opposite Monchy. Village on the lower slope of the ridge. For a brief time it was bad for the British, but it was worse for the enemy. For one Briton killed or wounded two Germans fell. Some overseas troops were among the English troops and they held off the brunt of this attack with a valor which is praised as most splendid by all officers who saw their risk and their resistance. They fought with individual judgment and small parties of them engaged in hand-to-hand fights with great skill in this open warfare, although it was new to them. One officer with a small group of comrades worked his way into a straight ditch filled with Germans and enfiladed them in a most deadly way by rifle fire. The ditch became an open grave choked with bodies. The officer himself shot forty men. It was a horrible little massacre, but it saved the lives of many British lads who otherwise would have suffered the same fate, for in this war now men must kill or be killed.

The enemy's losses round Monchy le Preux are estimated to be at least 4,000 since those vain counterattacks which gained no ground, and before that there were many German bodies lying over the fields thereabouts.

BRITISH GO FORWARD DESPITE RAINSTORMS

Capture Strongly Fortified Position West of Le Catelet and Near Havrincourt Wood.

LONDON, April 17.—High winds and rainstorms continue on the British front in France, considerably hampering the operations of the troops. Between St. Quentin and the Bapaume-Cambrai road, however, General Haig's men are pushing slowly forward. West of Le Catelet the British during the night captured Le Tombois Farm on the road from Lempire to Vendhuille and gained ground along the spur northeast of Epéhy station. Further to the north the British made additional progress in the operation of encircling the Havrincourt Wood.

The early report from General Haig says:

In the neighborhood of Epéhy we captured during the night Le Tombois Farm, on the Lempire-Vendhuille road, and gained ground along the spur northeast of Epéhy station. We took a few prisoners.

The evening's official report reads as follows:

In the neighborhood of Havrincourt Wood we made further progress today north of Gouzeaucourt.

Encounters occurred throughout the day west and northwest of Lens, where we continue to press the enemy. Hostile attempts to drive back our advanced troops were unsuccessful.

In spite of the exceedingly unfavorable weather much useful work was carried out by our airplanes yesterday. Three German machines were driven down, damaged in the air fighting, but in most cases the enemy avoided combat. Five of our machines are missing.

Reuter's correspondent at British Headquarters, commenting on the "present-day extravagant exaggerations in the German official communications, compared with the fairly accurate official statements when the Germans suppose they are winning," says:

"Their claim to the capture of twenty-two guns at Lagnicourt Sunday was quite erroneous. They did succeed in reaching a number of British guns and began placing dynamite charges in the breeches with a view to destroying them. But so swift was the British counterattack that only four 18-pounder field guns and one light howitzer were disabled.

"The British artillerymen returned to their guns and showered retribution on the Germans, driving them back upon their wire, where the British infantry mowed them down. Not a single weapon was removed from the spot where it stood before the German attack was launched."

GERMAN DESTRUCTION DUE TO PREPARED PLAN

French Commission Reports on Deeds Done to "Inspire Terror and Create Desperation."

PARIS, April 17.—A Government commission which was appointed to investigate German atrocities has just completed its inquiry in the evacuated regions north and south and prepared a report which will appear in the official journal tomorrow. The commission, which is headed by Georges Payelle, President of the Superior Court, has traversed a portion of the regions of the Oise, Aisne, and Somme.

"Everything in this spectacle of devastation ethics we have had before our eyes discloses a method of such implacable and striking uniformity that it is impossible not to see in it the execution of a rigorously prepared plan," says the commission in the opening of its report. "All this was done at the same time with the same ferocity in order to bring about misery, inspire terror, and create desperation."

The report then recounts atrocities committed by the Germans when they entered some of the villages in August, 1914, and which are now made public for the first time. At Noyon, it says, one of the residents—M. Devaux, selected as a hostage, was shot by a soldier as he was about to look for a handkerchief. The same day—Aug. 30—M. Momeux, a janitor, was shot and wounded. Some time afterward Mme. Delbeca was shot and killed by a soldier to whom she had refused to give wine.

At the beginning of October, the report affirms, inhabitants of Verpillière were arrested on the pretext that they were communicating with the French Army. They were taken before a court-martial at Avricourt and after an inquiry twelve of them were marked on the right cheek with a blue cross.

"We have not yet been informed of the fate of these prisoners," says the report. "We only know that M. Polzeau, aged 47, and M. Vasset, aged 78, were brought back to Verpillière."

Sister Romuald, superior of the Noyon Hospital, was told by an officer that the French people did not want peace, and that the Germans had orders to make war on civilians. At Guiscard, says the report, a German sub-officer said:

"German's peace offer having been repulsed, the war now enters another phase. Hereafter we shall respect nothing."

"Among persons compelled to leave their homes," he report continues, "were paralytics and persons who were on their death beds. Mme. Deprez, owner of the Gibercourt Château, who was suffering from heart disease, was forced to leave her bed, and died twelve days afterward. Another woman who was ill was notified that her husband would be taken as a hostage. She herself was brought to Noyon. On the way, in a fit of desperation, she threw herself and her child under the wheels of a passing automobile. At Sempigny the Germans destroyed everything they could not carry away. It was as if a horde of insane persons had passed that way."

MANY AMERICANS AT VIMY.

One, Although Wounded, Wants to Go to Patriotic Service Friday.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 18.—The Daily Express says that numbers of Americans were among the Canadians who took Vimy Ridge, and some returned to London wounded. One of them wrote from the hospital to ask for tickets for himself and other Americans for Friday's American service at St. Paul's. His message to the committee was:

"We are just in from this last big battle of Vimy Ridge, where many Americans were in the front line. The word, 'Over the top, boys,' was given at 5:30 A. M., Monday, the 9th inst. Trusting you will grant us the favor of seats in St. Paul's, &c."

A GREAT VICTORY NEAR, PARIS SAYS

the feeling here over "the situation on land" that a high official said to me today:

"We hope very much to see the Stars and Stripes flying beside the Tricolor on our battle front. It is quite possible that there won't be time for it to arrive. It is quite certain that we have now got the Germans going, and they are going beyond the Rhine."

According to the latest news, the French artillery now dominates all the heights about Rheims, so that the lone martyrdom of that city, due to the bombardment of revenge, is about over. All reports show that as the Germans are thrust back they are killing, destroying, and pillaging everything.

Military critics generally regard the present offensive as a logical sequence of the battle of the Marne which insufficient material preparation obliged the Allies to postpone for two and a half years. It is doubtless the greatest battle fought since the Marne, for it must be remembered that the Verdun battlefront before it was reduced comprised fifteen kilometers and that in the Somme battle the French and British divided between them a sector of twenty kilometers, whereas today the French alone are attacking already on a forty-kilometer front.

The object of the Allies is not so much to occupy certain positions as to force the enemy to give battle and bring up his reserves. This object is already being accomplished, for the Germans are now throwing all the weight possible into the fray. It is also noteworthy that the French communiqué this morning, announcing the capture of 10,000 prisoners and large material, is couched in restrained terms, indicating that this is only a beginning. It is also a fact that the French attack was no surprise to the Germans, who were expecting it the last few days and therefore were able to make all preparation. Unrelenting bad weather is largely to blame for this, but at the same time it proves how terrific the French onslaught has been.

The sector attacked, between Rheims and Soissons has remained almost unchanged since the belligerent armies took to trench warfare. The German forces holding this part of the line have been nicknamed by their compatriots "Das Schlafende Heer"—the sleeping army. The man who awakened this sleeping host to the cruel realities of defeat by the thunder of his guns is the same whose heavy artillery shattered the German attacks on Verdun. General Mangin, seconded by General Hazel. Together with these names that of General Micheler, commanding this sector, who organized the attack, will rank among those great leaders who are destined to win the great fight. It must not, however, be expected the Allies will go forward with leaps and bounds, for there are still many formidable positions to be taken, notably that of Craonne Heights, as formidable in its way as Vimy Ridge, and here the Prussian guard are sure to put up a strong fight to maintain—unless it be to retrieve their reputation. Nothing will be spared on the German side to supply the Crown Prince's troops with all available reserves.

AIR RAID ON FREIBURG KILLS 11, WOUNDS 27

BERLIN, April 17, (via London.)—An official announcement by the War Office gives the following account of an air attack on Freiburg.

"On Saturday at noon an enemy air squadron of twelve airplanes attacked the open town of Freiburg in Breisgau. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the attack was repeated by two further squadrons, totaling twenty-three airplanes.

"To this nefarious attack several people unfortunately fell victims. Seven women, three men and one soldier, were killed and seventeen women, eight men and two children injured.

"The enemy airmen selected as objectives the new municipal theatre, institutes, and infirmaries. The anatomy section of the university was considerably damaged. Owing to our effective counter measures the attacks could not be fully executed.

"In the course of air batties which resulted two enemy airmen were shot down near Schlettstadt and Markirch. A third was shot down in an air battle combined with a bombardment from the ground. All three airplanes were of English type, with English occupants.

"The leader of the attack, an English Lieutenant Colonel, fell into our hands. According to his statement and the contents of a fly sheet which was thrown down the attack was in reprisal for the torpedoing of the Gloucester Castle (British hospital ship recently sunk by a German submarine). We must resolutely contest the right to make such [attacks?].

"In justification, our Government gave England to understand in time enough that it could not longer tolerate the passage of so-called hospital ships in the precisely defined zone. If the English, despite our warning, misuse the Red Cross and carry it on transports in the war zone they must bear the consequences of their action; but to attack an open town from revenge is cheap glory. There are no objects of military importance in Freiburg to justify the attack."

ERIC F. WOOD WOUNDED.

American, a Lieutenant in British Army, in Arras Battle.

LONDON, April 17.—Eric Fisher Wood of New York, formerly an attaché of the American Embassy in Paris, who recently was appointed a Lieutenant in the British Naval Reserve, took part in the battle of Arras. After four hours of fighting, during which he went with the British troops through four lines of German trenches, Lieutenant Wood was wounded. He is now in England recovering from his wound.

Lieutenant Wood said today he hoped to be able Friday to attend the service in St. Paul's Cathedral to commemorate the entrance of the United States into the war.

Eric Fisher Wood is a Yale graduate. Later he studied architecture at Columbia and at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. He was an attaché of the American Embassy in Paris when Myron T. Herrick was Ambassador. In 1914-15 he was a staff officer of the American Ambulance Corps in France.

SPY BILL ALTERED, BUT STILL FAULTY

Senate Judiciary Committee Fails to Remove Restriction on News Inquiries.

LIFTS BAN ON CRITICISM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Senate Committee on the Judiciary today yielded before the general opposition aroused by the press section of the Espionage bill to the extent of inserting a provision to the effect that nothing in that section or in any regulation promulgated under it should limit "discussion, comment, or criticism of the acts or policies of the Government or its representatives or the publication of the same." But this proviso, although evidently drafted with a view to liberalizing the measure, limits an imaginary power which even this drastically worded bill did not seek to create. The impression here is that the proviso, while embodying a proper principle, is meaningless in the connection in which it is added to the bill.

Particular objection is directed against Sub-section C of Section 2 of Chapter II. It imposes, without regard to the motives or intentions of the alleged offenders, a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for ten years, or both, on any one who, in violation of a Presidential proclamation, "shall collect, record, publish, or communicate, or attempt to elicit any information with respect" to the national defenses. It was pointed out to the Department of Justice when this measure was drafted that under its terms a newspaper correspondent, especially if his paper was considered hostile to the authorities, might be prosecuted for merely asking for information which he had no intention of publishing without the consent of the censor.

The department at that time gave the impression that the bill would be changed so that criminal intent should be necessary to complete the crime. No such change was made, however, and the fight was renewed in committee. The amendment adopted today merely declares that "criticism" shall not be restricted. Nobody ever thought that Congress would attempt to prohibit criticism. But as the bill stands now, even with today's amendment, a newspaper that antagonized the Administration might be punished by prosecutions for its innocent inquiries regarding news.

> Whoever, in time of war, in violation of regulations to be prescribed by the President, which he is hereby authorized to make and promulgate, shall collect, record, publish, or communicate, or attempt to elicit any information with respect to the movement, numbers, description, condition, or disposition of any of the armed forces, ships, aircraft, or war materials of the United States, or with respect to the plans or conduct, or supposed plans or conduct, of any naval or military operations, or with respect to any works or measures undertaken for or connected with, or intended for the fortification or defense of any place, or any other information relating to the public defense calculated to be, or which might be, useful to the enemy, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 or by imprisonment for not more than ten years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.
> Provided, That nothing in this section shall be construed to limit or restrict, nor shall any regulation herein provided for limit or restrict, any discussion, comment, or criticism of the acts or policies of the Government or its representatives, or the publication of the same.
> Provided, That no discussion, comment, or criticism shall convey information prohibited under the provisions of this section.

One of the principal objections to the bill would be removed if the "attempt to elicit any information" were made punishable only when the publication of the information was actually harmful, or the intent was to use it in an unauthorized way. An amendment along this line was adopted by the committee in regard to persons flying over public forts or approaching them to get information. The penalty of a fine of $10,000, or two years' imprisonment, in that case, only applies when the approach is made "with intent or knowledge that the information to be obtained is to be used to the injury of the United States or the advantage of any foreign nation."

Senator Overman, Chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the bill, reported it to the Senate this afternoon, and announced that he would call it up tomorrow. The fight to remove the unconstitutional restriction of the press is expected to be renewed on the floor of the Senate.

The committee voted several other amendments. Punishment for giving military information to a foreign nation in time of war is changed from not less than thirty years' imprisonment or death to not less than five years' imprisonment or death. As has been already announced, the committee added to the bill a provision for embargoing exports that might reach the enemy, and another barring the mails to papers, letters and cards of a seditious, treasonable or anarchistic sort, or letters, papers, and cards containing forbidden information.

SAYS WILSON MESSAGE IS CRY OF DISTRESS

German Paper Argues America Cannot Provide Herself and Allies with Food.

AMSTERDAM, April 17.—The Cologne Gazette, commenting on President Wilson's message to the American people, says:

"Shorn of its swollen phraseology this appeal is nothing but a cry of distress. President Wilson himself must admit that the war against Germany cannot be won if America is unable amply to provide herself and her allies with food. That, however, is impossible, as America is facing a crop failure which cannot be averted by President Wilson's little remedies.

"The raids of our submarines therefore gain in importance. For every ship they sink grows the difficulty of transporting the small exportable crops to the points where they are most needed."

FIGHTING INCREASING ON ITALIAN FRONT

Intense Artillery Fire in the Julian Sector—Infantry Clashes Elsewhere.

ROME, April 17, (British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—Increasing activity on the Austro-Italian front is reported by the War Office today. Intense artillery fighting is in progress on the Julian front. Infantry encounters occurred in other sectors. The statement follows:

In the Lagarina Valley our artillery renewed the bombardment of the station at Collano, damaging the building, putting trains and motor lorries to flight, and dispersing troops. Encounters among small groups of infantry are reported. We repulsed the enemy, taking prisoners and capturing rifles and munitions.

In the upper part of the Aravionodo Valley, in the midst of a heavy storm, an enemy detachment made a surprise attack and penetrated one of our advanced positions west of Lake Bocete. He was promptly driven back to his own lines. Under protection of a thick fog an attempt of the same character was made against our positions in the Passe Disondogna. It was repulsed, and we inflicted serious losses on the enemy.

On the Julian front the artillery fighting was more intense in the vicinity of Gorizia. An enemy airplane was brought down in an aerial flight over Ternova.

GENET, AMERICAN FLIER, KILLED AT THE FRONT

Ossining Youth, Who Was a Descendant of Gov. Clinton, Enlisted at Beginning of War.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 17.—A cablegram from Paris to the Chicago Daily News says:

"Edmond C. C. Genet of Ossining, N. Y., a pilot in the American Escadrille, is reported to have been killed yesterday in an air fight with an enemy plane over French territory."

Edmond C. C. Genet, a descendant of George Clinton, revolutionary Governor of New York, was one of the American volunteers of the Foreign Legion who enlisted in France soon after the outbreak of the war. In October, 1915, he was reported missing after the battle of Champagne while he was serving in the Second Battalion of the Fourth Regiment. Later, however, a letter was received by relatives here stating that he had been knocked unconscious by the rush of air from an exploding bomb, and when he recovered had joined the ranks of a troop of Colonial infantrymen who were folowing his corps.

His chief desire, he said in another letter in May, 1916, was to fight against the Germans under the United States flag.

He expressed the opinion also at that time that an American fighting against Germany was far safer on the French side of the line than in the hands of the Germans.

Genet, who was 20 years old, was the great-great-great-grandson of Governor Clinton and the great-great-grandson of Citizen Genet, who was French Minister in the days of Washington. He had served in the United States Naval Militia, and as an ordinary seaman on the Texas, which was sent to Vera Cruz during the trouble there in 1914. He was a member of the crew of the Georgia when war broke out between Germany and France, and his mother bought his release so that he might go to Europe to fight for the land of his ancestors.

ALL-NIGHT REVELRY ENDED BY THE WAR

Mayor Prohibits Sale of Liquor After 1 o'Clock A. M., Beginning on May 1.

RESTAURANT MEN AGREE

Roof Shows May Begin Early and Go for an Hour After Midnight—Saloons Under the Ban, Too.

Mayor Mitchel decided yesterday to cancel every all-night license for the sale of intoxicating liquor, beginning on May 1, until the war ends. After that date every hotel, restaurant, saloon, cabaret, roof garden, or other place holding a permit to sell liquor after 1 A. M. must close promptly at that hour. Sixty-five places in all are affected—thirty-two restaurants and amusement places that in the past have stayed open till 2 A. M., and thirty-three saloons and eating places for the convenience of night workers, which now sell liquor all night. Having no legal authority to regulate the hours at which drinks may be served in private clubs, the Mayor, on behalf of the city, called upon the club proprietors voluntarily to cease the sale of alcoholic drinks after 1 A. M.

The Mayor's action was a surprise to Broadway. The present administration has been considered "liberal" in the enforcement of the liquor law, even places without night license having been dealt with none too severely. After the first of the month, however, the Mayor intends to clamp the "lid" down tight and the police will be instructed to see that there are no violations.

The Mayor did not announce his intention until after he had conferred with several hotel and restaurant proprietors and representatives of the hotel and restaurant associations. His proposal received their approval, and all promised to co-operate. On Monday night the Mayor conferred with Thomas D. Greene of the Hotel Woodstock, President of the National Hotel Men's Association; John Cavanaugh, President of the Association of Restaurateurs, and several hotel proprietors. To them he announced his determination to cancel all-night licenses and end early morning dancing and drinking because of the war, and all agreed.

Amplifying this agreement a number of hotel and restaurant people called upon the Mayor yesterday at City Hall and agreed to close promptly at 1 o'clock. Among them were Thomas Healy, Charles Gehring, proprietor of a hotel and restaurant publication; Joseph Pike of Carleton Terrace, John Wagener of Reisenweber's, Paul Salvin of Rector's, and John McE. Bowman of the Biltmore.

This is the Mayor's statement:

> I have decided to cancel for the period of the war all existing all-night licenses for the sale of intoxicating drinks. This action will become effective on May 1, and applies to every place holding such a permit, whether it be a hotel, restaurant, saloon, cabaret, or roof garden, and means that these places must all close promptly at the hour fixed by law, which is 1 o'clock.
> This action I have taken because our country is now engaged in war, and at such a time it would seem not only lacking in good taste but in a proper sense of the present crisis for these places to remain open for dancing and drinking as heretofore. Such a thing would be most unfitting at a time when we are asking our young men to enlist in the army and navy and risk their lives in the defense of their country, and when all the earnest men and women of the country are devoting all their thoughts and energies to the service of the nation.
> Frugality may shortly become a general necessity. It is well to begin its practice voluntarily and before necessity compels it. The conservation of our resources, national and personal, human and material, should begin now.
> We have come to a time of national sacrifice. It is but proper that the people of this great city, which has led in the advocacy of national preparedness and the assertion of our national rights and ideals, should evidence their readiness to face the national crisis soberly and with some measure of personal self-sacrifice.
> I am happy to be able to announce that my decision has met with the full approval of the representatives of the hotel and restaurant men's associations. They have promised me their complete cooperation in carrying it out. Like all good citizens, they recognize the seemliness and necessity of this step.
> While I have no legal authority to regulate the hours during which drinks may be served in private clubs, I am sure that the public spirit of club members throughout the city will dictate a voluntary compliance with the policy herein outlined. I, therefore, on behalf of the city government, call upon clubs to discontinue the sale or serving of alcoholic drinks after 1 o'clock A. M., beginning on May 1 next.
> JOHN PURROY MITCHEL, Mayor.

Roof Gardens which do not begin their performances until midnight and continue until 2 A. M., will be affected. Their plan after May 1 will be to start the performances at 11:30 P. M. and end at 1 A. M.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES MEXICAN AMBASSADOR

Tells Bonillas He Will Welcome Convincing Evidence of the Protection of Americans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Ignacio Bonillas, the newly accredited Ambassador of Mexico to the United States, was formally presented to President Wilson at the White House at 2 o'clock this afternoon by Secretary Lansing. The Mexican envoy, in an address to the President, said:

"The First Chief of the Constitutionalist Army, in charge of the executive power of the nation, duly elected President, has instructed me to convey to your Excellency his sincerest desire for your personal happiness and for the prosperity of the people of the United States. I entreat your Excellency, in behalf of the Mexican people, and in my own name, to accept the same cordial salutation."

The President's reply to the remarks of Señor Bonillas was in part:

"The close neighborhood of the United States and Mexico makes it most desirable that there should be between the two countries relations of friendly trust and confidence. It has been my endeavor in these years of unrest and strife in Mexico to impress upon the Mexican people that the United States has none but the best interests of Mexico at heart, and has no wish more selfish than to see its people placed in the enjoyment of the blessings of peace, happiness, and prosperity by the establishment of a constitutional and stable government capable, among other things, of affording due protection to American citizens and property and of meeting all other international requirements.

"I take note of your statement that constitutional order will be re-established in Mexico on May 1. I shall welcome the day that brings me convincing evidence that a constitutional government has been established in Mexico both willing and able to afford to American citizens and their property the same measure of protection and to apply to them the same impartial administration of justice that is afforded and is applied to nationals or the citizens or subjects of other foreign countries. The United States asks no more, and can, of course, accept no less."

ALARMED AT GERMAN INFLUX.

Americans in Monterey Suspect Plot to Strike at Border.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTEREY, Mexico, April 17.—The large number of Germans arriving here daily from Southern Mexico has caused alarm. It is known that they are making their headquarters here in the German Club. Many have arrived also from Tampico, Matamoros, and Torreon.

Monterey is the railway centre of the lines from Tampico, Matamoros, and Saltillo, which also connect with Torreon, the main trunk line from Mexico City, and the road from Guadalajara and the Pacific Coast. Owing to the location, within easy striking distance of Tampico, Brownsville, and Laredo, the influx of the Germans has caused the few Americans here to be seriously alarmed.

Favors Chile Taxing Copper Exports

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 17.—The commission named by the Chilean Government to study the proposal to impose an export duty on copper today unanimously accepted the idea.

WELCOMES AMERICA TO WAR FOR LIBERTY

Stephane Lauzanne Foretells the Day When U. S. Troops Will March Through Paris.

Stephane Lauzanne, editor of the Paris Matin, at a luncheon of the Pennsylvania Society at the Bankers' Club, 120 Broadway, yesterday, predicted a crushing defeat of the German Army, and declared that the entire French nation would perish rather than conclude a peace before the Prussian menace had been eliminated.

"There will be a day," said M. Lauzanne, "when we shall see American soldiers, no matter if they form only one division or one brigade or even one battalion, passing through Paris near our Arch of Triumph and descending our Champs Elysées, going to the battle line. On that day we shall know that not very far away is the definite victory, not the victory of France or the victory of England or the victory of Russia or even the victory of the Allies, but the victory of right, of justice, of humanity, and of civilization."

With high praise for James M. Beck and George W. Wickersham for all they did in "opening the eyes of this country" to German ruthlessness, M. Lauzanne declared that the French had always been confident that the United States would finally find itself compelled to take up arms in the cause of humanity.

"On April 2," said M. Lauzanne, "you felt it was not sufficient to keep away brutes and savages, but that it was your duty to defend civilization against brutality and savagery, and you declared war on Germany, that is, declared war on the burners of Louvain, the sinkers of the Lusitania, the murderers of Miss Cavel and the slave traders of Belgium.

"We were awaiting that day for thirty-two months, but we knew it would come because we were fighting and struggling and suffering and bleeding for something for which you had fought and struggled and bled in the past; not for money, for domination or for territories, but for something much higher and nobler, for an ideal.

"Our ideal and your ideal is to restore in Europe a spirit of liberty, of humanity, and above all, a respect for international law. That spirit will be restored only when the other spirit of domination or brutality and of aggression, symbolized by Prussian militarism has been extirpated from Europe. That spirit must go. It will go when the people animated by it feel that they have been beaten, when they realize that they are not the strongest but the weakest, when they understand that they can not dictate terms of peace, but must agree to terms of peace, when they understand that they cannot annihilate other nations, but must respect the independence of every nation, large or small, a supreme and imperative law."

After M. Lauzanne's address, the Pennsylvania Society adopted a resolution pledging its support to the President and the nation in the war against Germany. The following officers were elected:

Wants Arms of Revolution Given Up

PETROGRAD, April 17.—Lieut. Gen. Korniloff, commander of the troops in Petrograd, has issued a proclamation calling upon the people of Petrograd to return 40,000 rifles and 35,000 revolvers taken from the Russian military stores during the recent revolution.

cate the feat of the U-53 last year off the Nantucket Lightship.

It is believed also that the submarine has wireless instructions to endeavor to prevent the safe journey to and from this country of the British and French commission by sinking the vessels on which they are voyaging. There are now in American ports a British and a French warship that brought Vice Admiral Browning of the British Navy and Rear Admiral De Grasset of the French Navy to this country. It was intimated today that the submarine possibly was acquainted with that fact and under orders to try to prevent the safe return of these vessels to Europe.

For Commissioners Safety.

It was such a contingency as the presence of a German submarine or submarines, in American waters or along the transatlantic steamer lanes, that led the British and American Government to make an agreement that nothing should be published in either country regarding the movements of the commissioners or the port of arrival or departure in this country or elsewhere until it was considered safe to state the facts and danger of harm to the commissioners had passed.

The report that the submarine had reached American waters and fired a torpedo at the Smith did not surprise Admiral Benson, Chief of Naval Operations; Secretary Daniels, or officers on duty at the department. Ten days have elapsed since the President signed the act of Congress that declared the existence of a state of war between this country and the German Government and fifteen days since the President went before Congress and asked for action. Fifteen days was the average length of the journeys of the Deutschland from Germany to American waters. Ample time has elapsed for the dispatch of a vessel of the U-53 type to this country. The two voyages of the German merchant submarine Deutschland to this country, as well as the voyage of the U-53, which raided shipping off the Nantucket Shoals Lightship, proved that submarine raids by U-boats from Germany would be feasible.

It was on the basis of the evidence supplied by the voyages of the U-53 and Deutschland with respect to the absolute practicability of such raid that the American Navy began shaping its plans for the formation of a large coast patrol fleet, in which there would be hundreds of submarine chasers, and for the establishment of the defensive sea areas that have been created along the coast with narrow entrances through which all shipping must pass.

The attack by the U-boat is Germany's first recognition of the state of war declared by the United States. It was stated in Germany soon after the action of Congress that no aggressive steps would be taken against the United States. Practically no American officials believed this statement, however, and steps to meet aggressive action were at once taken.

MINE LAYER, OFFICERS THINK.

Submarine Might Be One of a Type of the Captured UC-5.

The fact that no ship had been reported destroyed off New York was taken by many naval officers yesterday as almost conclusive evidence that if a submarine fired on the destroyer Smith the attacking vessel must have been one of the new German mine laying submersibles of the UC-5 class. The UC-5 was captured by British in April, 1916, when planting mines off the east coast of England. The crew of the mine layer tried to destroy the craft before it could be captured, but only partly succeeded and the British towed the vessel to port and repaired it.

That the Germans would attempt to set mines afloat in the transatlantic lanes near New York and other American ports has been the expectation of many naval officers ever since war was declared on Germany. Submarine mine layers carry only two torpedoes, and this might account for the fact that no attempt has been made to torpedo merchantmen in American waters.

The UC-5, captured by the British, was described as follows in the Naval and Army Record of London, on July 31, 1916.

"The UC-5 as she appeared in custody at a naval dockyard was smartly painted her original German gray, and the white ensign looked appropriately picturesque surmounting the enemy flag on the telescopic mast. But, hauled off the dock side so that one might appreciate her without perspective intervening too largely, she was not really a pretty boat, even for a submarine. Her bulging, tubular sides gave her a smart appearance, which was increased rather than diminished by the clumsiness of her superstructure—a high, raised platform running the whole length of the ship, and widening at the forward end to display through gratings the six huge tubes through which the mines were launched.

"The captured submarine appeared to have been one of those transported in sections from Germany and put together on the Belgian coast. Her four sections are plainly marked, the hull being divided into three and the conning tower constituting the fourth part. The seams are rather roughly finished, and point to rapid assembling or none too skillful workmanship."

That one of these mine laying submersibles could make the round voyage from German to American waters without replenishing fuel or supplies has been known to American naval officers. When the commerce destroying submarine U-53 put into Newport and then put to sea without refueling or revictualing the problem of meeting the attack of such vessels as well as mine laying was immediately taken up by the proper authorities. The U-53 on her way back to German waters halted off Nantucket and destroyed seven merchant vessels.

The destroyer Smith, which was reported attacked yesterday, has a speed of about 29 knots and displaces about 900 tons. She was built in 1910 and is fitted with three torpedo tubes. She also carries a battery of five 3-inch guns.

DRIVEN ON REEF BY U-BOAT.

Passengers Tell How the Karmala Fought Pursuing Foe.

Details of the sinking of the British steamship Karmala, owned by the Peninsular & Oriental Steam Navigation Company of London, off the coast of Italy on March 17 after being shelled and torpedoed by a German submarine, were brought here yesterday by Frederick Hewer of Brooklyn and W. E. Park of Boston, who were among the 190 passengers on board. On account of the Captain being able to beach his damaged ship on a reef near Spezzia, they said, no lives were lost.

Mr. Park went on to say that he and Mr. Hewer were on their way from Egypt to London on the Karmala when the steamship was fired upon at noon on St. Patrick's Day. The range was about five miles, according to the Captain of the Karmala, who was on the bridge, and forty shots in all were fired by the submarine without doing serious damage to the liner beyond smashing the superstructure, deck rails, &c. In the meantime the crew of the Karmala fired nineteen or twenty shells from their three-inch gun which fell short, and did not hit the U-boat.

Finding that he could not sink the vessel with his gun the commandant of the submarine steamed at high speed toward the Karmala and fired two torpedoes from a distance of 2,000 yards. The one aimed at the engine room passed under the stern, but the other torpedo struck on the port side of the bow, making a big hole. Although the forward compartments were full of water the Captain continued to manoeuvre at full speed in his efforts to evade the enemy, and kept up the fire with his gun. While making a long swing to starboard the Karmala struck a reef. When the U-boat commandant saw what had happened he gave up the chase. The lifeboats were lowered in smooth water, and all hands got away safely.

Captain T. E. Williams arrived yesterday to take over the British steamship Appam at Newport News, where she was brought in by a German raider, and was recently turned over to her owners by the Supreme Court of the United States. George Ashburner, the chief engineer of the Appam, returned from England two weeks ago on his way to Newport News.

"Raider" in Gulf Was in Distress.

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 17.—The theory of the German raider in the Gulf was exploded today, when a five-masted American schooner came into a Gulf port. Shipping had been warned of a "German raider" in the Gulf disguised as a schooner. Several vessels sighted her, but when the supposed raider gave distress signals they thought it only a ruse and made away and upon reaching port repeated the warning and description. The vessel reached port today.

SELECTIVE DRAFT WINS IN COMMITTEE

The President is understood to be determined upon forcing opponents of the General Staff's plan out into the open, so that the country may have an opportunity of judging whether they are in the right. Arguments of the opponents of selective draft, based on the idea that the new army should be raised by a call for volunteers, are met in official quarters by directing attention to the fact that the present plans of the War Department allow for more than 700,000 volunteers, enlisted for the term of the war.

One argument which has been used by the opponents of the Administration army plan in Congress has provoked especial impatience, the argument that they are unwilling to impose a permanent military system on the country. It is pointed out that the President and his military advisers have emphasized frequently and specifically that conscription is being proposed only for the duration of the war, and that in voting for the present emergency bill the Congress is in no way binding itself to a permanent policy.

The Senate Military Committee voted favorably today on the selective draft feature and will report the bill tomorrow with that feature retained. There was no roll call, but three Senators were said to have been opposed to this feature. Two others opposed to the draft were absent.

An opportunity will be given the proponents of the volunteer system to vote on it in committee tomorrow on an amendment by Senator McKellar, authorizing the President to call for 500,000 volunteers. This does not change the language of the bill nor affect the selective draft feature, but if adopted it would be in addition to the bill as it came from the War Department. The Tennessee Senator said tonight he was not hopeful the provision would be approved.

About the only change of importance made in the bill by the Senate committee was one which would specifically include persons engaged in agriculture with those in other industries who are to be exempted from the selective draft.

Republican Senators in conference today decided generally to stand behind the President in war legislation so far suggested to Congress, but made no effort to bind Senators to approve selective conscription or to accept the Administration revenue proposals in the exact form advocated by the executive department. There was a distinct feeling that there should be no general legislation at the present session, and that Congress should get away before midsummer.

OPPOSES SELECTIVE DRAFT.

Maryland Labor Federation Against Any Conscription.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 17.—The Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor, after nearly three hours of animated debate this afternoon, went on record, 148 to 17, as opposing the selective draft proposed by President Wilson. The sense of the convention was in opposition to conscription of any kind, and those who opposed the draft stood by the volunteer system, which they said they wanted tried first. The resolution adopted "opposes efforts being made by the present Administration to secure the enactment of a conscription law."

The fight against conscription was led by President Ferguson of Baltimore, L. A. Spellbring of Washington, and two women delegates—Gertrude McNally of Washington and Ida Blatt of Baltimore. Grant Hamilton of Washington, legislative agent of the American Federation of Labor, is here voicing opposition to the selective draft.

One of the delegates said he could not understand how President Gompers of the American Federation could be a member of the National Council for Defense and still oppose the Government in the matter of the selective draft. He said the personnel of the convention was decidedly Socialistic and pro-German.

ENLISTMENTS IN ARMY AVERAGE 1,434 A DAY

Navy Getting Between 800 and 1,000 Men a Day, and Total Strength Now Is 71,696.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The intensive campaign for recruits for the army, navy, and Marine Corps is materializing splendidly, according to figures obtained today.

Enlistments for the army are now averaging 1,434 men a day. For the navy 800 to 1,000 men a day are being obtained. More than 100 men a day are being recruited for the Marine Corps.

Secretary Daniels announced today that the total number of enlisted men in the navy now is 71,696, and that the net number of enlisted men added to the navy Saturday and Monday was 1,635. The present authorized enlisted strength of the navy is 87,500 men. By May 1 Secretary Daniels hopes to have a total of 100,000 men enlisted. Before the present limit of 87,500 men is reached, it is expected that legislation will have been passed raising the authorized strength of the navy to 150,000 men, and that of the Marine Corps to 30,000 men.

Secretary Baker announced today that 7,171 men enlisted in the army between April 11 and 15, a daily average of 1,434. Major Gen. Barnett of the Marine Corps announced that during the first sixteen days of April 1,947 men joined in the Marine Corps. Of these 654 came from the East, 770 from the Central States, 193 from the South, and 270 from the West, while 60 men re-enlisted.

WOOD BACKS ARMY BILL

And Declares We Must Send Troops to Europe.

BOSTON, April 17.—Major Gen. Wood, speaking at a meeting of the American Cotton Waste Exchange here today, said the United States would not fulfill its duty in this war until it had sent men to the front. The meeting was called to raise funds to equip an ambulance force for the Red Cross.

"If we are to be part of the war," said General Wood, "our men in our uniform must be at the front. It is no child's play. We shall send living men and bring them back dead—but never until this is done shall we fulfill our duty. You are now standing behind the allied lines and behind such forces as we have afloat. There is a long period of preparation ahead of us, and the first step is to back up the plan for universal military service. You cannot let somebody else do your job and have a clear conscience. This republic has given everything in the way of opportunity, and, on the other hand, it has the right to demand the service of its citizens.

"A voluntary service, however delightful in theory, is ridiculous in practice. It would be a noble thing if every man rushed to the colors, but every man does not. The universal system treats all alike—rich or poor, native born or newcomer. So get behind the Administration and you'll get rid of a lot of loose talk about war. Only six thousand men have been enlisted in two weeks, and I leave it to you to estimate how long it will take to get an army of a million men."

Will Pay Dues of Enlisted Men.

Members of the Schiller Lodge, No. 17, Independent Order Brith Abram, who enlist in the army or navy, will have their dues and insurance paid by the other members and their families cared for, according to resolutions adopted at a meeting of the lodge yesterday, at Liberty Hall, 257 East Houston Street. In case of the death of an enlisted man his family will be paid $500 insurance. Resolutions were also adopted pledging the allegiance of Schiller Lodge to the President. The lodge has about [illegible] members.

New Wall Street Recruiting Station.

The New York Stock Exchange firm of F. B. Keech & Co. has opened a recruiting station for the United States Marine Corps on the first floor of 7 Wall Street. It is in charge of John J. Kearns. An armored motor car will be placed outside of the station tomorrow.

Gold and War Financing

¶ The vast sums asked for by the United States Government will doubtless be provided.

¶ Unprecedented problems are involved. One of the most serious is the problem of gold, the shifting basis of credit.

WHITMAN WANTS COLONEL TO LEAD

THINKS CRISIS CALLS HIM

Believes That No Other American Would Attract So Many Men to the Colors.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—Governor Whitman announced tonight that he would do anything in his power to make Colonel Theodore Roosevelt an active factor in the prosecution of the war. The Governor was asked whether he had requested Colonel Roosevelt to accept a military commission in this State, or whether the Colonel had applied to the Governor for such a commission.

"I have not asked Colonel Roosevelt to accept a military commission, nor has he made such a request," Governor Whitman promptly replied. "I am ready, however, to give him any military commission within my power to grant, which his own judgment would permit him to accept. I believe that Colonel Roosevelt is needed in the present crisis.

"I think that no other living American would attract by his leadership so many men to the colors. Of course, my commission is good only within the State, and whether it would be recognized by the Federal Government is not within my power to determine. I am ready to do anything that I can to secure to the people the benefit of his services, because I believe that in so doing, I, myself, am rendering a distinct service in the cause of the defense of the State and of the nation."

Governor Whitman, it is known, feels that too few men of calibre are offering their services to the State and nation in the present crisis and that much more should be done than is being done at present to stir into life the latent patriotism of the people. In view of the fact that in all probability New York troops would be among the first to be sent across the ocean if an American military expedition goes to the west front, it is believed here that a commission from Governor Whitman might be the first step toward the sort of recognition from the Federal Government that Colonel Roosevelt is seeking.

Governor Whitman in making his statement spoke with great earnestness. In talking with friends recently, the Governor has dwelt again and again on the desirability of enlisting the Colonel's aid and expressed himself as anxious to make an offer with that end in view if it could be done in a manner not to cause Colonel Roosevelt any embarrassment.

Governor Whitman expected to issue today a proclamation regarding the prospective military census, but his message was delayed owing to a discovery that additional legislation was necessary in order to confer on the Director of the Census and his aids the authority necessary to make the census a success.

Governor Whitman today approved the Wells bill, recently passed by the Legislature, which provides that all staff officers, including officers of the Paymaster's Division and in the Inspection, Subsistence, and Medical Departments of the National Guard, must have military experience.

The National Security League announced last night that Colonel Roosevelt would speak for the cause of universal training in Chicago on April 28.

Colonel Roosevelt will talk in the Stock Yards Pavilion and will be received by a committee of Western Governors. His appearance there is at the special request of the Chicago members of the National Security League and other prominent citizens. It will be the first of a further series of big meetings in the Middle West under the auspices of the National Security League for universal military training.

In commenting last night on his visit to Chicago Colonel Roosevelt said:

"This is to be my first speech after the declaration of war, my first speech after our country has decided to play its part in the greatest crisis that the world has seen for over a century. I wish to make that speech in Chicago, for whose people I naturally have a peculiar feeling. I owe very much to the West. I believe in the West with all my heart, and I wish to state the reasons for the faith that is in me in the great city of the West.

"I wish to speak for the great democratic principle of universal military training and service as the permanent policy of this Republic and also to say why in my judgment we should, in addition and pending the time when the great army will be made ready, provide for calling out an exceptional class of volunteers, which I personally know are needed at the front, so that at the earliest possible moment we may put our flag on the firing line."

Kill Suffrage Bill in Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Penn., April 17.—The proposed suffrage amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania was defeated in the lower branch of the Legislature today, lacking three votes of the number necessary to pass it. The vote was 101 to 94.

This bill is drawn for the sole purpose of enabling the United States to prosecute that war with vigor to a successful termination. It is not intended to encourage one system of banks at the expense of others, and any such thought ought to be forgotten."

Mr. Borah and Mr. Cummins of Iowa—both Progressive Republicans—expressed disapproval of the plan to take up the bonds of the allied powers with American bonds. Both Senators said that it was well enough to give money freely to further the common end, but they thought this exchange of credits would perpetuate the participation of the United States in foreign alliances after the war, and might have a bad effect on the traditional American foreign policy.

"It would be cheaper," said Mr. Cummins, "to give this money outright than to lend it and hold it."

They made no attempt, however, to embody their views in amendments which they admitted would be rejected, and which might complicate the situation.

"I don't share the belief of those who think the Central Powers are now exhausted," said Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, in his maiden speech. "Their territories are still intact. They have been forced to borrow money for the war from their own people, and this gives them economically the strongest position. The world is still confronted by the greatest military power it has ever seen.

"To the Teutonic east is Russia. I do not wish to say anything indelicate, but our hope for success in this war lies in the great heart of democracy, and this is not had by any country in a day. In Russia democracy is flanked on one side by monarchical intrigue and on the other by Socialism and anarchy. France is using all her resources for the struggle, but how long she can last no one can say.

"We are now at war after two years of discussion. We should carry on that war, now we are in it, with all our resources and all our power. I am not disturbed by the feeling that we are departing from American traditions by alliances in Europe. When fighting in Europe we can only fight in concert with the European countries already fighting the same enemy. Nor am I disturbed by thoughts of entangling alliances after the war. In warring thus against tyranny we shall not attempt to say that France shall make peace only when she repossesses Alsace-Lorraine, Italy the Trentino, and Russia the Golden Horn. These are questions with which we do not entangle ourselves."

Penrose Upholds the President.

In announcing his support of the bill, Senator Penrose said in the course of the debate:

"The majority and minority are united in a single patriotic purpose of sustaining the Government. Therefore the minority will support this bill despite any views of its members."

While it was well known, he said, that he differed with President Wilson in respect to his Mexican policy and other matters, the Senator said that all such things were laid aside and that he now stood behind the President "to bring this war to a successful conclusion."

Many other Senators made brief speeches explaining their attitude. Senator Hoke Smith insisted that the Allies did not want a gift from the United States to maintain their armies and their ships.

Senator Calder of New York favored an issue of six billions in bonds and only one billion of Treasury certificates. He feared further increases in taxation might seriously impair industry.

"The proposed issues, stupendous as they are, will not be a large contribution for the American nation," said Senator McCumber. "Also remember that blood is being poured out in unstinted measure while as yet we cannot give any soldiers. We ought to be mighty liberal in spending our money when we can take no part in the real battle."

Senator Sterling of North Dakota said that the United States could not render more effective aid than by money. He advocated a gift of $25,000,000 to aid the Allies in caring for the Belgians.

Senator Smoot said that he had not the slightest doubt but that the $3,000,000,000 loan to the Allies would be paid, but if it were not, he said, "every penny will be expended in defense of the principles we believe in and are fighting for." If the President saw fit to advance Russia a billion dollars and take in return obligations, if it would establish a republican form of government, he would favor its advancement even though the United States were not to get back a cent.

McADOO MEETS BANKERS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Secretary McAdoo, while the debate on the bond issue bill was in progress in the Senate today, had an informal conference with the members of the Advisory Council of the Federal Reserve Board. Among the bankers who gave their views to the Secretary were J. P. Morgan of New York, Daniel G. Wing of Boston, W. S. Rowe of Cincinnati, L. L. Rue of Philadelphia, F. O. Watts of St. Louis, E. F. Swinney of Kansas City, J. R. Mitchell of St. Paul, and Herbert Fleishhacker of San Francisco.

These callers approved the loan and Secretary McAdoo asked that they give him in writing either individually or collectively their opinion in regard to all features of the loan that assumed any importance in their minds.

Following the meeting with the bankers, Secretary McAdoo said that he never felt greater confidence in any line of action than he did in regard to the success of the loan. He reiterated his declaration that there would not be a higher rate of interest than 3½ per cent. He believes that the country will be glad to take the bonds at that rate, and his idea, while not fully defined in regard to the first offer, is rather inclined toward making the first volume of bonds offered at least $3,000,000,000.

The amount will depend first of all on the result of the approaching conferences with Foreign Secretary Balfour of England, Lord Cunliffe, who comes with him and M. Viviani, the Financial Minister of France, and his fellow Commissioners. The first offer of bonds will be gauged according to the necessities of the Allies.

The investment in Russian war bonds will receive especial consideration. It was announced today that in all probability a commission from this country would be sent to Petrograd to discuss carefully what financial aid America was to offer Russia.

Secretary McAdoo denied today that there was foundation for a report that he was to go at the head of a commission from this Government to France. He said that he had absolutely no knowledge of such an arrangement and thought the conference soon to be held in Washington would settle all questions as to the aid to be given to France. The Secretary discussed today the expressions of opinion coming to him in his correspondence from all parts of the country. There has been some talk that the savings banks of the country were opposed to the loan. Mr. McAdoo said that of the thousands of savings banks in the United States he had received just one dispatch raising this question. The bank in question is in a small town in Ohio.

The demand for a higher rate of interest, in order to make the loan a success, had come, it was said, from many men in the banking business, but the suggestion had always been based on the theory that a higher rate would make the loan appeal more effectively to the investing public. There was, the Secretary said, at this time, no sound reason for thinking that it would be necessary later to raise the rate for subsequent issues if they should be made. In fact, he scouted the idea of a higher rate for any part of the loan of $5,000,000,000 than 3½ per cent.

It is not unlikely that a part of the proceeds of the first issue of bonds will be reserved for the military expenditures of the United States, although at present no necessity exists for raising any great amount of money for military purposes. Secretary McAdoo can, at any time, raise on Treasury notes from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 for army or navy expenditures, these notes to run for 90 days and later to be refunded in bonds or taken up with the proceeds of bond sales.

The statement made a week ago that no commissions would be paid for selling the bonds was repeated by Secretary McAdoo today. He adheres to his belief that the loan will be a great popular success and that it will be promptly taken up. The Secretary said today that from all the banking advice he had received there was every assurance that the placing of the loan would not disturb the financial condition of the country in the slightest degree. All indications were that the country was able and ready to invest in the bonds just as soon as they were to be had.

The co-operation and aid of the business interests of the country in floating the bond issue was pledged today on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States by the Chamber's Committee on War Financing, of which W. D. Simmons of St. Louis is Chairman. Mr. Simmons and his colleagues called on Secretary McAdoo and discussed details of the financial program.

WOULD SEIZE LANDS OF RUSSIAN CHURCH

Workers' and Soldiers' Delegates Also Favor Suppression of Classes and Titles.

GREET FOREIGN COMRADES

Accord Great Reception to Anglo-French Socialist Representatives at Council Meeting in Duma.

PETROGRAD, April 17.—The closing sitting of the congress of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates passed resolutions today favoring the suppression of classes and titles and the confiscation of all lands belonging to the Crown, the Church, and also monasteries.

Provision is made for the transfer of the lands to the use of the peasants.

The first congress of the Jewish Social Democratic Party, known as "The Bund," opened today. The chief business discussed was the disabilities suffered by the Jews in Finland.

Anglo-French Socialists Welcomed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, April 16, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The British Labor delegates, Messrs. Thorne, O'Grady, and Sanders, who went to Russia on a Government-patronized mission, arrived on a damp, warm Spring night in company with the French Socialist delegates and M. Plekhanoff, founder of the Russian Social Democratic Party, who had been in exile for thirty-seven years.

M. Plekhanoff's coming was eagerly awaited by his friends and followers. Throughout the war he has strongly championed the idea of national defense and opposed all doctrinaire parleying with the Germans. He is intellectually head and shoulders above any of the Socialist leaders here, and his authority as a veteran Socialist, coupled with his intimate knowledge of European politics, should greatly strengthen the more moderate and intelligent elements in the Socialist camp.

The rumor of his coming got abroad and thousands gathered at the station to meet him. That the British and French delegates were on the train the bulk of the crowd only learned at the station. Soldiers were drawn up in line, militia kept order, and when at midnight the train drew up at the station the bands played the "Marseillaise," the soldiers stood at salute and when M. Plekhanoff and delegates emerged from the train they had a ropay reception

On Sunday, in the midst of the Easter festivities, the delegates were received by the executive committee of the Labor Council, and had a long and detailed conversation on the attitude of the Western Socialists to the war. Cordial relations were established with their Russian comrades and at 3 o'clock, when Plekhanoff came to the Duma, all went to the main hall, where the Congress of Labor and soldiers' committees were in session. The amphitheatre, which one had been accustomed to see occupied by the sober figures of the Deputies, was filled with picturesque soldiers and workmen, all intent on the new and serious business.

The entry of the delegates and M. Plekhanoff was the signal for cheering. Business was interrupted as Plekhanoff, Thorne, O'Grady, Mute and Cachin were led up to the Speaker's chair, and M. Cheidze, President of the Workmen's Council, said a few words of welcome. Cachin, the French delegate, made an impassioned address, of which his hearers understood not a word, but responded with cheers to the thrilling inflections and dramatic gestures of the French orator. The cheering was still more lusty when his speech was translated by a member of the Russian Executive Committee.

Then O'Grady spoke. He began in a low voice, but in two minutes he had raised it to Trafalgar Square dimensions and the decorous Duma never heard such a volume of thunderous sound as O'Grady poured forth on the uncomprehending soldiers and workmen. They were greatly impressed, and when the translator announced that O'Grady was Chairman of the National Federation of Trade Unions there was a tumult of applause, which was renewed again and again during the translation of the speech.

Neither Cachin nor O'Grady mentioned war. They conveyed greetings from the western workers and spoke glowingly of the liberative effect of the Russian Revolution on the world. Plekhanoff did speak of the war, and most definitely and emphatically, and his words were cheered to the echo.

Then on the spot where only a few months ago I had heard Stürmer mumbling his lying assurance abou tloyalty to the Allies and war to victory, Plekhanoff seized O'Grady by one hand and Mute by the other, and, raising them on high, presented to the wildly cheering throng the real and thrilling symbol of allied democracy. "It was admirable, it was moving," said Cachin as we walked out. "It was the most historical thing I've ever been at in my life," said Will Thorne. It was certainly a most hopeful beginning.

BAKHMETEFF RESIGNS THE RUSSIAN EMBASSY

An Adherent of Autocracy, He Can't Represent Revolutionists —Rosen May Return.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—George Bakhmeteff, Russian Ambassador to the United States since 1911, cabled the Provisional Government at Petrograd today that he had decided to relinquish his office and asked that some one be named to take charge of the embassy.

Distinctly a member of the old imperial régime, the Ambassador's separation from the new democratic Government has been a foregone conclusion. Only today it became known that Baron Rosen, Mr. Bakhmeteff's predecessor here, would probably be sent to succeed him if he actually was not already en route to Washington.

Mr. Bakhmeteff, it is stated, has remained at his post since the revolution solely because he expected the Grand Duke Michael to head the new Government, in accordance with the wish of Czar Nicholas. When the provisional officials, however, arranged for elections and for the permanent replacement of the monarchy, Mr. Bakhmeteff, accredited as the personal representative of the Emperor, decided that he could not continue to represent the elements now in control.

It is assumed that C. Onou, the counselor of the Embassy, will assume the duties of Chargé d'Affairs pending the arrival of a new Ambassador.

Mr. Bakhmeteff has taken two houses in Chevy Chase, a fashionable suburb, where he will make his residence for the Summer.

COMMONS DISCUSSES BAN ON THE NATION

Lloyd George, Defending Action, Is Accused by Churchill of Worse Offenses.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 18.—In the House of Commons, at question time yesterday, Mr. Pringle asked on what grounds the foreign circulation of The Nation had been stopped. Andrew Bonar Law replied that this course had been taken because the articles in The Nation were of a nature to help the enemy and had been widely used for propaganda purposes. The same course would be taken, he said, if any articles producing the same effect were published in any newspaper.

Mr. Alden suggested that similar statements from The Times and The Daily Mail had been circulated in German newspapers. Mr. Bonar Law said that he was not aware of it, and asked for instances. Mr. Pringle, dissatisfied with the explanations of the Government, opened debate on the subject.

In the evening the Prime Minister came down to the House especially to resist the attack. He pointed out that the articles in The Nation pressing for peace culminated in the issue of March 8 in a statement that the German retreat had found the British wanting. The War Office, the Home Office, the Propaganda Department, and the Foreign Office were all of the opinion that it was extremely mischievous to allow articles of that kind to be circulated abroad. Finally the Premier said representations had come from headquarters in France declaring that this sort of thing was most discouraging to the soldiers.

Winston Spencer Churchill said that he had read the articles in The Nation, and was bound to say that he could not see reasonable ground for taking exception to them. The present Prime Minister, he asserted, had himself made more pessimistic speeches about the British position than had appeared in The Nation. Everything in these articles made mild reading compared with the Dardanelles report, (laughter and cheers.) He ridiculed the idea that the articles would discourage the troops.

In the course of the discussion, Mr. Pringle told the House that President Wilson, who was a reader of The Nation, could obtain his copy only through the American embassy.

The Daily Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent says that in the lobby there was universal condemnation of the War Office's action.

"It happened," he writes, "that the first issue of The Nation to which the prohibition applied was a special American number full of enthusiasm for President Wilson's great speech and emphasizing the value to democracy of American participation in the war."

The Times regards the action of the War Office as ill-advised and says that the freedom of the press is at once too important and too delicate an institution for interference except in the last resort and on the very highest authority.

RUSSIAN ELECTION PLAN.

Council Favors Universal Suffrage in Choosing Assembly.

LONDON, April 17.—A Petrograd dispatch says that the Congress of the Council of Workers' and Soldiers' Delegates has adopted a report regarding the constituent assembly, which makes the following recommendations:

The Assembly shall be convened at Petrograd as early as possible on the principle of universal suffrage. The army shall take part in the elections like the rest of the population, but the active army shall vote separately. Women shall have the same voting rights as men. The qualifying age for the vote shall be twenty years. The Council of Workers' and Soldiers' Delegates shall control the election, which shall fix the political régime of Russia and her fundamental laws.

The report also provides that after constitutional questions are settled the Assembly shall take up agrarian problems and draft new laws on matters of labor, questions of nationality, organization of local self-government, and all questions of an international character.

There Are Just Three Ways of Measuring a Suit—

By Fabric, By Tailoring, By Price

At some shops they leave the measuring of quality to you—relying upon the general impression created to win you over. In bringing out, under the standard of Macy's Own Merchandise,

"Supre-Macy" Suits
For MEN at $24.75

we put the job of quality measurements up to experts who were interested only in the task before them.

Best by Test at the Price

By Fabric: Hung side by side with other garments purchased at higher prices elsewhere, the woolen expert examined them critically and declared the all wool fabrics used in "Supre-Macy" Suits to be superior to those used in the other garments.

By Tailoring: An expert clothes-maker then compared them, inside and out, and reached the decision that "Supre-Macy" Suits were better made and contained more hand tailorng than the others.

By Price: With one exception the other garments would cost you 20% more elsewhere.

HARLEM PACIFISTS MOVED ON BY POLICE

Anti-Conscription Advocates Barred from Two Halls After Drawing Crowd of 2,500.

POSE AS TRUE PATRIOTS

Call Compulsory Service Un-American, Undemocratic, and Against Our Traditions.

Two thousand anti-conscriptionists were dispersed by the police in Harlem last night after admission to two halls had been denied them and they had found a third too small to hold more than a few of them. Those who did manage to squeeze into the third hall—about 200—applauded vigorously when their leaders denounced the limitation of "free speech," and asserted that they had as much right to talk against compulsory military service as against any other measure of interest to the public.

The original intention of the anti-conscriptionists was to meet in the New Star Casino, 107th Street and Park Avenue, under the auspices of the Harlem Union Against Conscription, an organization of young men with headquarters at 1,457 Madison Avenue. Winter Russell, lawyer; Robert Spector, Socialist; Professor Henry Mussey of Columbia University, Abraham Wilson, President at 1,547 Madison Avenue. Winter Russell; the Rev. Norman Thomas, and August Claessens, Socialist, had been invited to speak on "Shall the United States Be Prussianized?" and to stimulate a great demonstration against the compulsory military bill pending in Congress.

Persons living in the vicinity of the New Star Casino, who are not anti-conscriptionists heard of the meeting and appealed successfully to the police and the management of the hall not to permit it. When the enemies of compulsory service arrived at the hall they found the door locked and Captain James Brady and a large force of policemen from the East 104th Street Station on guard in front of it.

The anti-conscriptionists protested heatedly, but finally were induced by the police to try to find another place in which to meet. The speakers arrived in an automobile while the argument was in progress, but after a hurried survey of the situation all but Wilson, Claessens, and Spector went home.

About 2,500 of the anti-conscriptionists refused to be discouraged by this rebuff, and marched to another hall at 62 East 106th Street, where they were also denied admission after a vigorous argument.

They finally found a haven at 51 East 104th Street, but as this hall could not accommodate more than 200, the rest reluctantly decided to go home after being hustled about, gently but firmly, by the police reserves.

"We are true American patriots," Spector told those who succeeded in gaining admission. "We are against compulsory military service and conscription, because it is un-American, undemocratic, and against our traditions. Under conscription about 3,000,000 men would be called from their work to the colors and the country would lose about $9,000,000,000 annually during the time they were away from their work."

Claessens, the next speaker, advised the anti-conscriptionists to "keep cool," and not to be discouraged by their treatment of last night. "We desire to see Prussianism defeated," he cried, "but our danger is not an invasion by Germans, but an invasion of German military ideas."

Other speeches were made and those who desire universal military service were vigorously criticised.

ASK LANDLORD TO PUT PEACE SOCIETIES OUT

Forty-one Tenants of 70 Fifth Avenue Sign Petition to Owner of That Building.

Forty-one tenants in the Educational Building, 70 Fifth Avenue, have signed a petition asking George A. Plimpton, owner of the building, to oust the pacifist organizations housed there. They include the Emergency Peace Federation, the clearing house for the peace societies, the American Union Against Militarism, the Church Peace Union, and the Woman's Peace Party.

The objectors have not yet presented the petition to Mr. Plimpton. Among the signers to the petition were representatives of the League to Enforce Peace and the New York Peace Union. Robert Underwood Johnson also signed. The peace societies believe nothing will come of the movement.

PACIFIST CHAPLAIN DROPPED.

Sons of the Revolution Re-elect All Officers Except Rev. Dr. Hall.

The Rev. Dr. Frank Oliver Hall, a pacifist, was officially dropped as Chaplain of the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at its annual meeting last night at the Waldorf. He was the only officer not re-elected. The Rev. Dr. Charles L. Goodell was chosen in his place.

What aroused the ire of members of the society were remarks attributed to Dr. Hall that he "rather coveted" the "contemptuous' nickname of pacifist" because "so many similar ones had proved later to be titles of the highest honor." He proposed aso a referendum vote on the war.

The society passed a resolution favoring universal service.

HISSES GREET COCKRAN.

Diners, with Aberdeen as Guest, Resent Fling at the Allies.

W. Bourke Cockran, speaking last night at a "war dinner" of the Society of Illustrators, denounced the European war as "the most sordid in the history of the world," and added that until the United States entered the conflict none of the belligerents could give a good reason for being a participant.

Scattered hisses greeted his remarks, and many eyes were turned toward Lord Aberdeen, who was the guest of honor. Cass Gilbert, architect, got up and defended the Entente Allies and the motives which prompted them to fight.

"I differ with Mr. Cockran in one respect," he said—"the Allies have been fighting for the principle of democracy."

At this many diners sprang to their feet and shouted their approval. Although he had characterized the aims of all the belligerents as "sordid," Mr. Cockran later said that the entrance of this country and the words of Mr. Wilson had lifted the war to a higher plane—a plane that was ideal.

In a day of extravagant and easily-given praise there is something very solid about this recent expression of appreciation of The Dictaphone.

Quite simply, the Hamilton Watch Company writes: "We find them very satisfactory." On reflection, it will be seen that words could hardly go further. "Very satisfactory"—after all, that is the point. What daily perfect service is implied!

One of the most distinguished and successful members of the watch making industry, the Hamilton Watch Company's commendation of The Dictaphone is distinctly worth noting by other houses.

They commenced dictating to The Dictaphone early in 1916 with six Dictaphones. Finding as the months went by, just what The Dictaphone meant in Convenience and Speed for the entire office staff, more Dictaphones were installed until now they have fifteen in all.

Carbon tears down the efficiency of all ordinary types of motors faster than the wear and tear of use.

But carbon builds up the efficiency of the Willys-Knight Motor faster than wear and tear uses it up.

And so the Willys-Knight motor improves with use

Think of the joy of owning and driving a motor that is automatically *re*vitalized by the very deadly element that *de*vitalizes every other kind of motor.

It means more constant use without repair or adjustment, constant instead of intermittent efficiency and much longer life.

Let us tell you more of the advantages of the Willys-Knight motor.

UNION MEN OPPOSED TO ASIATIC LABOR BILL

Protest to President Against Board of Trade's Measure to Relieve Food Situation.

The Executive Committee of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation will, at a special meeting today, take up consideration of a bill for the temporary importation of Asiatic labor. The bill, which gives the President power to suspend any provision of law by which aliens are excluded from the United States, has been drawn up by William H. Gibson of the F. W. Linde Company, who first suggested that Chinese and Japanese laborers be permitted to enter this country to work on farms during the war.

The present and prospective high price of food will not, it appears, prevent union labor from vigorously opposing any such measure. Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Federated Labor Union, brought the matter up before the Executive Committee of that body on Monday night, and announced that the labor representatives were unalterably opposed to any plan for bringing contract Asiatic labor into the United States.

Mr. Bohm said further that the Executive Committee had directed that a telegram be sent to President Wilson opposing the plan. Mr. Gibson, when told at his home in Tarrytown of the opposition of the labor men, said that the bill he had drawn up for the Board of Trade fully protected American organized labor.

"I don't see any reason," he added, "why organized labor should oppose the measure to supply this country quickly with agricultural laborers. The bill has been carefully drawn, and vests discretion in the President to act in the present labor shortage emergency. In any event, the Chinese or Japanese labor could not be retained here more than one year after peace was declared. The bill aims to furnish adequate help to take care of this year's crops, as the war, from present indications, will be over before it comes time to plant and gather another crop. The bill, if enacted, will furnish labor which the unions are unable to supply."

If the Board of Trade's Executive Committee approves the bill United States Senator William H. Calder and Representative F. W. Rowe will be asked to present it to Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Senator Calder of New York said tonight that he understood that some association would ask him to introduce a bill for importing Asiatic labor, but that so far he had received no such request. Mr. Calder said he would give the subject careful consideration before consenting to push the measure as he thought there might be many objections to it.

Corporal Shot Crossing Vacant Lot.

Corporal Charles R. Moran of Troop E of the First Cavalry, N. G. N. Y., reported to the police last evening that he was shot through the left arm while crossing a vacant lot at Sterling Place and Brooklyn Avenue, Brooklyn. The incident occurred shortly after 5 o'clock, he said, while he was going to his home, at 517 Sterling Place. He felt a slight sting in his arm, but did not know he was wounded until he got home.

"SO I TAKE REAL PLEASURE IN THIS PHONOGRAPH MUSIC"

"I WAS one of those who held aloof from phonograph music. I prided myself upon a much broader knowledge of music than the average person has.

"And while I could not but admire the certain excellence attained in many phonographic reproductions, they still were not quite satisfying to me.

"Thus it was with a quite critical attitude toward, if not with an actual prejudice against phonographs that I first heard the Aeolian-Vocalion."

". . . . , as my friend adjusted a record, I was already in my mind's eye telling him how foolish he was to wax so enthusiastic over an instrument little different from all the others. But my thoughts were halted—my attention was seized instantly. I began to listen with keen interest.

"A voice, a wonderful voice, was singing. The aria was that very beautiful one from Tosca—'Vissi d'arte e d'amor.' What fine, sweet tone!—how rich with emotion!

"Never had I heard such human voice from a phonograph. The artistic qualities were beyond reproach.

"Then taking the Graduola—the Vocalion expression device—I played a violin record myself—played it as I wanted it, with every tone shade, every crescendo as I felt it should be. I play the piano, but I have always wished to play the violin. How I enjoyed that first opportunity!

"The Vocalion gives me satisfying tone, magnificent tone, and a freedom of personal musical expression that I never could have hoped for.

"So I take real pleasure in this phonograph music. The Vocalion made by men of artistic skill and understanding is far in advance of those instruments which are the product of mechanical genius only.

"The Vocalion is a true musical instrument."

See the Three Big National Parks and Colorado on One Vacation.

You are planning for your summer vacation?

You don't know where to go?

Well, think of this:

Through Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks, out from Yellowstone over the wonderful new "Cody Road"—all these trips by comfortable automobile, a novelty perfected only this year—and then Rocky Mountain (Estes) National Park in Colorado, with a jaunt to Denver and Colorado Springs (Pike's Peak and the "Garden of the Gods" near by).

The Government has spent money freely this past year in adding to the attraction of these playgrounds of the people.

There is no trip in the world so varied and full of interest.

The whole trip is made over the lines of a single railroad system—the Burlington Route—the big, prosperous, well-managed, dependable railroad of the West. One ticket over one railroad.

Stop at the office or write. Let me tell you how easily and comfortably this wonderful trip can be made. Ask for folders describing each Park. Full of maps and pictures. No charge.

STAGE STARS JOIN IN ALLIED BENEFIT

Bernhardt Sends a Kiss from Her Bed in Mt. Sinai Hospital to Great Audience.

CARUSO OPENS PROGRAM

Metropolitan Opera House Stage Banked with Society Folk in Tableaux.

Caruso and the opera stars started the "patriotic and allied" benefit performance at the Metropolitan last night, French Theatre folk in New York stole first honors for the "Marseillaise," a vast stageful of society folk joined in tableaux and singing of patriotic airs, and when other Broadway houses were letting out their crowds the stars of the drama came in and carried the Opera House program along to midnight. Sothern and Marlowe read war poems written by Alan Seeger, Harold Begbie, and Julia Ward Howe, and Sir Herbert Tree made the speech of the night for the absent Bernhardt.

"I have a message for you," said the English actor, "from one who is very dear to us all, and whose absence tonight we all regret—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt. I called on her today at Mount Sinai Hospital and found her full of vitality and courage and enthusiasm. I asked her if I might give the public a message from her. Then, with a fine gesture, she said, 'Tell them'—and with that she kissed me. Ladies and gentlemen, I respectfully throw you the kiss of the greatest woman I have ever known. Alas, it is no longer mine."

There was a supper and a dance at the Plaza after the Metropolitan audience dispersed, and those in charge of the benefit said the results in money would not be known till all the returns were in. The proceeds were to be divided between the fund for mutilated soldiers of the Allies and the local branch of the Women Artists' Union, which joined in making the affair a success.

President Wilson sent a telegram, read from the stage, in which he expressed his sympathy with the several charities, and desired that his name be among the patrons.

An orchestra, led by Oscar Spirescu, assisted throughout the evening with music by Massenet, Charpentier, Saint-Saens, and others. Sybil Vane encored an air from "Madama Butterfly," with Ivor Novello's "Keep the Home Fires Burning." She was accompanied at the piano by Clara Novello Davies. Frances Alda sang Massenet's "Ouvre Tes Yeux" and La Forge's "Ecstasy." Yvonne Garrick acted a solo-comedy, "The Little Abbé," and Gilda Darthy recited "The Battle of the Marne" in a way to bring the audience to its feet singing "The Marseillaise."

Caruso surprised even his Metropolitan admirers with novel songs, not an opera air among the lot, and mostly in French. One was Debussy's "Song of the Poor Children," and an encore in Italian was by his accompanist, Richard Barthelemy. In the great tableau, Mme. Alda as Columbia sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," Povla Frijsh gave stanzas of the "Marseillaise," and Alice Verlet "La Brabançonne" of Belgium, with 500 women for the choruses, and a final unveiling of grouped figures of the allied countries high up back of the stage to the Seventh Avenue wall, while men dressed as soldiers waved the French and American flags.

The house gave great cheers for Julia Marlowe Sothern's reading of "Verdun" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." With the addition of 'cello solos by the Belgian artist, Maurice Dambois, and speeches by Emile Villemin, on behalf of Gustave Hesloein, and by Sir Herbert Tree for Sarah Bernhardt, the long program ended an occasion unique in recent years at the Metropolitan.

BREAK ON TENEMENT LAW.

Secretary Veiller Leaves Committee and Denounces Lawson Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 17.—Lawrence Veiller, who for nineteen years has been Secretary and principal executive officer of the New York Tenement House Committee, announced today that he had left the committee because "the energies of its members have been devoted for nearly two years to the destruction of the tenement house law, which they helped to put upon the statute books sixteen years ago."

"I for one," Mr. Veiller said, "do not care to devote my time to working with a committee which gives more attention to the interests of those dealing in real estate and financing houses than to the welfare of the great mass of people of New York City who are unable to protect themselves."

Mr. Veiller said the immediate cause of his resignation was that he had been refused freedom to express publicly his views in opposition to the bill amending the tenement house law which has been introduced by Senator Robert R. Lawson of Kings. "I am entirely out of sympathy," he added, "with the judgment of a majority of the committee that it was desirable to increase the fire hazards and return to the unspeakable airshaft."

Grosvenor Atterbury, the architect, a member of the Tenement House Committee, said last night that the committee had withdrawn its objections to the Lawson bill after the Brooklyn interests back of it had submitted an amendment promising radical changes. According to the new provisions, the first-floor bathroom of a tenement would be lighted by a window to the open air, the second-floor bathroom by a shaft to the roof, and the third-floor bathroom by a skylight.

Paul D. Cravath is Chairman of the committee.

LONDON OBSERVES FIRST MEATLESS DAY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 17.—London had its first meatless day today and the Provinces will have theirs tomorrow. There is nothing to prevent householders from purchasing in advance sufficient meat to enable them to disregard the regulations, but the response, which hitherto has been made by the country to appeals to its honor, is held generally to justify the food authorities in their expectations that a sensible reduction in consumption will follow the one meatless day a week rule. Many London clubs already have two meatless days each week. London restaurateurs generally prefer the new methods to the old system of limited courses for meals, and today's menus, although meatless, were ample and appetizing.

Appeals to the well-to-do classes to cut down the consumption of bread in order to leave more for the poor, are becoming more intensive.

The shortage of potatoes grows greater, and it is a common thing to find well-to-do people who haven't eaten a single potato in a week.

Milk is now sixpence a quart and threatens to go to a shilling unless the Food Controller takes steps to stop the advance. The advent of milder weather has relieved London's troubles in one particular—that of coal. For nearly a month past one of the city's greatest distributing agencies has professed its inability to execute orders to deliver a ton of coal under less than eight weeks' delay, owing, not so much to the lack of supplies, as to the shortage of labor to meet the demands for delivery.

Poets' Day at Independent Exhibit.

Today will be Poets' Day at the Independent Art Exhibition at the Grand Central Palace, and a group of poets will read their poems. Among those who are to appear will be Mary Austin, Ridgely Torrence, Maxwell Bodenheim, Enrique Cross, Charles Duncan, Arture Giovannitti, Horace Holley, Harry Kemp, Mina Loy, Allen Norton, and William Carlos Williams. The pictures shown by the Independent artists continue to attract, and on the upper floor the Tea Garden serves tea and patriotism under the auspices of the National Special Aid Society for an extra payment, which goes for war relief.

SENATORS DISCUSS NEW STATE TAXES

Conference Agrees on a 3 Per Cent. Impost on Corporations.

AUTOS MAY PAY MORE

Proposal to Double the Present Registration Fee Is Approved—More Funds Needed for War.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—With only $49,500,000 in revenues from indirect taxation in sight, the Legislature is confronted with the necessity of raising approximately $80,000,000 to meet the requirements of the State Government and leave a sufficient surplus in the treasury to meet extraordinary demands arising out of the war. The preparedness program of the State, up to the present time, has added $7,000,000 to the budget, and there is every indication that before all the expenditures for this purpose have been met that increase will be doubled, possibly trebled. This amount, it is true, may be raised by a bond issue, but a substantial surplus is required to meet emergencies.

To consider the situation a conference of Republican Senators was held today. Two proposals occupied most of the attention of the conference. One was a proposal to levy a new tax on automobiles in addition to the present registration fee which it is expected will net the State about $2,000,000. The other was a plan to levy for State purposes a tax of 3 per cent. on the income of manufacturing and mercantile corporations.

Such corporations, employing at least 40 per cent. of their capital in manufacture within the State, up to the present time have been exempt from any State tax on their profits, but have been required to pay local taxes on real and personal property. Under the plan today such corporations would be relieved of a local tax on their personal property.

It is estimated that the revenues from this source would be approximately $14,000,000, which, added to the other revenues from new sources and the $49,500,000 in sight from taxes already provided for, would give the State indirect taxes aggregating $68,000,000, leaving $12,000,000 to be raised by direct tax.

Before the conference broke up late this evening the Republican Senators had definitely decided on the 3 per cent. tax on manufacturing and mercantile corporations, and on the additional automobile tax, which will involve the doubling of the present registration fee on pleasure vehicles when the license is obtained after Aug. 1. Automobile owners who already have paid their registration fee for the year beginning Feb. 1 will be immune from the increase until Feb. 1 next year. It was also decided to impose a tax on so-called trailers which are operated in connection with motor cars. This, it is expected, will net the State about $100,000 a year.

At a conference tomorrow the question of local option and readjustment of excise revenues will come up for discussion.

LAPLAND HITS A MINE.

White Star Steamer, However, Manages to Reach a British Port.

News was received here yesterday from England that the White Star Liner Lapland, which left New York more than two weeks ago for a British port, struck a mine, but steamed to her destination without assistance. It was said that the damage to the liner was not serious. The Lapland did not take any passengers from New York on her last trip. She is commanded by Captain J. Bradshaw, and up to the last voyage had been running across the Atlantic since the beginning of the war without accident.

ASSAILS GERMAN JINGOES.

Theodor Wolff Defends Bernstorff from Criticism of His Diplomacy.

COPENHAGEN, April 16, (via London, April 17.)—In today's Berlin Tageblatt Theodor Wolff comes to the defense of Count von Bernstorff and the German-Americans against the attacks made upon them in the Conservative and Pan-German press. The latest example of these attacks was in the weekly review, the Kreuz-Zeitung, in which it was asserted that the Washington Embassy had been perhaps the weakest point in the whole system of German diplomacy and had failed in correct judgment of American conditions and American temperament. Herr Wolff asserts that this charge is utterly false. As for the German-Americans he says:

"The German-Americans, whom the jingo writers now wish to disown and repudiate for failing in their mission in America, have a legitimate grievance against the Pan German jingoes, whose extravagance of language and action has made any attempt to explain and defend Germany futile. Many of the German-Americans are out of sympathy with the Prussia of caste privilege and bureaucratic tutelage, but if Prussia and the empire had a complete re-birth the obstacles to love and attachment of the old Fatherland would disappear."

The writer says that those who, after working for months to bring about war with the United States, now profess disappointment and surprise are doomed to further surprises. He warns them that the old autocratic Russia, on which, he says, they relied for support of their reactionary policies, is gone forever. Herr Wolff concludes with predicting the rise of a school of Socialist diplomats "who will spin threads of brotherhood and peace over the heads of Governments."

'Way in Front for 8 Years

It was in 1909 that Fatimas nosed their way to the front and became the fastest-selling cigarette costing over 10c.

And, except in one or two localities, Fatima's big lead is increasing faster today than ever—in spite of the big sales of cheaper cigarettes, packed to imitate Fatima.

Of course, Fatima's remarkable sales do not make Fatimas taste any better—in fact, no cigarette can just suit every man's personal taste.

But it proves that MOST men find that Fatimas keep their promises—that Fatimas do taste good and are comfortable while you are smoking and that after you smoke they leave you feeling just as fine as before.

Yes, Fatimas are sensible—and some day you'll become a Fatima smoker.

SOFT COAL MINERS WIN WAGE INCREASE

Operators Agree to a 20 Per Cent. Rise for the Central Field.

ANTHRACITE DEMAND NEXT

Miners Expect Hard Coal Men Will Get More Pay Because of High Prices for Food.

Coal operators in conference here with representatives of the miners, agreed yesterday afternoon to raise the wages of the 225,000 bituminous coal miners in the central competitive field, which embraces Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, and Western Pennsylvania. Their action followed a conference at the Hotel McAlpin, at which sub-committees representing labor and capital discussed for several days every phase of the wage situation. The agreement was reached late in the afternoon and under it, the miners will receive an increase, of approximately 20 per cent. over the wage fixed by an agreement which will not expire until March 31 of next year. The advance was granted in response to the mine workers' complaint that the former wage scale was not sufficient to meet the war-time cost of living. This is the recommendation adopted:

First—That pick and machine mining be advanced 10 cents a ton in the States and districts comprising the central competitive field, and that screen coal mining prices in the block coal field of Indiana be advanced in proportion to the mine run prices therein agreed to.

Second—That all day labor now receiving $2.90 a day be advanced to $3.60.

Third—That monthly all men and all other classes of labor employed in and around the mine be advanced 60 cents a day except as follows: Trappers shall receive $1.90 a day, and all boys now receiving $1.57 a day or less shall be advanced to $1.90 a day. No advance shall be paid on dead work or yardage.

Representatives of the miners believe the 173,000 anthracite miners will soon ask and receive a similar increase. John P. White, who is President of the United Mine Workers, said the conference has set a new mark for the prompt adjustment of differences between employers and employes. The agreement, he added, was made "in a spirit of patriotism and mutual accommodation worthy of good citizens in this time of emergency."

"This is in marked contrast to the turmoil and confusion that swept over the English coal industry and threatened to paralyze England's industrial activities soon after the war began," continued Mr. White. "American coal operators have accepted as valid our opposition to the payment of bonuses, always a source of controversy and discord, and have met our demand for a flat increase so that the miner will know definitely what his earnings are to be.

"Everywhere there have been unforseen and unprecedented advances in the cost of every article of necessity. Now, before the full pressure of war is upon us, we have agreed on a readjustment that will put the coal industry of the nation on a sound and healthy basis."

The joint conference adopted a resolution offering to the Council of National Defense their support and co-operation. A committee of five operators and five mine workers will endeavor to render service to the nation in maintaining the production of coal and in enlisting the maximum co-operation of employers and employes represented in the coal mining industry as to meet the requirements and needs of the National Government.

GIANTS AGAIN DINE ON TENDER ROBINS

Enjoy Hearty Repast at Expense of Champions, Who Foot Bill to Tune of 8 to 3.

SEVENTH QUITE AN INNING

Winners Glean a Little Matter of Five Runs in That Session—Pfeffer Bumps the Bumps.

The Brooklyn retreat received another powerful shove at Ebbets Field yesterday, and if Robinson's troopers don't buck up pretty soon, they will back right out of the league. The Giants continue to enjoy the best of health and are still running wild. They laced the Dodgers again by a score of 8 to 3, and there was so much difference between the performances of the clubs that you'd never suspect they were in the same league.

The McGraw invaders of Flatbush perpetrated a seventh inning upheaval on the Dodgers which sent five runs trickling over the plate. The gathering of about 5,000 Brooklyn fans moaned pitifully at the destruction. Their pet piece of pitching furniture, Ed Pfeffer of Grand Rapids, was sunk without warning, the Giants thumping him for fifteen hits. Bridegroom Davey Robertson was the author of a home run, two singles, and a sacrifice fly, while Buck Herzog and the great Zim nicked off three slams each, including a life-sized triple apiece.

Pol Perritt refused to throw anything the Dodgers could hit for five innings. Brooklyn bats discovered his secret in the sixth and seventh, but the players made poor use of the half dozen hits they made in these periods. The Giants' march of triumph was materially aided by the left side of the Dodger infield, which was as porous as a piece of mosquito netting. Ivan Olson can get a job in a circus any time, if he can juggle they way he did yesterday. He had three errors. Fabrique, the brand-new Dodger shortstop, also contributed a couple of foozles.

Olson's Palms Nicely Buttered.

Olson's fingers were smoothly greased in the seventh, when McCarty was at the bat. McCarty hoisted a high foul half way to third base, and Miller and Olson both stood to one side respectfully while the ball fell harmlessly between them. Then McCarty sent up another foul in the same place, and Olson muffed it with a cleanness acquired only by practice. McCarty had a long, trying session at the bat. Not only did Olson twice refuse to catch his foul flies, but Pfeffer two or three times came uncomfortably close to hitting McCarty in the head. The Giants' catcher averted damage to his cupola by dropping to his knees twice. Pfeffer finally got McCarty by dashing the ball against his ribs, and he went to first. It was his evident belief that for what he had been through he ought to get a safe passage at least to third base.

The Giants began to batter Pfeffer in the first inning. With one down, Herzog singled to left. He tried to stretch it into a double, and was thrown out at second by Wheat for his pains. Herzog opened the fourth with a single, and Robertson poled a line drive to left which took a decided curve and hopped out of Wheat's reach, rolling to the fence. So Robertson cantered all the way around, sending Herzog in ahead of him. More about that inning anon.

Brooklyn spruced up a bit in the sixth, and, with one out, Fabrique got an infield hit in Holkes vicinity. Daubert also got an infield rap when Holke failed to throw to second fast enough to make a force-out. Myers sent a single to short and filled the bases. Wheat's sacrifice fly pushed Fabrique home.

A Regular Merry-Go-Round.

The Giants' portion of the seventh was long and feverish. Eleven batsmen came up during the session, and if the Giants hadn't finally shown a little pity, it would still be the seventh inning in Brooklyn.

Rariden was safe on Fabrique's error and Jim Thorpe ran for the catcher. Fabrique also muffed a throw to second and failed to get Thorpe on a force-out after Perritt's grounder. Burns beat out a roller along the third base line, and filled the bases. Herzog stopped one of Pfeffer's shoots with his shin, and Thorpe was forced in with a run. Robertson's drive to centre scored Perritt and Burns. Heinie Zim sent two more runs across when he singled to right.

And up to this time there was no one out.

Fletcher rocketed to Fabrique, and Zimmerman died stealing. McCarty, batting in Rariden's place, after his trying session with Olson and Pfeffer, was hit with the ball and got to first. Pol Perritt, up for the second time in the same inning, forced McCarty at second and brought the carnage to a close.

In Brooklyn's half of the seventh, Miller singled to centre with one gone, and Pfeffer filed to Herzog. Fabrique walked, and Daubert's hit to first scored Miller. Hi Myers singled to left, scoring Fabrique. Brooklyn rested there, but the Giants kept right on.

In the eighth, after Burns had been exterminated at first by Fabrique, Herzog tripled to deep left and scored on Robertson's sacrifice fly to Myers. Zimmerman followed Herzog's excellent example and tripled to right, but he was left stranded, as Fletcher was tossed out at first by Fabrique.

The only consolation for Brooklyn in the whole game came in the fourth, when Zack Wheat made a marvelous catch for the third out when the Giants had the bases crowded. This happened just after Robertson had made his home run drive. Zim followed him on that occasion with a single, and Fletcher sacrificed. Kauff rolled one to Pfeffer, and Zim was run down between second and third. Holke walked, and Rariden got an infield tap, jamming the corners.

It was now up to Pol Perritt. He gave the crowd an awful shock when he hammered a long fly to left field which looked as if it was out of Wheat's reach. It had all the joyful earmarks of a home run. Wheat turned and raced toward the fence, and just as the ball seemed about to soar away from him he leaped and gathered it in. That just deprived the Giants of four more runs, that's what that scandalous young catch did.

Bats of Roush and Wingo Prove Fatal to Pirates.

CINCINNATI, April 17.—Cincinnati won the third game of the series from Pittsburgh here today in a ninth-inning rally. Roush opened the inning with a single. Griffith, batting for Neale, forced him, and Kopf flied out. Wingo then hit for his second triple, scoring Griffith. Baird threw low on Schneider's easy grounder and Wingo scored the willing run.

BROWN RETAINS SPORTS.

Right to Cancel Schedules, If Deemed Necessary, Reserved.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 17.—The Faculty of Brown University today authorized the Athletic Board of the college to carry out the schedules of the university's athletic teams as arranged, with the understanding that it reserved the right to cancel any or all schedules, should it deem such action necessary.

Veteran Gymnast to Compete.

Among the competitors in the gymnastic championships of the Amateur Athletic Union on Friday night will be E. C. Brendlin, who won the all-around national title nearly twenty years ago. Brendlin is a believer in gymnastics as a means of retaining youth, and has continued exercising, though he has suffered from an injured left arm since he competed at the Pan American Exposition.

Wallace Outpoints Mooney.

Eddie Wallace, the Brooklyn lightweight, easily outpointed Joe Mooney, a west side boxer, who substituted for Jimmy Duffy, in the main ten-round bout at the Pioneer Sporting Club last night. In the other bout scheduled for ten rounds, in which the principals were Johnny Morris, a former amateur champion, and Chick Nelson of Denmark, Referee Patsy Haley stopped the contest in the sixth session to save Nelson from further punishment.

TWO HITS ENOUGH TO WIN FOR YANKS

Donovanites Solve Johnson for Only a Single and Triple, but Beat Senators by 2 to 1.

The Yankees made much of light hitting at the Polo Grounds yesterday, so much in fact, that the way was paved for the downfall of the visiting Senators and their premier pitcher, Walter Johnson. Just two hits, one of them a single by Peckingpaugh, in the second inning, and another, a triple, by Wally Pipp, in the seventh inning, made possible a victory for the Yanks by a score of 2 to 1. It is evident from this that Johnson was in rare form and it is also evident that some other factors of pronounced importance intervened in the fray. Two life-sized Washington errors in the second inning did their bit to turn the scale. However, the score represents smart baseball by the Yankees, the best of which was the timely cutting off of a ninth inning rally by the visitors, which threatened to assume steam roller proportions.

Allan Russel was on the mound for the Yanks and until the ninth inning he was as stingy with hits as was Johnson. Up to that time he had allowed but two and the Senators were flaying the air ineffectually. Six of them went by the strikeout route, with muttered imprecations against the moist ball that twisted and turned at unseemly angles as it broke over the plate. The Senators were no doubt in hopes that Russell would prove as erratic as he had in the past, when there was generally a tendency to lose control as the games neared their conclusion.

But yesterday control never deserted him and he held the visitors helpless until the last inning, when trouble was cut short by some snappy fielding, in which Maisel, Nunamaker, and Peckinpaugh contributed a sparkling double play that roused wild shouts of protest from the Senators. The spectators didn't give them a chance to chatter much. They decided the game was over, rushed out on the field and saved some of the visitors from a fine.

Joe Judge was the only Senator who had a real grievance. In the seventh inning he laid down a hit that wandered slowly toward third. Russel came over and gobbled it up, but it looked as if his toss to first was a bit too late to catch Judge. Tommy Connolly waved him out and Judge walked away with good grace, which was indicated by laudatory remarks about Connolly's eyesight. Connolly doesn't wear spectacles. Judge advised him to get a pair. Had Judge been safe at the initial sack the complexion of the game might have been changed, for he would doubtless have scored when Crane doubled to centre.

Russel had a dangerous moment in the fourth inning, when two passes and a single filled the bases. Crane was up next and Russel decided that it was a good time to tighten up. This he did, for the Senator swung mightily and went out on an infield tap to Maisel.

The second inning opened propitiously for the Yankees. Foster handled a lazy grounder from Pipp, as if it were a bomb, and Pipp perched gracefully on the first sack. Frank Baker, who was supposed to be dangerously wounded in one of his thumbs a few days back, was in the game again. The only thing the matter with him yesterday was that he couldn't hit. That was enough. He popped a fly to Crane, and Magee lifted one that fell into Milan's waiting hands.

Pipp was still on first. Peckinpaugh whizzed a single past Foster and Pipp romped over to third. Then came another error and a Yankee run. Peckinpaugh started a steal and was trudging along without any apparent hope of reaching the second sack when Ainsmith whipped the ball down to Crane. The latter muffed the throw and Pipp scored. One, two, three was the order of the Yankees' retirement for the next four innings.

In the seventh Pipp scorched a triple to centre, the ball seeeking to get out of the lot through the exit gate, which wasn't open. Baker then flied to left and the shot was enough to go as a sacrifice fly to bring Pipp across.

The Senators made a real bid to tie the score in the ninth. After Milan had lifted a fly that was gobbled up by Peckinpaugh, Russel started ruthless warfare. He brought Rice to earth with a well directed shot on the knee and the latter limped to first. Menosky went in to run for him. Smith singled to short right and Menosky reached second. Joe Judge was sore because of Connolly's decision two innings before and doubled to short left, scoring Menosky and putting Smith on third. Jamieson was called upon to bat for Crane and hit a sharp one to Maisel, who threw out Smith at the plate.

Nunamaker whipped the ball to Peckinpaugh to head off Jamieson at second and Judge tried to come home. The sphere came flying back to Nunamaker, but Jamieson dodged over the plate. He hadn't touched it and Nunamaker ran out and put the ball on him amid wild protests that were curbed by the spectators' rush across the field to the exits.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 17.—Allan Sothoron, a recruit, held the Indians to one hit today, and St. Louis shut them out, 4 to 0. Only twenty-nine men faced Sothoron and only two reached second, Chapman in the first, when Sothoron gave two passes, and Allison in the ninth, when, after reaching first on Lavan's error, he stole second.

St. Louis got six hits off Bagby, each of which figured in the scoring. The score:

TIGERS ARE VICTIMS AGAIN.

Fall Before White Sox for Third Successive Time.

DETROIT, April 17.—Chicago made it three straight this afternoon, defeating Detroit, 4 to 2. Ehmke pitched well until the eighth inning, when triples by Leibold and Eddie Collins resulted in two runs and gave Chicago the game. Jackson's home run to deep centre was the batting feature.

Reckless base running in the closing inning contributed to Detroit's defeat.

NEWARK NINE WINS AS SEASON STARTS

Conquers Champion Bisons in First Game of International League Schedule.

The Newark club opened the International League season before a big crowd in Newark yesterday with flying colors, winning from Buffalo, the league champions, in the opening game, which was attended by Mayor Raymond of Newark and Mayor Fuhrmann of Buffalo. Newark, under its new manager, Tom Needham, the former catcher of the Cubs, downed the Bisons by a score of 2 to 1. The season also opened in Providence, Baltimore, and Richmond.

At Newark there was a big automobile parade before the game, in which Mayors Raymond and Fuhrman took part, together with several city officials. In the parade numerous semi-professional teams marched in uniform. A platoon of mounted police led the baseball procession, which broke up at Weidenmayer's Park. Mayor Raymond threw out the first ball.

Walter Smallwood of Newark and George Gaw of Buffalo engaged in a close pitchers' battle, which was an even thing most of the way. Newark got a run in the first inning and Buffalo tied the count in the seventh. The Newarks scored the winning run in their half of the same inning.

The International League got under way this year under particularly bright conditions. There are four former league stars now managing clubs in the league. They are Needham of Newark, Lajoie of Toronto, Mike Doolan of Rochester, and Jack Egan of Providence.

P. S. A. L. Swimming Meet Saturday

The Public Schools Athletic League will conduct the annual elementary schools indoor swimming championships next Saturday morning at the West Sixtieth Street pool. It is expected that at least 400 boys will swim in the various events. They will be divided into four weight classes, 85 pounds, 100 pounds, 115 pounds, and unlimited weight classes. Last year Public School 40 of Manhattan won the Arthur McAleenan trophy awarded to the school winning the city championship.

MIDDIES CALL OFF SPORTS.

Naval Academy Schedules Quashed Because of the War.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 17.—Announcement was made at the Naval Academy today that all sporting contests with outside competitors had been called off for the remainder of this season. The war situation is responsible for this action.

STANFORD BARS ATHLETICS.

Long Eastern Trip Scheduled for Nine Is Given Up.

N. C. Strong, manager of the Eastern tour of the Leland Stanford Junior University baseball team, received a message here yesterday for Palo Alto, Cal., announcing the cancellation of all Stanford athletics and the consequent abandonment of the proposed trip. The telegram read:

Stanford was scheduled to play the leading college teams of the Middle West and the East this season during a tour which was to have lasted from six weeks to two months.

BRAVES WIN IN TWELFTH.

Phillies Lose, 6 to 5, but Manager Moran Protests Victory.

BOSTON, April 17.—Boston won from Philadelphia again today in the first extra-inning game of the season when Pitcher Mayer gave Chappelle, a pinch hitter, a base on balls with the bases full in the twelfth inning. Smith counted with the run which made the final score, 6 to 5.

Philadelphia protested Boston's victory, Manager Patrick Moran announced tonight. A decision by Umpire Bransfield, who declared Pitcher Lavender of the Philadelphia Club out for running off the line between second and third bases in the third inning, when Philadelphia scored five runs, was the basis of the complaint.

Lavender had started to cross the diamond from second, apparently believing he had been called out on a play at that base, but turned and reached third base before the ball was thrown to that position. Manager Moran said his protest was based on the ground that a runner cannot legally be retired for leaving the base line unless intending to avoid being tagged.

CARBIDE'S BACKERS CASH AT BIG ODDS

Son of Celt Pays Nearly 150 to 1 in Pari Mutuel Wagers at Havre de Grace.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 17.—A day of surprises at the race track reached a climax when J. S. Tyree's five-year-old Carbide shot over the finish line first in the sixth race, and paid his few backers at the rate of $295.90 in return for a $2 ticket. Even under the mutuel system odds of nearly 150 to 1 are seldom obtained, but Carbide, a son of Celt, had run on all sorts of tracks under almost every variety of conditions and had not gained brackets in fourteen attempts.

Many crack jockeys had tried to get this well-bred thoroughbred to show his speed, but without success. It remained for little A. Collins to cajole Carbide so that he broke away from the barrier promptly and carrying the light weight of 100 pounds danced merrily along for five and a half furlongs with the best field of the day in his wake.

The long odds were accounted for by the support accorded to P. Powers's crack sprinter, Top o' th' Morning, and Harry Payne Whiteney's Clapperbill, an imported horse that made his American début with the credit of two victories at Newmarket as his recommendation. Top o' th' Morning landed in third place behind R. F. Carman's Startling, another outsider, while the much-touted Clapperbill failed to get in the money.

R. T. Wilson scored his first victory on a Maryland track this season, when his home-bred gelding Navarre defeated a big field in the third race. Johnny McTaggart handled the son of Olambala in clever style and outrode Troise, who had the mount on S. Lewis's Thursday Nighter, which took the place from R. F. Carman's Bright Star. Not a favorite won, the best played winner being J. Arthur's Edith Baumann in the last race.

BOXING REPRIEVED IN THE ASSEMBLY

Davis Bill, Designed to Sound Knell of Pugilism in State, Fails of Passage.

WILL BE CONSIDERED AGAIN

Measure Expected to be Enacted Later in Session—Change of Two Votes Saves Present Law.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—A sufficient number of Assemblymen cast their votes in favor of the Davis bill, repealing the Frawley law, under which boxing is conducted, to pass the measure today, but before the clerk could announce the result, Assemblyman Robert P. Bush, Democrat, of Chemung, dean of the lower House, and Martin Bourke, Republican, of New York, changed their votes from the affirmative to the negative, and so, despite the Speaker's vote, the bill failed to pass. Of the seventy-six votes necessary for passage the measure got seventy-four, while fifty-six men voted against it.

Assemblyman G. T. Davis of Oneida, sponsor of the bill, moved to have the vote reconsidered, and the bill was laid aside. It will come up again and is expected to be passed.

Governor Whitman, at whose demand the measure was introduced, declared today that the adverse action on the part of the Assembly had not by any means changed his opinion that the boxing law should be repealed. It is not expected, however, that in this matter the Governor will bring any pressure to bear on the Legislature.

The opponents of the measure brought out two points in their arguments against the Davis bill. One, made by the minority leader, Joseph M. Callahan of the Bronx, was that the enactment of the Davis bill would not stop the worst feautres of boxing in this State. Mr. Callahan said that if the present law was repealed, the State would go back to the custom of holding bouts on river barges or in fake athletic clubs, where there would be no authority to supervise the sport.

The other chief argument against the bill was that boxing developed the traits of courage and self-reliance in the young men, and should be encouraged.

Assemblyman Simon L. Adler of Monroe, the majority leader, and Mr. Davis, who introduced the bill, spoke in favor the measure. They contended that boxing was not being conducted in a decent manner. Every effort on the part of the administration to regulate the sport had failed, they declared.

Governor Whitman has vetoed the appropriation for the maintenance of the Boxing Commission after the first of next November. Twenty-one Republicans voted against the bill and three Democrats for it.

AMATEUR BOXERS IN RING.

Beacher and Gleason Win in Tourney for State Titles.

If determination counted for anything in the boxing ring, particularly in amateur competition, Patrick McCarthy, unattached, would be well on the road to the 125-pound New York State amateur boxing championship now. This fact was demonstrated last night in the preliminary series of bouts for amateur State honors held in the City Athletic Club.

Unfortunately for Patrick he was drawn against Charles Beacher, Educational Alliance, who recently won the metropolitan championship title at this weight. For the better part of two minutes McCarthy let loose with vigorous and well-meant wallops in the general direction of Beacher. Beacher boxed like a seasoned veteran and let his rival waft the air to his heart's content, and then sent over a right to the jaw and McCarthy went down. Referee Eddie Forbes stopped hostilities at once.

Robert Gleason, Dominican Lyceum, who holds metropolitan titles at 145 and 158 pounds, faced practically the same sort of situation in his only bout of the evening when he went against George Murphy, St. Bartholomew's A. C., in the 145-pound class. The only difference was that a few of Murphy's wild swings landed on Gleason and made him wary until the second session.

Other winners were.

125-Pound Class.—T. Hughes, Paulist A. C.

FOUR BILLIARDISTS BANNED.

National Amateur Association Suspends Viertel and Weiner.

Four amateur billiard players of this city, M. Isaacs, T. Tanaka, William Viertel, the national novice champion, and David Weiner, came under the ban of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at the last meeting of the Executive Committee. Two of them, Isaacs and Tanaka, were expelled from the association for violation of the rule which prohibits amateurs playing against professionals in a tournament where there are gate receipts or where prizes are awarded. Viertel was suspended for three months from April 16, and Weiner for six months. The men were charged with playing in a tournament with Hal Coleman, a professional, at the Jefferson Academy, although Viertel and Weiner did not actually play against him.

The men were warned by letter that their taking part in the tournament would be a violation of the rules of the association. When their actual participation became known they were summoned to appear before the Executive Committee. The penalties were inflicted after the committee heard Weiner and Coleman. Weiner offered practically no excuse, other than that the players had not understood the intent of the warning letter. Coleman protested that he was unaware of charges of professionalism made against him a year ago, and said he did not consider taking money for teaching as impeaching his amateurism.

FORDHAM NINE OFF TODAY.

Game Arranged with Lafayette to Begin Baseball Season.

After having had the first eight games on its schedule canceled because of the war, Fordham University will open its baseball season today against Lafayette at Fordham Field. The contest was arranged yesterday. Originally the Bronxites had been listed to meet Yale at New Haven this afternoon, but with the abolition of athletics at New Haven, negotiations were opened with the players from Easton. Today will be the third time in as many years that Lafayette has opened the home schedule at Fordham. Two years ago the Bronxites won, while last Spring the tables were turned.

It has been decided at Fordham to carry out the schedules in all branches of athletics as far as possible. However, Fordham will not neglect military preparations. Ninety-one men are now drilling daily in the Ambulance Company, while another body is being gathered for the base hospital now in process of formation in the Medical School. Sergeant Tracey has been detailed by the War Department as drill master for the ambulance men. Drills will also be started next week for those students who are candidates for the Officers' Reserve Corps. The time will be taken from the regular class hours for the military studies and will be credited as part of the scholastic schedule.

Welsh Spoils Nelson's Comeback.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 17.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, won a complete victory tonight over Battling Nelson in a twelve-round bout at the Coliseum. It was Welsh's fight all of the way. Nelson did not win a round.

RALPH LAWTON'S RECITAL.

First Appearance in New York of an American Pianist.

Ralph Lawton, an American pianist from the West, made his first appearance in New York yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. Mr. Lawton is a player well equipped with some of the most important qualities that make for good piano playing. He has taste, feeling, understanding, clearness of view; and these things appeared in his playing yesterday. His technique is well developed, though not beyond the point of liability to mischance. He went some distance in producing variety of tonal color. And so in Busoni's arrangement of Bach's D minor organ toccata and fugue Mr. Lawton attained an unusually clear, well-balanced, and well-proportioned performance, following Mr. Busoni in making it as much of a piano piece and as little of an organ piece as possible.

He also played Liszt's sonata and Chopin's in the same key of B minor; an intermezzo by Brahms, d'Albert's Gavotte and Musette, and some modern pieces, including Scriabine's "Poème Satanique," which shows close research on the composer's part into the significant characteristics of Liszt's orchestral "Mephisto Waltz." His performance of Liszt's sonata had fine qualities; but perhaps a somewhat less restrained, less sober manner would have brought it off better. There should be even no suspicion of dryness about this sonata if it is to make its effect; it should reek, drip, exude.

ANDREE BARLETTE APPEARS.

French Actress of Charm Plays in "The Thief" and a Comedy.

An entertainment given yesterday afternoon at the Comedy Theatre introduced to the local stage Andrée Barlette, a French actress from the Theatre Femina, Paris, whose previous appearance here had been confined to drawing room and other private entertainments. Mlle. Barlette presented the second act of Henri Bernstein's familiar drama, "The Thief," and a little comedy by Jules Renard, entitled "Le Pain de Menage." In each of these she was assisted by José Ruben, the talented young French actor, who is one of the pillars of the Washington Square Players.

Mlle. Barlette possesses many natural endowments for the stage. She has great beauty and personal charm and the irresistible grace of her race that illumines and makes beautiful her many gestures. Her voice is rich and her enunciation the flawless enunciation of so many players schooled on the French stage. Mlle. Barlette is essentially a comedienne, but she nevertheless manages to convey with a considerable degree of sincerity the conflicting emotions of Marie Voysin in the scene with her husband in which she confesses that she is a thief. M. Ruben was excellent.

Between the dramatic numbers Johan Van Bommel, a Belgian baritone, sang a group of songs. His voice and style were pleasing, but his songs and accompanist were not happily chosen.

BARRIE PLAYS FOR WAR FUND

Three at the Empire May 7 in Aid of Theatrical Relief Work.

The program of new plays by Sir James M. Barrie for the purpose of creating an American Theatrical War Relief Fund was the interesting announcement made yesterday by the Charles Frohman Company. The plays will be presented at the Empire Theatre on Monday night, and it is significant that this date is the second anniversary of the Lusitania, in which tragedy Charles Frohman lost his life.

The gross profits from the engagement will be devoted to the war relief fund, and that the sum will be as large as possible casts of well-known players, among them a number of stars, will be chosen to interpret the playlets. Single performances of plays or of miscellaneous programs have often been given for charitable purposes, but this is probably the first time in theatrical history that the whole run of a theatrical entertainment has been pledged to a charity.

The plays are entitled "The New Word," "Old Friends," and "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals." The last named is to be produced soon in London under the author's personal direction. Maude Adams's engagement in "A Kiss for Cinderella" at the Empire will end Saturday night, May 5.

FIREMEN SAVE ANILINE DYE.

Fire, which probably started from a spark from a grinding machine, swept through the one-story brick warehouse and experimental shop of the American Gum and Mica Company, 553 and 555 West Fifty-ninth Street, yesterday afternoon, with damage estimated at $50,000. Aniline dye valued at $100,000, stored in a brick vault near the entrance of the building, was saved by firemen.

Several of the nine men at work in the building noticed smoke pouring from a pile of bags near the grinding machine. Then flames shot up the walls to the rafters of the building, aided by air from two giant fans used in making stripping glue. Before the fire was under control it had worked its way through the building to West Sixtieth Street, where considerable damage was done to the wagon shed of the Sheffield Farms, Slawson Decker Company. The ignition of several 30-gallon tanks of alcohol was said to have accounted for the rapid spread of the flames. Several firemen were cut about the hands in moving machinery.

A gong sounded in the main office building, where there were 200 employes and, because of frequent fire drills, the building was emptied in less than a minute. A fire drill was held on Monday, at which a record was established, and many of the employes thought an attempt at bettering the result was being made when they heard the alarm yesterday.

MOTORMAN FAINTS, 11 HURT.

Lexington Avenue Trolley, Uncontrolled, Hits 34th Street Car.

Cornelius Sheehan, motorman of a southbound Lexington Avenue surface car, fainted and fell to the street as his car was nearing the Thirty-fourth Street crossing yesterday afternoon. The car, which was going downhill, crashed into an eastbound Thirty-fourth Street car, and eleven persons were injured and forty others shaken up. The most seriously injured, who were taken to Bellevue Hospital, were:

Sheehan, Cornelius, 1,704 Third Avenue, lacerations of face and hands.

The Thirty-fourth Street car had started across Lexington Avenue when Sheehan was seen to fall from his post. Dr. Cary Eggleston of 412 West End Avenue, a passenger in the Lexington Avenue car, gave first aid to the more seriously injured, while passers-by assisted the women from the wreckage. Captain Rohrig and reserves from the East Thirty-fifth Street Police Station kept back a crowd of 5,000 while the injured persons were carried into a nearby drug store. Traffic was resumed after an hour's delay.

Americans Would Study Abroad.

Fifty-five American students have applied to The American-Scandinavian Foundation for stipends with which to study in Sweden, Norway, and Denmark during the school year 1917-1918. This relatively large number of applicants indicates optimism over the duration of the war, and also a growing interest in the three neutral countries. Of the applicants seventeen are of Swedish descent, fifteen of Norwegian descent, seven of Danish descent, and sixteen of English or other non-Scandinavian ancestry. The names of the successful candidates will be announced in May.

BILLY SUNDAY PRAYS FOR ALL NEW YORK

Asks Divine Blessing Upon the Mayor and Other Officials and the People.

BUSINESS WOMEN ATTEND

Delegation of 2,000 Hears Sermon and Learns of Plans for Future Work.

Billy Sunday closed his meeting last night with a prayer for everybody in New York. Standing on his pulpit, with his twenty-thousand-odd hearers on their feet below him, he called down divine blessings on every class of the population. It was the second prayer of its kind in the New York campaign, but this one was longer and more detailed than the first one.

Here is Sunday's prayer—or some of it, for no shorthand could catch all of his rapid delivery:

"Thank you, Lord, for this great throng. Help them. Say, Jesus, that fellow's had a hard time today. He's been watching the ticker and it's gone against him. He's a lot poorer than when he went downtown to Wall Street this morning. Lord, help him; he needs lots of help.

"Lord, go down Broadway and Fifth and Sixth Avenues, through the theatre district and the big hotels, the saloons and cabarets. Don't you miss anybody. Jesus, save Wall Street; save the east side and the households of the poor.

"Lord, bless the Mayor. He's a good scout, my friend John is; Jesus, he's helped us along. Bless Woods of the police; he's a good man, Lord. Bless the firemen and the policemen; bless the fellows that deliver the mail. Then there's the Collector of the Port, my friend Dudley Malone; bless him. He's watching all that come in and catching the ones that try to put something over. Jesus, go down along the docks and the water front; go over into Jamaica and up in the Bronx. Go into the hospitals, bless everybody there; bless the physicians. Bless the lawyers, too; oh, Jesus, there's a bunch that needs lots of help.

"Then the newspapers. Aren't you proud of 'em, Lord? Wish I could remember them all: What with the war and the price of paper aren't you proud of the space they've given us? The devil didn't like those reports, Lord: he stood at the managing editor's elbow and said to him, 'Leave that out; don't give him much space tonight.' But it didn't do him any good. Bless the boys that sit on my right and my left and report the meetings. Bless the street car men, and the subway—the interurban—no, that's not right; what is it, Jesus? Yes, the Interborough; that's what I mean. Go down into the haunts of vice and corruption; don't you miss anybody, Lord. Don't make any difference whether he could get anything at the National City Bank or some of these big trust companies; bend over the battlements of Heaven and help him. Bless us, lead us, guide us, help us all and save us all. Lord, Amen."

Sunday preached at the night service from Isiah, 44:10—"Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord of Hosts."

"You are living epistles of God," he said, "the Bible is the written epistle. When there's a conflict the world won't look at the written word.

"The heathen nations are gazing on the nominal Christian nations looking for testimony to Jesus Christ. Out of the horrible conflagration of Europe will come some good. Already the Czar and old Rasputin are overthrown. All the members of that dynasty were opposed to Christianity; but the present rulers of Russia all favor the Y. M. C. A. and other Christian movements. They've banished vodka, too.

"You don't need more of God. God needs more of you. When you tell me a man can drink and it won't hurt him you're a liar. You women can't go and hit the booze. I don't care a picayune whether it's in a restaurant or a hotel, and be as good women as those who don't. You say you can take it or leave it alone. I notice you never leave it alone. You say, 'It's no sin the way I drink.' You might as well say, 'It's no sin the way I steal.' There is no happy sinner; there is no unhappy Christian. I knew of a lady who had been a Unitarian, a Christian Scientist, a Universalist, a Spiritualist, an Ethical Culture, and a New Thought. She'd been pretty nearly everything the devil could concoct, and she said: 'It never did me one bit of good. I want to try Jesus Christ for a while.'"

Alfred T. Ringling, the circus man, attended the meeting and studied Sunday's methods from the reporters' box. There was a delegation of 2,000 business women in the tabernacle, and the Rev. Miss Frances Miller, in charge of this department of the campaign, gave a brief talk on the work she wanted them to do.

The Rev. Dr. Donald S. Colt of Baltimore made a brief address at the evening meeting about Sunday's revival in that city last year, declaring that "his work sticks and everybody loves him. He remains one of the finest and greatest religious assets of that city."

In the afternoon service Sunday preached on personal work to an audience of about 6,000. He appealed for personal attempts on the part of Christians to convert others who are not believers. "You say, 'Where will I find these people to talk to them?'" he said. "Where won't you find them? Where can you find a place where they are not? Only the cemetery. Right in your neighborhood, right in your block, how many are Christians? Is your husband a Christian? Are your children Christians? If so, let them alone and get after somebody else's husband and children. Suppose I said, 'Well, my family are all Christians; let the rest of the world go to the devil.' There's too much of that spirit in the church today.

"Go from house to house. Go to the people in your block, in your place of business. Have you said anything to the telephone girl when you called her up? You're quick enough to jump on her when she gives you the wrong number. Have you said anything to the delivery boy, the milkman, the boy who throws your paper on the doorstep? Have you said anything to the girl who waits on you at the store, to the servant who brings in your dinner at home, to the woman who scrubs your floor? Where will you find them? Where won't you find them?"

This afternoon and tonight Sunday will preach his sermon on the home. Eighteen hundred telephone girls are to attend the night meeting in a body.

HOLDS UP ARNSTEIN'S PAY.

Injunction Pending Test of School Manager's Appointment.

Upon application of John T. Gallagher, a taxpayer, of 227 Linden Avenue, Brooklyn, Supreme Court Justice Benedict, in that borough, granted yesterday a temporary injunction restraining Controller Prendergast from paying Lee Arnstein his salary of $10,000 a year as Executive Manager of the Board of Education pending the trial of a suit to test the legality of Mr. Arnstein's appointment.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Sir Herbert Tree has decided to postpone his presentation of "Drake" in New York until next Fall, as he is anxious to return to England. He hopes to sail early next month, but if this is impractical he may give a few special performances of "Hamlet" at the New Amsterdam during his engagement there in "Colonel Newcome."

The first performance of the new "Midnight Frolic" will be given next Tuesday instead of Monday night on the New Amsterdam roof.

Bayard Veiller is at work on a new play, which will be produced by William Harris upon its completion. Its production is planned for July.

Pryllis Neilson-Terry will appear as Ophelia in the mad scene from "Hamlet" next week at the Palace.

Corse Payton, the perennial stock actor, will head a company that will begin an engagement, intended to last through the Summer, next Tuesday night at the Lexington Theatre.

The veteran actors and actresses who live at the Actors' Fund Home on Staten Island will be the guests of the management at the matinee performance of "Pals First" today.

Lillian Russell, Rose Coghlan, Annette Kellerman, Elsie Janis, Laurette Taylor, Frank Tinney, and Lyn Harding are among the artists who will appear at the entertainment to be given by the Professional Woman's League next Tuesday afternoon at the Criterion.

PRAISE U. S. BOY SCOUTS FOR AID AT BRIDGEPORT

Military Officers There Say They Gave Help in Notifying All Enlisted Men of Mobilization.

Lieut. Gen. L. W. Amerman, executive officer of the United States Boy Scouts, called the attention of THE TIMES yesterday to a statement, purporting to give the results of an investigation conducted on behalf of the Boy Scouts of America in Bridgeport, Conn., following upon the report from there that Boy Scouts had been armed and had been ordered to shoot to kill. This statement asserted that United States Boy Scouts had been found to be armed, that they did not have necessary permits, and that their scout master denied having personal knowledge that the boys were armed. The statement concluded with the assertion that the police were considering the advisability of arresting the boys to stop this "tin soldering," and with the declaration that the Boy Scouts of America was the "original and most representative body of Boy Scouts."

General Amerman said that Brig. Gen. F. Walker Winch had gone to Bridgeport on behalf of the United States Boy Scouts, and had found that the statement purporting to have been obtained by the rival organization of Boy Scouts was inaccurate in all particulars. General Winch sought out Colonel Frank Armstrong, in command of the United States Boy Scouts in Bridgeport, and led him successively before Mayor C. B. Wilson, Supt. of Police Redgate, and Captain Arthur C. Bennett of the Fourth Company, Connecticut Coast Artillery Corps, asking each if Colonel Armstrong had offended by the employment to which he had put the Boy Scouts. According to General Amerman, Mayor Wilson told General Winch that the city deeply appreciated the work of the boys. Supt. Redgate denied indignantly that he had ever suggested arresting the boys who carried arms, and Captain Bennett was one among three officers to sign this testimonial, which, unsolicited, he had his secretary draw up:

Fourth Company,
Connecticut Coast Artillery Corps,
Bridgeport, Conn., April 16, 1917.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Subject. United States Boy Scouts.

1. This will certify the appreciation of the undersigned officers of the Connecticut National Guard for the efficient service rendered during the recent mobilization. The boys of this organization have rendered indispensable assistance in delivering to men of the various organizations the orders of the commanding officers.

2. They have assumed the entire burden of notifying the enlisted men of the call of the President for the mobilization of the organized militia. They have carried out this important business with great promptness and have not failed in a single instance. They have been respectful and have behayed themselves in an orderly manner. We think great credit is due their commanding officer, and we are glad to testify our thanks and appreciation for their services.

ARTHUR C. BENNETT.
Captain Fourth Conn. C. A. N. G.
ALFRED C. CHIPPENDALE.
Lieutenant (J. G.) Conn. Naval Militia, Retired.
JOHN T. H. POWERS,
First Lieutenant M. C. C. N. G., Commanding First Conn. Ambulance.

General Amerman explained that during the mobilization parts of the city were under martial law, and permits to carry weapons were not necessary to boys who were acting in the service of the Federal Government. He was particularly annoyed by the assertion that the Boy Scouts of America was the "original and most representative body."

He declared that the American Boy Scouts had been incorporated on June 16, 1910, and that subsequently the organization now known as the Boy Scouts of America had been formed by members of the original organization, who withdrew because they were not in sympathy with the military aims of the American Boy Scouts and wished to form another body through the churches and the Y. M. C. A. The original American Boy Scouts were not disorganized by this withdrawal, said General Amerman, and continued under the original name until the adoption of the similar title by the withdrawing members caused so much confusion that on July 22, 1913, the American Boy Scouts got permission from Supreme Court Justice Donnelly in this city to change the name to the United States Boy Scouts.

LIVE TO 100 AND BE YOUNG.

Mrs. Theodore Parsons Explains Her Method to Women at Plaza.

Mrs. Theodore Parsons, author of "Scientific Brain and Body Building," told a group of interested women in the white and gold room of the Hotel Plaza yesterday morning how they might live to be a hundred and still be young. This can be accomplished through keeping the brain from wearing out, she said, by means of bodily exercises properly selected. "Excess of meaningless exercises tears down the brain tissue," Mrs. Parsons said, "but by means of those in which there is 'perfect relaxation and contraction' the brain tissues are stimulated, and rebuilt. She has a number of rejuvenated grandmothers among her pupils to whom she points as proof of the value of her method.

As she spoke Mrs. Parsons wore a substitute for a gymnasium suit. It was of soft, white silk; a plain bodice, low at the neck and with short sleeves, knickerbockers of the same material, white slippers, silk stockings, and a little sash with short ends at one side. In this Mrs. Parsons did many wonderful things illustrating the capacity of the muscles.

The lectures are under the patronage of Miss Emma C. Thursby, Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, Miss Alice E. Ives, Mrs. May Riley Smith, Mrs. Ian Forbes Robertson, Miss Ina Thursby, Mrs. E. Jean Nelson Penfield, Countess Leary and others. There will be a real grandmother to give a demonstration next Tuesday morning.

MORE HELL GATE TRAINS.

The Colonial Express and Bar Harbor Trains to Run Over New Route.

The Pennsylvania, and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads announced yesterday that on April 30 the Colonial Express will be operated over the Hell Gate Bridge route. The train will leave Washington at 8:15 A. M., arriving in Boston at 8:20 P. M. Southbound, it will leave Boston at 8:45 A. M., arriving in Washington at 8:30 P. M.

Beginning June 11, the Washington-Bar Harbor Express will be operated daily on this route, except Sunday, leaving Washington at 1:15 P. M., and arriving at Bar Harbor at 12:40 P. M. the following day. It will leave Bar Harbor at 3 P. M. and reach Washington at 2:37 P. M. the following day. These trains will not handle service between New York and Washington for intermediate points.

FORD WAIVES PATENT RIGHTS

Cables Great Britain His Specifications for Manufacture of Tractors.

DETROIT, April 17.—Henry Ford, at the request of the British Government, has waived all patent rights on his farm tractor, and has cabled the specifications to England so Great Britain can manufacture tractors for use in the British Isles and in France. Announcement to this effect was made at the Ford Motor Company today.

It is believed that the tractors will help to greatly increase farm acreage in the Entente countries.

It also was announced that Mr. Ford hopes to have thousands of tractors ready for use in the United States and Canada by Aug. 1. Mr. Ford's entire tractor plant, the same as his automobile factory, will be at the disposal of the United States Government.

Suspends Arcanum Receivership.

BOSTON, April 17.—The Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum, which was placed in the hands of a temporary receiver Saturday, was authorized by Federal Judge Aldrich today to continue business as a fraternal insurance organization pending final decision on the question of making the receivership permanent. The active duties of Thomas J. Boynton, temporary receiver, are suspended.

MRS. WARREN'S PLEA FAILS.

Judge Hand Finds Customs Fraud and Dismisses Demurrer.

Judge Learned Hand of the Federal District Court dismissed yesterday a demurrer filed against the suit of the Government for the forfeiture of wearing apparel alleged to be worth about $10,000 brought here by Mrs. Charlotte A. Warren, wife of Whitney Warren, on the steamship Espagne Nov. 10, 1915, and which was declared by Mrs. Warren to be worth only $1,500. Evelyn Byrd Burden and Gwendolyn Dows were named as co-defendants because part of the property in Mrs. Warren's trunks belonged to them.

In his decision Judge Hand said that the declaration made by Mrs. Warren to the customs authorities was fraudulent.

"There is no conceivable reason," he said, "why a passenger should be allowed to practice deliberate fraud of a kind which would impose upon other importers forfeiture and imprisonment."

The court allowed the defendants twenty days in which to file an answer to the suit. Assistant United States Attorney Carstarphen appeared for the Government and William L. Wemple for the defendants.

MILK FOR FRENCH CHILDREN

Rushing Aid to Destitute in Districts Evacuated by Germans.

More than 50,000 cans of condensed milk are being shipped to the districts about Noyon recently evacuated by the Germans. The shipments are being made by the American Red Cross in response to an urgent cable message from the American Relief Clearing House in Paris.

The condition of the children in this region is desperate. They have been undernourished for the last two years, and in the latter part of this time practically no eggs or milk and very little meat was left for the civilian population by the Germans. Those living in towns immediately back of the firing line could receive little aid from the American Relief Commission.

With the milk will go quantities of much-needed children's and women's underwear, with shawls and blankets. Cotton and woolen garments are almost unobtainable in France. The Red Cross is making every effort to increase this supply, and gifts, if sent to the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn, will be forwarded to France free.

FIND MISSING ARTIST'S BODY

CABOT WARD IS PAROLED.

Park Commissioner Greatly Affected by Death of Automobile Victims.

Park Commissioner Cabot Ward, whose automobile ran into and killed two little girls in First Avenue, near Sixty-seventh Street, on Monday afternoon, was paroled yesterday pending an inquest by Coroner Hellenstein. Before this, however, the Commissioner had been arraigned before Magistrate Nolan in the Yorkville Court, who sent him to the Coroner. Mr. Ward was greatly affected. He said he had several small nephews and nieces, although he had no children of his own, and his affection for his small relatives made him realize what must be the suffering of the parents of Rose Salerno and Jennie Kovac, the children he ran down.

At the Bethany Day Nursery, Sixty-seventh Street and First Avenue, from which, little Rose Salerno's father had asserted on Monday night, the children must have been sent on an errand, the Superintendent and the nurses were almost overcome by grief at the charge, which, it was said, was entirely unfounded. The dead children had attended a public school, and the nursery undertook to provide them with dinner at the noon hour and to care for them from the close of school until their parents could call for them. The children were not attended, however, on their journey between school and nursery, and the Superintendent, whose eyes were red from crying, said yesterday that it was a source of constant worry to her that the little ones would linger on their way from school.

According to her, Rose and Jennie were on their way back to the nursery when the accident happened and had not been sent out on an errand. They had been strictly enjoined never to step into First Avenue.

GERMANY'S SOCIALIST CATSPAWS

The Vienna Government is on its knees to Russia, begging her to turn a favoring ear to appeals for a separate peace. The Russians are reminded that KERENSKI's recent disclaimer of any purpose of territorial conquest removes all cause of war between Austria and Russia, therefore the two Powers ought to come to terms. There is a not very well disguised implication that if Russia would consent to peace Austria would gladly seize that pretext as an occasion for withdrawing from the war, leaving her allies to shift for themselves. As a vassal State, however, and her vassalage to her powerful ally is only too evident, Austria has not much freedom of choice. Rent and torn and exhausted as she is, Germany would compel her to stagger along until the Germans themselves were compelled to sue for peace.

The Imperial Government of Germany has been even more active in its efforts, through negotiations with the Russian radicals, to betray Russia into a dishonorable peace. In attempting to get into communication with the Russian Socialists for peace discussion, PHILIP SCHEIDEMANN, the leader of the majority Socialist Party in Germany, was plainly acting under the authority of the Government, otherwise his act would have been treason, and in Germany nobody ventures to commit treason. It appears that for some reason the proposed conference at Copenhagen or Stockholm did not come off, and SCHEIDEMANN returned from a bootless errand. Now we are told that Count VON BERNSTORFF, Germany's former Ambassador at Washington, is to be sent as Ambassador to Sweden, since Stockholm is a convenient place for meeting the Russian emissaries. They are not the emissaries of the Russian Government, they act on the trumpery authority of the Congress of Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies, the little group of radicals and syndicalists of whose activities dispatches from Petrograd, Copenhagen, and Stockholm have told us so much in the last few weeks.

In conferring about peace even with unofficial representatives of Germany, these Russian Socialists would have been guilty of treason; possibly some warning to that effect may have kept them at home. At any rate, they are not representative of Russian government or public opinion, and in its dealings with them Germany acts only on the promptings of a desperate hope. Her chestnuts are all in a fire that is every day growing hotter, and if German Socialists can help to pull them out she is not above using them as her instrument. The Imperial Government has full control over the majority Socialist Party in the Reichstag. It controls their organ Vorwärts, and PHILIP SCHEIDEMANN, for all of his Socialist professions, is rendering as loyal service to German autocracy as HINDENBURG himself.

A cloven hoof protruding from beneath a monk's long robe would not be a surer proof of imposture than the reiterated protests of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies against extension of Russian territory by conquest. Every time they utter that protest, and they are uttering it all the time, they disclose the Germanophile prompting and support that underlie their activities. As the Provisional Government has promised freedom for Poland, when these representatives of the workmen and soldiers speak of territorial conquest they mean conquest of Turkey and the extension of Russian control over the waterway from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean. That is playing directly into Germany's hands, for out of the waste and wreckage of the war she still hopes to retain her control over the Berlin-Bagdad project of commercial and political expansion.

We can perfectly understand Germany's motive, but the success of her plan would be fatal to Russia. In guarded language, Minister of Justice KERENSKI did say that the Provisional Government of Russia disclaimed any purpose of expansion by conquest, but that was by no means a renunciation of the privilege of free commerce through the Dardanelles which may come to Russia by the decisions of the peace conference. It is quite unthinkable that the Provisional Government should be guilty of such black treason to the Russian nation as would be involved in surrendering a promised deliverance for its trade and commerce, for which it has fought many wars, which has been conceded to it by the allied Governments. The Tartar invasion and penetration into the very heart of the great empire for centuries cut off Russia from those humanizing and civilizing influences of Greek culture that through the Renaissance brought Western Europe out of the darkness of the Middle Ages. On the other hand, Russia was long harassed and hemmed in by Sweden, so that her communication with Western Europe was largely through Germany. She was literally thrown into the arms of Germany, a circumstance of which the Germans took full advantage in securing so largely the control of her commerce and ultimately in exercising that fatal influence over the court and the crown that was ended only by the revolution last month. The real Russia, the Provisional Government, cannot be deluded into any peace arrangement that would involve the surrender of the hoped-for outlet for Russia's commerce to waters navigable the year round.

The activities of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates have been very puzzling, chiefly because it is evident that they are freely permitted to send to the outside world their own reports of their plans and aspirations. Their pretensions are not lacking in impudence—it is their most striking quality. They declared the other day that they must have full control over all information sent abroad. Now they coolly propose to take charge of the coming elections of delegates to the Constituent Assembly. In fact, they are but a small group, less than a thousand in number, and they represent not more than 5 per cent. of the workingmen of Russia. The people of Russia, the peasants and the landowners, they do not represent at all; nor do they represent the army, as was made clear the other day when a garrison warned the operatives engaged in the manufacture of war supplies that it would be better for them to keep at work and let politics alone. Much as these deputies talk about peace at once, they were compelled or persuaded a week ago to adopt, by a vote of 325 to 55, a resolution against any efforts to weaken the fighting capacity of the army and urging workmen to do their utmost to furnish the fighting force with needed supplies.

These men calling themselves representatives of the workingmen and of the soldiers are extreme radicals and syndicalists, corresponding to the I. W. W. agitators in this country. Just as by their much vociferation the pacifists here, before the declaration of war, must have created abroad the impression that it was very doubtful whether we would go to war at all, so this little band of Russian radicals have aroused here and among the Allies generally some misgiving as to the success of the revolution and the future of Russia. That was because their doings have been so noisily heralded abroad. The noise itself is out of all proportion to their numbers and their influence. Of course, if it were possible for these violent extremists to come into control Russia would go to the dogs. They are exhorting the people and the workingmen to be on guard against reactionary tendencies in the Provisional Government, yet they themselves are the only force now visibly working in Russia for a restoration of autocratic rule. Their triumph over the strong and steady men of the Government would bring anarchy at once, and the country would naturally turn to the dethroned Czar or some other autocrat for deliverance from disorder and convulsion.

PANAMA IN THE WAR.

Hitherto Cuba has been spoken of as the only Latin-American republic in the war, but the full text of President VALDES's proclamation, now received, shows that Panama must be added. The curious manner in which she entered the conflict, and the abbreviated account by cable, led to the impression that she had merely declared her willingness to aid us. In fact, however, her declaration is as thoroughgoing as any. It is unique among declarations of war, in that Panama simply makes the cause of the United States its own, and declares its alliance with us in whatever we may do.

The status of Panama is defined by proclamation. It seems that the National Assembly was not in session, but that before its adjournment it authorized the President to take this action. He therefore declares that "the "moment has now arrived when the "Executive Power should act in ac-"cordance with the declarations of the "supreme power of the republic," and proclaims the duty of the republic "to "co-operate with all its energies and "all its available resources" in the defense measures of the United States. He announces that Panama "will lend "the United States its most decisive "co-operation against any enemy" which may so act as to affect "in any manner" the interests of the two nations, and calls on "all the citizens of "the Republic of Panama to do all in "their power to facilitate the military "operations" of the American Army and Navy.

Nothing could be more thoroughgoing than this, and that Panama understands it as being complete is shown by the headlines over the proclamation in The Panama Star and Herald, "Panama Declares War—Cuba Likewise Declares War." The President declares neutrality impossible "in a "conflict where the vital interests of "the United States are involved," because of the fact that we maintain the sovereignty of Panama, and adds:

> Our, duty, then, in this important moment of the history of the world, is clear and unmistakable, our duty is that of an ally, whose interests and whose existence are perpetually interwoven with those of the United States of America, and this is the most dignified attitude that we can and must adopt.

Panama's attitude is important. An attitude of grudging support, even of lukewarmness, on her part would necessitate measures on our part for the protection of the Canal which would add greatly to our burdens. The whole-hearted way in which she allies herself with us relieves us of that necessity and that burden; and there must be some gratification for us not merely in the fact that Cuba and Panama have thrown in their lot with us, but in the spirit in which they have done it. It is not every great nation which has so conducted itself toward smaller ones that were in its power as to arouse such a spirit of friendship and gratitude in those countries.

NO COMPROMISE.

The money is ready, the men are not. There was never the slightest doubt of our ability to finance a great war, there is still reason to doubt our ability as a nation to raise a great army and train it in time to make it useful. We have had the experience of England as a guide to keep us out of error. The disposition of a majority of the members of the House Committee on Military Affairs, is to ignore the experience of England, to pay no heed to the wretched record of our past unpreparedness, to postpone, by bickering, the work of recruiting an army until the last moment, when we shall be compelled to assemble men as best we can and employ them in national defense before they have acquired the rudiments of soldiering.

The pacifists who, a few days ago, were using all their influence to retard military preparations are now telling the country that volunteers are rushing to the recruiting offices. As a matter of fact, with the present rate of recruiting, it would require two years to place the regular army and the National Guard on the authorized war footing. We could not raise an additional army of 500,000 men in ten years with the kind of recruiting that is now going on. The volunteer system will not do. When our ships have been mined or torpedoed, our coasts attacked, our lands invaded, men will rush from the workshops and farms, where they are needed, and volunteer. The slackers will still shirk their duty. With an army of a million untrained men, we should then be as unprepared for defense as we now are.

Training and mobilization should not be delayed. We are not going to escape our share of the fighting in this war. The Army bill providing for the increase of our forces to any strength our necessities demand by the adoption of the principle of universal service should be a law before the end of this week. The Military Committee of the Senate realizes the imperative need of quick action, but the pacifist statesmen of the House seem to be determined to delay action. They, and their comparatively few adherents, fear that with universal service established while the war lasts it will be impossible to prevent the adoption of the universal military training plan in times of peace. As they are sure to be beaten, a long debate on this subject would do no harm if there was time to spare. But we must not lose a day. The simple fact is that we cannot have a trained army except with universal service. Without a trained army we shall be doomed to disaster.

THE CO-ORDINATION OF THE RAILROADS.

In the rush of thick-crowding events and the multifarious manifestations of patriotism, the action of the railroad companies at a conference of railroad Presidents held last week has not been appreciated at anything like its real significance. In response to a call from Mr. DANIEL WILLARD of the Council of National Defense, forty-five other railroad Presidents met in Washington on April 11.

Every railroad of importance in the United States had its representative, immediate or by proxy. Without discussion, the conference passed unanimously Mr. WILLARD's resolution for the appointment of a committee of five Presidents with complete control during the war of the operations of all the railroads in the country. This committee of five will be in session at Washington while the war lasts. In these trained hands the whole American railway system of 250,000 miles or more will be operated as a single system, a unit; directed and operated intelligently, synthetically, and efficiently, to the best advantage of the United States.

The value, military and economic, of this co-ordination of railway transportation will be of the greatest. The generous American spirit which prompts it, a spirit that has moved great industry after great industry to enlist in the mobilization of American resources, is priceless. Here the managers of some $17,000,000,000 of railway property grant control of it to five men so that the Government may have the best service in war.

Surely the display of a common patriotism, of a common devotion to the country, by the great industries and interests, must create new popular understandings and sympathy that will outlast the war. The railroads, for example, so ready to serve the country in war, may be allowed to serve it in peace and get a living wage for it. It is one of the benefits of war that, bringing together all classes and opinions, it teaches toleration and broadens knowledge.

WE MUST WATCH MEXICO.

The official recognition of IGNACIO BONILLAS as Mexican Ambassador at Washington does not signify that the United States Government is satisfied with the present dubious attitude of the Carranza Government. We have had an Ambassador in Mexico City for some months. The President could not refuse to receive BONILLAS unless he intended to withdraw FLETCHER, and there is no present reason for breaking relations with Mexico. But it is no secret that our Government is dissatisfied with CARRANZA and has reason to doubt the friendship of the Mexicans. As this will doubtless tend to keep the strong guard on our border alert and compel the enforcement of the embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition to Mexico, it is not an unmixed evil.

Mexico must be watched. We need not heed alarmist stories from El Paso, but we cannot be blind to the ingratitude of CARRANZA, to his obviously insolent attitude toward an American President who has treated him and his cause with so great tolerance. As the Washington correspondent of The Evening Post, a newspaper hitherto committed to a friendly attitude toward Mexico, said yesterday: "Every other nation on "the face of the globe would have gone "to war over the dastardly attack by "VILLA on an American town with "the massacre of noncombatants. "Indeed, the massacre at Santa "Ysabel would have provoked many a "nation to war." We must be vigilant now to guard against the payment of our well-intentioned leniency with treachery. The Mexicans cannot understand kindness and tolerance. They attribute them to weakness and cowardice.

THE A B C OF WAR SERVICE.

There is not yet a general understanding of the conditions and obligations of service in this war. Young men are offering themselves and designating what they are to do. War means something far different from what is implied in that kind of volunteering. The man who would serve his country submits himself in detail as follows:

A—He presents himself without condition or reservation for such use as the country can put him to.

B—He fills out a statement for the information of the Government as to what he is best fitted for. This is a description and not the expression of a preference.

C—Authorities duly constituted by the State or nation should, and will, pass on the applicants, those best fitted for soldiers to be enlisted, those qualified for other service to be enrolled for the period of the war and assigned to their regular tasks, under control of the Government. The soldiers show their dedication to their country by their uniform, the others by the brassard.

The big point is that soldiers and industrial reserves must be under a common control and there must be no trifling. European experience has shown that it takes five men behind to keep one soldier at the front. When men submit to the discipline they develop their full usefulness and the status is the same for warriors and workers. All the various forms of war activity can be kept going, and there will be no disruption of industry. But no man can pick and choose. His fitness for war must be judged by his country and not by himself. That is the sacrifice that the young manhood of America is facing today.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

What Every Family Must Earn. An elaborate computation made by the Board of Estimate's Bureau of Personal Service arrives at the conclusion that $980 a year is required in this city for the support of a family consisting of a husband, a wife, a boy of 13, a girl of 10, and another boy of 6. The single breadwinner in such a family, therefore, must be able to earn $3.20 on each of the 303 working days supposed to be in each year.

While there are, of course, many members of what are called the working classes whose rate of daily pay is more than that, the number of those who earn considerably less, taking the whole year through, is probably much greater. What part of them are at the head of such a social unit as forms the basis of the bureau's calculation would have to be known in order to decide the extent to which earnings are less than required for "meeting the demands of decency." Usually, in discussions of wages, the permissible minimum is taken to be that which will enable the worker who exercises a reasonable economy, steadily, even though slowly, to improve the condition of himself and his family. Anything less than that, it is assumed, will inevitably lead to degeneration and social injury.

For what now costs the typical family $980, only $845, it seems, had to be paid two years ago, although rent in the tenements has appreciably decreased of late, owing to the decrease of immigration and the increase of emigration since the war. Food that could have been obtained in adequate amount for $7 a week is now said to cost $7.77, an advance that will seem surprisingly small to most people, for most people have a strong impression that their food bills have advanced 30, if not 50, per cent.

How a family of five can live on $980 a year in any semblance of comfort and decency is a dark mystery to those who, with incomes anywhere from several to many times as great, still find themselves either forced into economies they consider painful or else are obliged to piece out current receipts from past savings—an expedient also painful to anybody who keeps a careful eye on the future. These are the folk who like to call their earnings salaries instead of wages, but that distinction is no longer as consolatory as it used to be, for if salaries do not go down in times of stress quite as easily as wages, they are also less likely to rise when prices advance in what seems now to be their fixed habit.

"Horrors" Are Not Alarming. A telling commentary on the too often accepted aphorism which declares self-preservation the first law of nature is provided by the fact that with the increased probability of active service in the not remote future there has been a sudden and marked increase of enlistments for both the army and the navy.

It cannot be regard for their own safety that makes men willing, and even eager, to get on the firing lines, and reluctant to bind themselves to the dull routine of the garrison or the training camp. They have all read more or less about the hardships and dangers of war on land and sea, but these, contrary to what every pacifist believes, do not weigh heavily, or even at all, against the thought of sharing the high excitements and the utter forgetfulness of self that war demands.

It was long ago said of the British, and is as true of Americans, that they are a warlike, but not a military, nation. This peculiarity has its disadvantages and its national dangers. It works constantly against readiness for war and greatly increases the cost when war comes, but long and hard experience has shown that it is not a fatal fault, and, as is the case with all well-established "folkways," there must be something of real merit in it.

Self-preservation is nearer the last than the first law of nature—self-preservation of the individual, that is. When the race or the nation calls for men to risk death in its defense, when of normal quality they respond with an instinctive and primordial satisfaction. When they do not, the race or the nation is lost—and deserves extinction.

"OVERSEAS BATTALIONS"

Words That Would Quickly Fill the Ranks.

Bridgeport, April 13, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From my experience in Canada and Europe I say: Let Uncle Sam add the words "overseas battalions" to the sign over the recruiting station and enrolling facilities will be taxed to their limit.

Let Americans understand that the fight against Prussianism is a fight to a finish and that Americans will carry democracy to the very soil of Germany.

Your recruiting efforts do not breathe this. The appeal is too largely directed toward material aid, but laudable as is the national spirit invoked, the ultimate sacrifice America is prepared to make in defending its great principles with the bodies of the manhood of the nation and the assurance of overseas service should be given without loss of time and in no uncertain words.

I know of a meeting here which represented an audience of over 2,000 people and a meeting to stimulate recruiting; what was the response? Nothing. At the same time one single Corporal back from the front, an American boy with the Canadians, brought in sixteen recruits. Canada has over 33,000 such boys in her forces, many of them back from the front. Would it not be a good idea to invite some of them down here to tell us about it? Also, should not Uncle Sam out of his riches raise the pay of the troops to that of Canada, with the same separation allowances?

Daylight Saving a War Measure.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a subscriber of about ten years' standing I wish to express my regret at the apparent slowing up of the daylight saving movement. While the creation of millions of new gardens and gardeners is being advocated, in my opinion it is as equally important at least that it should be made possible to give the already established gardens and farms millions of hours' extra time every day in the week. The increased production due to this in one year would surely stagger the imagination.

New York, April 14, 1917. B. WEBB.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Maybe this thought will help our pacifists to be patriots:

We have not engaged in a war so much as entered upon an international crusade for the restoration not of holy places, but lofty ideals, which are the demolition of deviltry and the dominance of democracy.

It is the will of God that every man of God will speak out and help.

Naval Questions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why does Britain continue to permit the great German fleet to live in safe seclusion as it has done and is doing? Is it not perfectly practicable with present range and calibre of guns, and accuracy of range finding, for British dreadnoughts to blow the German fleet to bally-hoo? Perhaps here is where Uncle Sam's peerless accuracy in naval gunnery can have its first and best chance to "do its initial bit." R.

AN INVOCATION.

That little children may in safety ride
The strong, clean waters of Thy splendid seas;
That Anti-Christ be no more glorified,
Nor mock Thy justice with his blasphemies,
We come—but not with threats or braggart boasts.
Hear us, Lord God of Hosts!

That Liberty be not betrayed and sold,
And that her sons prove worthy of the breed;
That Freedom's flag may shelter as of old,
Nor decorate the shrines of Gold and Greed,
We come; and on our consecrated sword
We ask Thy blessing, Lord!

That honor be among those priceless things
Without which life shall seem of little worth;
That covenants be not the sport of kings;
That freedom shall not perish from the earth,
We come; across a scarred and blood-stained sod,
Lead us, Almighty God!

CHILD LABOR FOES WANT BOYS TO FARM

Declare Work of Raising Food Would Improve the Health of Those Over 14.

OPPOSE BILL AT ALBANY

Carson-Johnson Measure Modifying Safeguards for Children Called a Serious Blunder.

The New York Child Labor Committee, of which William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent of Schools, and Leo Arnstein, Executive Manager of the city's schools, are members, adopted resolutions at a special meeting yesterday favoring the sending of boys over 14 years old to farms to help in the production of food. It has been suggested to the Board of Education that the 30,000 boys in the schools between the ages of 14 and 16 be sent to the farms of New York State to work. William G. Willcox, President of the Board of Education, said that the suggestion was being considered.

At the same time the committee advocated the defeat of the Carson-Johnson bill at Albany, which would take down the bars against child labor in factories.

The committee voted to confer with Dr. John H. Finley, State Commissioner of Education, on plans to mobilize boys in all the cities of the State for work on farms. After its meeting at its headquarters, 105 East Twenty-second Street, the committee issued a statement in which it said:

"The members of the committee were unanimous in feeling that now is the time to push vigorously all movements looking toward true preparedness. One of the most important of these, in relation to food supply, is the raising of greatly increased crops. If the State Department of Education or some other similar competent body can arrange to send groups of boys from all the cities to work on farms under proper supervision as to living and working conditions, we feel that a double good can be accomplished—the raising of much-needed food products and the physical development of a large number of boys."

Referring to the Carson-Johnson bill, the committee said:

"Because of the great importance to the physical development of the future defenders of the country, as well as on the grounds of efficiency and bettered output, our committee feels strongly that it would be a serious blunder for the Legislature at Albany to pass the Carson-Johnson bill, which in its present form would make possible the suspension during the war of our child labor laws affecting children in manufacturing pursuits.

"Our lawmakers and all truly concerned in the welfare of children should be warned by the disastrous results in foreign countries. At the beginning of the war children were allowed to go to work earlier than the law permitted prior to the outbreak of hostilities. According to reports from the belligerent countries which have come to the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, juvenile delinquency has increased, more children have been employed under adverse conditions, special measures have been necessary to protect the health of mothers and babies, and home life has been broken up by the increased employment of mothers.

"Let us heed the warning which comes in the Labor Department's official report regarding the health of munition workers: 'Even during the urgent claims of a war the problem must always be to obtain the maximum output from the individual worker which is compatible with the maintenance of his health. Taking the country as a whole, the committee is bound to record its impression that the munition workers in general have been allowed to reach a state of reduced efficiency and lowered health which might have been avoided without reduction of output by attention to the details of daily and weekly rests.'"

Would Supply Men in Boys' Places.

The Employment Bureau of the Kehillah, of which Rabbi J. L. Magnes is the head, sent to a large number of employers yesterday a letter suggesting that the bureau be allowed to supply them with persons out of jobs who would be able to do work generally done by boys, now hard to get. The letter said that not only would this co-operation help in the labor scarcity, but it would keep many discouraged men from becoming "Down-and-Outs."

'NEW' POEM 2,500 YEARS OLD

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—In the University of Pennsylvania Museum Journal, published today, is the translation of a Babylonian tablet which will be of interest to the historical, religious, and literary world. It is one of the missing books of the epic of Gilgamesh, regarded as one of the oldest and noblest poems in the world. The epic was composed about the time of Abraham, but all known tablets and fragments of tablets containing it date from a much later period. George Smith made the first discoveries more than forty years ago. The tablet in the University Museum was probably written between 600 B. C. and 800 B. C., he says. It was translated by Dr. Stephen Langdon, curator of the Babylonian section of the University Museum, and, according to that scholar, contains important new material bearing on the whole epic, and also supplies missing date and mentions hitherto unrecorded nations. It tells the story of how barbarous man, in the person of Enkidu, is redeemed by the love and devotion of a woman.

Gilgamesh, a half-mythical king, by many identified with Nimrod, ruled so cruelly that the people asked the gods for relief. The mother-goddess made from clay a wild satyr, covered with hair, but strong enough to oppose Gilgamesh, who was two-thirds a god. Eventually Enkidu is changed by love of a woman to a civilized being, loses his hair and becomes a rival of Gilgamesh, with whom he has a terrific combat. Finally the men become friends, Gilgamesh forsakes his evil ways, and the two heroes start on adventures which are told in the other tablets already well known.

It was in one of these that the Babylonian story of the creation and the flood was first found, but the Sumerian tablets in the University Museum, giving much fuller accounts of these events and of the fall of man, were written probably 1,200 years beore the oldest existing tablet of the Gilgamesh epic, which, to the Babylonians, bore the same relation as the Iliad did to the Greeks.

TO SEND AGENT TO RUSSIA.

Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce Names Wm. A. Russell.

Further proof of the American Government's interest in the development of the New Russia was afforded yesterday by the announcement of the appointment of William A. Russell of New York to the position of special agent to investigate Russian investment opportunities in behalf of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The statement given out by the bureau officials said:

> The opinion is generally held that Russia will need a great deal of American capital for the development that is sure to come in the near future, but definite information as to the nature of the opportunities now presented has been lacking. The first step taken by the Government to remedy this difficulty was the appointment of Augustin W. Ferrin, editor of Moody's Magazine, to study conditions as they really exist in Russia. Recent events in Russia, however have emphasized the importance of the work to such an extent that it has been decided to send two agents instead of one. Mr. Ferrin and Mr. Russell will travel together and divide the work.

Mr. Russell is a native of Petrograd, received his education there, and gained valuable experience as a consulting engineer in Russia, Siberia and China before coming to this country. In New York he has been engaged as an advisory engineer and has devoted much of his time to analyzing investment propositions. He will consult with American firms before sailing for Russia.

TO PUT ART INTO THE HOME.

Move to Raise Standard of Furnishings and Decorations.

Convinced of the need for nation-wide co-operative education in furnishing and decorating the American home, representatives of many educational, professional, and commercial organizations met yesterday at the Hotel Astor and made preliminary plans looking to the formation of a national association to give effect to the views of the promoters of the enterprise. The proposed organization will probably be known as the Allied Home Furnishing Industries.

The meeting was called under the auspices of the Federation of Furniture Manufacturers, consisting of eleven national and sectional associations, and had the co-operation of many well known bodies. Altogether, forty-eight associations were represented.

C. R. Clifford, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, in introducing Robert W. Irwin as Temporary Chairman, said that more than $500,000,000 was spent annually in the United States in the furnishing and decorating of homes.

Other speakers were Cass Gilbert, the architect; Henry Kent, of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; F. A. Lucas, Director of the American Museum of Natural History; James Parton Haney, Director of Art in the High Schools of New York; Provost William H. Carpenter of Columbia University; Mrs. W. F. McKnight of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and C. Victor Twiss, President of the Art in Trade Clubs of New York.

Mr. Kent, speaking for Robert W. de Forest, President of the Metropolitan Museum, offered the facilities of the art institution in the furtherance of the plan, and Mrs. McKnight pledged the aid of women's clubs all over the country. It was brought out that, despite the enormous sums expended annually in furniture and home decorations, purchases were made in haphazard fashion, with little pretense of educating the purchaser in any way.

Horace B. Cheney, the silk manufacturer, pleaded for honesty in advertising and in designs, and especially condemned pirating of designs.

Allen Walker of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States made a plea for the standardization of American furniture. He spoke for fundamental styles rather than passing ones. A. F. Shiverick said the furniture men proposed to institute a big advertising and educational campaign, which would probably reach every prominent newspaper, magazine, and periodical in this country. Charles Giblyn and George E. Helm were the other speakers.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the naming of a committee, drawn from all of the associations at the meeting, to make permanent the Allied Home Furnishing Industries and to map out plans for permanent work. The members will be named shortly by Chairman Irwin.

D. A. R. CANDIDATES NAMED.

Mesdames Guernsey, Lewis, Horton, and Squires Seek the Presidency.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The first business day of the Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution brought its third session to a close late tonight with the nomination of national officers.

After a long debate on the report of Miss Florence G. Finch of New York, Chairman of the Publication Committee, which issues the Daughters of the American Revolution Magazine, in which the largest deficit in the history of the society was noted, Mrs. Minor of Connecticut introduced a resolution to rescind the action of a year ago, by which the magazine was sent to every member of the society on payment of annual dues. The resolution was passed without a dissenting vote.

Mrs. Joseph E. Randall, wife of the Senator from Louisiana, made her report as Treasurer of the society, which went over at the end of the morning session without the anticipated debate. Printed copies of this document distributed to the delegates are expected to form the basis of discussion tomorrow, when the reports of the Finance and Auditing Committees will be received.

The nomination of four candidates for the Presidency—Mrs. George T. Guernsey of Kansas, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Mrs. John Miller Horton of New York, and Mrs. George C. Squires of Minnesota—with more than twenty names proposed for minor offices and the ten Vice Presidencies, occupied the entire session this evening. Both Mrs. Guernsey and Mrs. Horton have a slate, while Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Squires express themselves as willing to accept a "cabinet" as voted in by the congress.

Voting will begin tomorrow morning immediately after the opening prayer.

TO CONSERVE PLATINUM.

Government Calls on Jewelers to Provide an Adequate War Supply.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Government has been mobilizing the jewelers of the country to obtain their aid in the general business of "preparedness." They possess the stocks of platinum in the United States, and the Government is a heavy consumer of the metal. Secretary Redfield has had several conferences with leading jewelers and experts in mineral resources and markets, and probably within a few days the policy of the Government will be decided upon and announced.

The price of platinum has gone up from a normal of $30 an ounce to $105, and is likely to go much higher unless the Government steps in and takes control of the market, as now seems likely.

Denial was given tonight, however, to the report that the Government was contemplating the step of commandeering all stocks of platinum in the country and taking over all import trade in the metal. The amount imported last year was 61,052 troy ounces, with a value of $2,530,450. Of this amount very little was re-exported, the total export for the year being only 3,151 ounces.

The use of platinum in war time is of the highest importance. For one thing, it plays a very necessary part in the production of nitrate from the air. It is also used in the manufacture of shells, and is indispensable in the electrical machinery of airplanes, motor boats, and submarines.

TO BUILD NATION'S SHIPS.

Company Is Incorporated to Construct the Emergency Fleet.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation was incorporated here today with a capital of $50,000,000. All its officers and Directors are members or employes of the Shipping Board. Major Gen. G. W. Goethals, will be general manager.

The corporation's first work will be the building of the great fleet of wooden ships to carry American supplies to the Allies.

MOHANSIC BILLS HELD UP.

Wagner Fails to Obtain Favorable Committee Action.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, minority leader of the Upper House, made an ineffectual attempt at the meeting of the Senate Finance Committee this afternoon to obtain favorable action on his two bills providing that the State shall abandon the project to build the Mohansic Hospital for the Insane and the Yorktown Heights Training School for Boys on the Croton water shed.

Governor Whitman a few weeks ago in a message urged that the Legislature pass Senator Wagner's bills. According to Senator Wagner, the Legislature probably will adopt a concurrent resolution providing for an investigation of the whole matter.

The resolution which will be offered by Senator George A. Slater of Westchester, Republican, will declare it to be the sense of the Legislature that the plan to build the Mohansic Hospital be abandoned. It is believed that the construction of the Training School also will be stopped. The resolution will provide that the Legislature shall consider what to do with the lands acquired, which, with the improvements, have cost the State about $1,000,000.

DENIES CITY IS TIED BY WEST SIDE ACT

Hughes Argues in Court That Departures Are Both Essential and Legal.

NEED OF GREAT TERMINAL

Bennett Contends That Specific Provisions Made by Legislature Have Been Ignored.

Charles E. Hughes, special counsel for the city in the action brought by the Society for the Prevention of Municipal Waste for a permanent injunction against the New York Central's proposed west side project, admitted in his opening address, in the Equity Term of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday, that the proposed contract contained "departures" from the enabling act under which the Legislature authorized the road to treat with the Board of Estimate.

But these departures, Mr. Hughes contended, were essential and could not be considered as a reflection on the Mayor, the Controller, or the other city officials who had been attempting for years to reach an understanding with the railroad.

"The honesty of the judgment of the city officials who have been handling this matter cannot fairly be criticised," he asserted, emphatically. "And until those who are opposed to the improvement can come here and indict the good faith of these city officials they have no case."

Mr. Hughes made a brief reference to the temporary injunction granted by Supreme Court Justice Cropsey on the day the present case went to trial, which restrains the city from entering into an agreement with the Central during the pendency of the litigation.

"It is our belief that Mr. Justice Cropsey was under a misapprehension of the facts," said Mr. Hughes.

Ex-State Senator William M. Bennett, counsel for the Society for the Prevention of Municipal Waste, closed his case with the argument that the contract proposed between the city and the road was not to the advantage of New York, and that in several important particulars it ignored the specific provisions of the act of the Legislature. He said the proposed contract sought to close many streets which the Legislature said should remain open, and that the plan provided that the road be carried over Spuyten Duyvil by a bridge, instead of under it through a tunnel.

Mr. Hughes contended, in reply, that it was not fair to assume that the Legislature had sought to impose mandatory provisions on the contracting parties. This was demonstrated, he said, by the fact that the company as well as the Board of Estimate was asked to submit plans and profiles of the proposed trackage changes. Had the Legislature desired to bind the city and the road to specific modifications it would not have asked for these plans, Mr. Hughes argued.

"I have not been able to understand how any person could claim that any of the provisions of the proposed agreement between the city and the railroad were outside the authority of the act of the Legislature," he said. He then quoted from the act and from the General Railroad law to prove that the railroad could lay additional tracks, or make such improvements as were necessary for the adequate operation of trains.

"This isn't a New York City railroad," he said, "but a great interstate railroad. You would think some of our friends who are opposing the improvement had no notion of what a terminal requires. Of course, if the New York Central is to have a terminal here it must have adequate yards, proper access to the river, and enough tracks upon which to operate its trains. The Legislature made the act broad, intending that after plans were submitted the road and the Board of Estimate should have the opportunity to amend them in any way that would best serve the public."

Mr. Hughes probably will call as witnesses this morning some of the engineers who drew up the plans.

PAPER MEN ENTER PLEAS.

Prosecutor Colby Objects to Delay in Pressing the Indictments.

The seven men indicted on a charge of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust law, by entering into a conspiracy to raise the price of news print paper, appeared yesterday before Judge Cushman, of the Federal District Court, and entered tentative pleas of not guilty. Bail in each case was fixed at $3,000. Henry A. Wise, George Gordon Battle, and O. G. Jennings, counsel for the accused, were allowed until April 30 to file objections to the proceedings.

Special Prosecutor Bainbridge Colby objected to the delay for final pleading in the belief that the special Grand Jury, which had found the indictments, was being held so that a superseding indictment might be filed if necessary. Mr. Colby was told that the Grand Jury had been discharged. Asked later if the discharge of the jury would hurt the Government's case, Mr. Colby replied that it was a matter of no consequence. He was sure that the indictment would amply protect the public interests.

The seven defendants are: George H. Mead, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the News Print Manufacturers' Association, and President of the Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills, the Lake Superior Paper Company, and the G. H. Mead Company of Dayton, Ohio; Philip T. Dodge, President of the International Paper Company; Edward W. Backus, President of the Minnesota & Ontario Power Company and of the Fort Frances Pulp & Paper Company; George Chahoon, Jr., President of the Laurentide Company, and manager of the Canada Export Paper Company; G. H. P. Gould, President of the Gould Paper Company, and the Donnacona Paper Company; Alexander Smith, a Chicago banker, and Frank J. Sensenbrenner, Vice President of the Kimberly Clark Company, paper manufacturers.

SIMPLIFY BILL OF FARE.

Philadelphia Women Act on President's Economy Suggestion.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—A resolution which cuts from the fashionable bill of fare all such delicacies as lobster a la Newburg, truffles, whipped cream, and fancy salads, was adopted today by the Executive Committee of the Emergency Aid. The members unanimously pledged themselves to three-course meals during the war and "will aid to the utmost in the conservation of food by eliminating waste." The thirty names signed to the resolution were headed by that of Mrs. A. J. Cassatt, Chairman of the Emergency Aid, and included those of many women of social prominence.

The hostess of the future will give you one lump with your tea or coffee without asking, for the supply of sweets is to be limited. One day each week the socially elite will strike meat from the menu entirely, and experiment with the theory that samp is as good as steak.

The resolution states that the pledge is taken in response to an appeal made by the President of the United States for economy in the household. The plans for the simplification of dinners are in the hands of a committee, comprising Mrs. Rodman Griscom, Mrs. E. Burd Grubb, and Mrs. John Markoe. The chief speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Barclay Warburton.

SARAH BERNHARDT IS OPERATED UPON

RESTS EASILY AFTERWARD

Dr. Leo Buerger Wields the Knife in Mt. Sinai Hospital, with Five Physicians in Attendance.

Sarah Bernhardt was operated on at 10:30 o'clock last night at Mount Sinai Hospital, and at midnight it was said that she was resting quietly, but that her condition was serious. Mme. Bernhardt was taken to the hospital from her suite at the Hotel Savoy on Sunday suffering from an infection of one of her kidneys. She improved slightly Monday, and for a time it was thought an operation might be avoided, but last night, after several consultations held during the day, it was decided that the only hope of saving the actress's life was to operate.

The operation was performed by Dr. Leo Buerger. Dr. Felix Marot, the actress's private physician, was in attendance, as were also Dr. Samuel Lambert, Dr. Emanuel Libman, Dr. George Brewer, and Dr. Emanuel Baruch.

While Mme. Bernhardt was reported to be resting quietly, it was explained at the hospital that from the nature of the operation it would be impossible to tell immediately as to its success. Mme. Bernhardt displayed more vitality than the surgeons expected.

Mme. Bernhardt's present illness dates from early in March, when she was forced to abandon her tour because of a cold contracted during a blizzard when she was in Lynn, Mass. A few days later she came to New York, and when she had regained some of her strength she was taken South in the hope the change would speed her recovery. She did not improve and was brought back to this city. When she failed to rally as she had always done following even such crises as the amputation of her right leg last year, consultations of specialists were held and the infection of one of the kidneys was discovered. It was then she was removed to the hospital.

On account of her age—the French actress is 72—an operation was avoided as long as possible.

CONCERT AT MRS. ASTOR'S.

Society Throng at Hospital Benefit, Which Yields $2,500.

Mrs. Vincent Astor lent her house at 840 Fifth Avenue yesterday afternoon for a concert, given in aid of the orthopaedic ward of the Post-Graduate Hospital. There was a large and fashionable assembly, and $2,500 was realized from the sale of tickets. The concert was held in the art gallery ballroom.

The artists who appeared included Mme. Gabrille Gills, soprano; Mrs. Henry Murdock Ward, violin, and Salvatore di Stefano, harp.

A group of young society matrons and girls acted as ushers. They included Mrs. Charles Mellon, Jr., Mrs. Alfred C. Bossom, Mrs. Robert L. Fowler, Mrs. Dawson C. Glover, Mrs. Paul Henshaw, Mrs. Samuel L. Hinckley, Mrs. Crawford Burton, and the Misses Helen Hoadley, Jeannette Jennings, Alice Huntington, Mary Colt, Louise Harkness, Alice Lawrence and Annette Moran.

The Misses Ruth King, Mary Canfield, Margaret Steward, Katherine B. Lawrence, Jeanne King, Mary Steward, and Sara Price Collier sold programs.

Mrs. Edward McVickar, Mrs. Lewis G. Morris, Mrs. Malcolm E. Smith, Mrs. Shepherd K. de Forest, Mrs. George F. Baker, Jr., Mrs. James M. Hartshorne, and Mrs. Howard Wainwright were among the members of the committee in charge.

Dorey Board Reported for Lewis Gun

In a reference to the adoption of the Lewis machine gun by the United States Marine Corps THE TIMES stated yesterday that in a recent test of the Lewis and Benet-Mercier guns at Plattsburg, the Army Board, of which Major Halstead Dorey was President, decided in favor of the Benet-Mercier gun. This was an error. The board decided unanimously in favor of the Lewis gun, but subsequently the War Department named another board, which indorsed the Vickers-Maxim gun, which was adopted.

$45,000 PAID FOR TROYON PAINTING

COROT'S "LE BAC," $34,500

Ex-Senator Clark Buys "Environs of Arleux" for $30,500—Nine Corots Average $18,343 Each, a Record.

There was a big and enthusiastic audience at the sale of the art collection of the late David T. Watson of Pittsburgh, and others at the Plaza under the auspices of the American Art Association last evening It was the biggest picture sale since the Yerkes, and the Corots of the collection brought the highest average at which they have ever sold at a public sale.

The high price of the evening was for the beautiful Troyon, ("Going to Market,") which went to Bernet, agent, for $45,000. The picture is going to a Philadelphia art collector. The Corot which brought the highest price was "Le Bac," which also went to Bernet, agent, who gave $34,500 for it and it, too, will go to Philadelphia.

Record Broken for Corots.

The average for the Corots—there were nine in the sale—was $18,343. The highest average before that at a public sale was $15,333, which was given at the Henry sale. The grand total for the entire sale of 168 pictures was $594,370.

Much enthusiasm was shown by the audience as one after another of the pictures was put up. The Troyon, which brought the high price of the sale, was worthy of the enthusiasm shown for it. It was an early morning scene, a peasant woman on a donkey, the panniers on either side of the animal filled with garden truck; there are sheep, a cow, a barking dog, shadowy trees on either side in the background, and the picture is seen through the ruddy light of the rising sun which, coming through the morning mist, throws the shadows of the group into the foreground of the picture. This was one of the Watson paintings.

Ex-Senator William A. Clark was one of the buyers last evening, the Corot, "Environs of Arleux," a Watson picture, going to him for $30,500, and he paid $22,000 for the same artist's "Ville-d'Avray: Le Bouleau." Bernet, agent, paid $28,000 for Corot's "Le Soir" and $26,000 for Rousseau's "The Winding Road," one of the beautiful pictures of the sale. Both of the two last from the Watson collection. So was Van Dyck's "Countess Lercari," for which Bernet paid $30,000, and Murillo's "Madonna and Child," for which he gave $20,000. There were 40 pictures from the Watson estate in last night's sale, and 65 out of the 168 in the entire collection.

H. S. Harkness Again a Buyer.

Robert B. Harshe of the Carnegie Institute was again a purchaser last evening, buying as agent. One of the Corot's "Environs of Etretat" went to him for $12,900. Harry S. Harkness was again a buyer, and Mrs. Benjamin Thaw was in the audience, just returned from Paris and seen to be bidding, though her name was not given as a purchaser.

A. Augustus Healy, President of the Brooklyn Institute and a large private buyer, bought Corot's "Richmond on the Thames" for $2,100.

The pictures sold last night went to all parts of the country, there being Boston buyers among others present. Mr. Harshe bought nine pictures, these undoubtedly going to Pittsburgh. In selling the forty-five-thousand-dollar Tryon Mr. Kirby said that the last picture by the artist of the same quality sold by him brought $65,000. The better pictures started at $5,000 and $10,000.

ROCKEFELLERS AT FUNERAL

John D. and William Attend Funeral of Brother Frank in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, April 17.—John D. Rockefeller, with his brother William and the latter's wife and their son Percy, left for Lakewood, N. J., late this afternoon, following the funeral of Frank Rockefeller, brother of John D. Before leaving, the elder Rockefeller greeted some of his old friends, praised the war garden movement, and declared that one of the good results of the war is the effort being made for national prohibition.

William Rockefeller last Summer tried in vain to effect a reconciliation between the eldest and youngest brothers, who had been estranged since 1898. The break between John D. and Franklin came as a result of business troubles.

The Rev. Dr. H. P. Applegarth of Rochester, N. Y., a former pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, and the Rev. Dr. Paul F. Sutphen officiated at the funeral services. Interment was made in Lake View Cemetery.

"Of course, if you are willing to spend the money you can get what you want."

That was the way in which an acquaintance on the steamer, going to Copenhagen, en route to Berlin, summed up the food situation in the German capital. He had lived there and in Vienna for two years, had been in Berlin during most of the war, and was returning for another year—as he thought—after a few weeks in the United States. Obviously he spoke with the voice of experience, and his words were entitled to consideration.

Afterward I heard the same thing in effect from several other passengers by the same steamer, who had lived for longer or shorter periods in Germany. "Money will do the trick," they said. "If you will pay the price, you can get the stuff."

In Copenhagen there was just the same verdict. "The wealthy get all they want," was the way it was put. "The rich have plenty of food."

On the other hand, the tales that were told of the hardships and difficulties of those who did not have plenty of money and could not pay as the wealthy were supposed to be paying were just as positive in pessimistic statement as were these assertions about the ease with which the wealthy got plenty of food.

I had left New York feeling that, while things might not be exactly comfortable in Germany so far as food was concerned, it certainly would not be a starvation diet that we should be subjected to. But the dismal descriptions that friends and acquaintances in the Danish capital gave filled me with no little apprehension regarding what was to come.

Then I arrived in Berlin and immediately found that, so far as hotel life was concerned, there was literally no foundation for the tales I had heard in Copenhagen. Of course, it was not like hotel life in Copenhagen or New York or any other city where food is plenty and unrestricted. But it was again the case of the old story: There was plenty of food, such as it was, and what food there was was good enough. It would fill a hungry man's stomach and keep it from bothering him over much for most of the time. If you had breakfast too early, you were likely to be noticing the fact that it was getting toward luncheon time around noon. Then if you took luncheon before 1 o'clock and did not take tea around 4, you were pretty sure to develop a rebellious inner consciousness before dinner time came along at 8.

Fats the Serious Deprivation.

That became more and more the case as you stayed longer in Germany and found no means of getting around the official deprivation of fats and sugar. It was my personal experience, (though it is perhaps not the general experience,) that the deprivation of fats had more effect on me than any other feature of the German diet. Six weeks of absolute abstinence from fats and sugar produced a marked shrinkage in girth. It also made a noticeable difference in the staying power of the meals I got. At first the regulation breakfast stayed the appetite thoroughly well until luncheon, and the full meal then kept me very comfortably until time for the late dinner. But by the time the absence of fats from the ration began to make itself clearly felt it took more luncheon than could be had on one set of cards to last through until 8 o'clock.

Now that was a situation where if one had the money to spend he would be tempted to use it. Very many Germans have the money and were willing to use it for just that purpose. And their constant efforts to get something (little or much) more than the law and the regulations permit led inevitably to the frequent repetition of those remarks about "the rich having all they want," "money will buy," and so on.

I heard the experiences of some of those persons. Some of them told me how they got this or that or the other thing to which they were not entitled under the regulations, and how it cost them so much extra. One distinguished official in one of the most important offices in the Government told me of having bought three bottles of Italian olive oil at fifty marks (nearly $10) a bottle. He said he needed the oil for his health's sake, and he sent out his servant and got it. He asked no questions about where it came from or how it happened to be in Germany two years and more after the outbreak of the war and official control of all such articles of food. He just wanted the oil and got it.

When the Law Hit Offenders.

I went back to my hotel from that interview and picked up a paper, in which I read an account of what had happened down in Chemnitz, the great centre of the German textile industry—the place that had been put "on the blink," so to speak, by the stoppage of importations of cotton. The shutdown of the mills had not wholly destroyed the market for foodstuffs there. Some of the rich mill men were still able to see whether or not money would buy them more than they were allowed under the food regulations.

So it happened that Luda Bauer, who owned a store that Americans would call a grocery, and Ernst Rossberg, her business manager, fell foul of the law. They bought and sold 10,000 dozen tins of peas and made a profit of 18 per cent., which was 5 per cent. more than the legal allowance. They also bought 10,000 tins of Danish bacon and sold it at an excess profit, and there were some other smaller transactions. The aggregate of the excessive profits was 15,338 marks, and the court fined them 18,500 marks. There was a chance for the rich to pay in a different way.

Then there was the case of Felix Prausniker, a Berlin merchant, who bought some tinned ham at 2.50 marks a tin and started a merry-go-round which was still proceeding when the police got him, after he had urged the price of the ham up to 8 marks a tin. The rich had been paying for ham and there had been a number of illustrations that "money will buy." But when Prausniker got through with the court he did not have as much money by 5,000 marks as he had when the police interfered with his little game. The Berlin papers printed the story of his enterprise under the heading "Costly Ham."

Then again, some of the strongest complaints that I heard in all the time I was in Germany about the difficulty of getting the right kind and suitable quantities of food came from the family of one of the great bankers of Berlin—a man whose name is familiar in banking, financial, and industrial circles all over the world. His wife had endured deprivation of the food to which she was accustomed just about as long as she could stand it. There was no question with them of having the money with which to buy anything they wanted if they could get it. But despite their money, she had had to go without food so long that she was ready to go anywhere, away from Germany, if she could only get food freely again.

In the advertising sections of the Berlin newspapers one sees constantly notices of the verdicts in court cases where sellers of food have been convicted of violating the law, and compelled, as part of the punishment, to pay for advertising what the sentence was. Hardly a day passes without at least one advertisement headed "In der Strafsache," announcing a verdict "in the Criminal Court," such as the one "against the female milk handler, Olga Franke, born Hochschultz, in Berlin-Schoneberg, Goltzstrasse 39, born on Sept. 6, 1881, in Ossowo," and against "the coachman, Reinhold Schwarz, in Berlin-Schoneberg, Goltzstrasse 39, born on Sept. 29, 1900, in Grussow." The charge against this milk dealer and her driver was adulteration of food, and the court fined Olga a thousand marks, with liberty to work it off by imprisonment at ten marks a day, while Reinhold got off with a fine of 50 marks, which he might work out at 5 marks a day.

Rich Tempt Greedy Dealers.

The story could be prolonged indefinitely and illustration multiplied to complete weariness. The point is always the same. The rich, having the money which will buy, use it to tempt the small dealers to violate the law and the regulations, or the business man gets a bit greedy and tries to augment his profits faster than legitimate transactions permit.

Just a day or two before I left Berlin a significant little paragraph appeared in some of the papers. The weather had been extremely cold for six or eight weeks without interruption, and there had been intense suffering in consequence. Despite the appeals to their loyalty and patriotism and all that, some of the coal dealers could not resist the temptation to make an extra profit out of the distressing circumstances. So they tried it, with the usual result.

"Many coal dealers have recently been increasing the price for 100 briquettes as much as two marks. Yesterday morning the criminal police stepped in and arrested five coal dealers who now must answer to the charge of war usury."

And so it went. While observing these things, it struck me that it was about as broad as it was long. Money did buy something extra occasionally for those who had it, and also for those who were trying to get it. It got some food to which they were not entitled for the one class and some punishment to which they were entitled for the other. The rich bought and the would-be rich paid. But all the time the food authorities and the police kept a pretty close watch, and it struck me that on the whole they maintained an exceptionally even distribution of favors and food.

Magma Copper Profits $1,097,333.

The report of the Magma Copper Company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1916, issued yesterday, shows net profits of $1,097,333, compared with $611,729 the previous year. This is equivalent to $4.57 a share on 240,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. President W. H. Aldridge, in his report, states that the net production of copper, after deducting all smelting and refining losses, was 8,473,580 pounds, on which there was a profit of 13.919 cents a pound.

WHITE HOUSE FORCE TO FARM VACANT LOT

Will Set Example to Country on Government Land Opposite Executive Mansion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The White House office force has decided to set an example to the country in the matter of utilizing vacant lots for producing food in accordance with the President's recent proclamation. It was announced today that a plot belonging to the Government, lying across Pennsylvania Avenue from one of the main White House gates, had been turned over to the White House employes for the cultivation of a model garden. Secretary Tumulty has given his consent, and the President will be asked to turn the first spadeful of soil Thursday morning.

Under the leadership of N. P. Webster, disbursing clerk in the White House offices, the force intends to begin to work on thoroughly scientific lines, and some of them will go to the Department of Agriculture tomorrow to get advice on the best crops to be tried and instruction in the methods of cultivating them. The agricultural volunteers will have the constant aid and counsel of the experts in the Department of Agriculture, and the department will also probably furnish seeds, fertilizer, and other necessary supplies. The present plan contemplates selling all surplus products for the benefit of the Red Cross.

The land chosen is in an unusually conspicuous place. It was purchased by the Government as a site for a new Department of Justice building, but this plan was abandoned, and the ground has been lying idle. According to tradition, the land was once owned by Henry Clay, who, at the instance of the Spanish Minister, traded it for an imported Andalusian jackass, which he shipped to his native State of Kentucky for breeding.

WAR CROP LOANS READY FOR FARMERS

The Trustees of the Patriotic Farmers' Fund will begin today to distribute application blanks to be used by farmers in borrowing from the $10,000,000 fund to be put at the disposal of agriculture in this State next Monday. Instructions will also be sent to the 900 local grange committees for making the loans, which will bear interest at 4½ per cent. and fall due not later than Dec. 1, 1917.

In the instructions the Trustees make it plain that the money is for experienced farmers and not for those who want to go in as amateurs. The Trustees are A. B. Hepburn, Chairman; William Woodward, Jacob H. Schiff, F. W. Sessions, Robert B. Van Cortlandt, Clark Williams, and William Church Osborn. The secretary is Marc W. Cole, who has headquarters at Utica.

Following are the instructions to farmers who wish to borrow:

1. Local loan committees will receive applications.
2. Applications for loans should be made in duplicate in forms to be supplied by local loan committees, and when approved in writing by at least two members of the local loan committee, both copies are to be filed by the borrower with the local bank.
3. On approval of the application a note payable to the local bank or to bearer in the form supplied by the local loan committee must be deposited, duly signed, by the borrower with the local bank. Thereupon the borrower will receive the face amount of the note from the local bank. No individual loan made prior to June 1 is to exceed $150. Additional loans may, however, be made upon separatae application blanks, which will be furnished by the local loan committee. The interest on these notes to be at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum. All loans must mature not later than Dec. 1, 1917.
4. The local banks will send notice to the borrower one week before the loan is due.
5. Only the forms supplied by the trustees through the local loan committee can be used.

The farmer must give the value of his farm, list all mortgages, all notes, all insurance, number of farm animals, number of fruit trees, crop for which loan is asked, number of acres to be planted, amount of seed and fertilizer and cost, and list of crops to be grown other than those for which a loan is asked. No loans are made for crops to be plowed under as fertilizer.

The $10,000,000 is supplied to the Trustees at 4 per cent. The ½ per cent. excess will be used to pay overhead expenses.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 17.—For the first time since the civil war Justice Joseph Morschauser in the Supreme Court at White Plains today issued an order excusing all farmers and gardeners from serving as jurors in Westchester County, so that their work of tilling the soil might go on uninterrupted in order to help conserve the food supply.

The action of the court was taken on the suggestion of Commissioner of Jurors John Sells, who made this statement:

"In accordance with the proclamations of President Wilson and Governor Whitman, I am going to ask the Court to excuse all jurors when drawn who appear upon the record as farmers or gardeners. And I think that it is within your jurisdiction to instruct me, as Commissioner of Jurors, when the name of a person comes from the jury box whose occupation is either farmer or gardener, that I draw another name in its place. It may be that later in the year we may have to come before the court with a similar request for people employed in the factories making munitions."

TO RELEASE LABOR TO FARMS

Southern Tier Employers Will Guarantee Workmen's Regular Pay.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 17.—Manufacturers in the Southern Tier, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, and other employers of labor, at a conference held in this city this afternoon, outlined plans for releasing factory labor to the farmers of the State which it is believed will solve the farm labor problem.

George Cullen, Lackawanna Passenger Traffic Manager, represented the railroad interests, and a plan was formulated contemplating the release by every manufacturer of a quota of men to work on the farms, the men to receive from the factories the difference between the farm wage and the salary paid by the factories. A committee was appointed representing the manufacturers of this city, who will make a canvass of the situation and report at a conference to be held in this city Friday the number of men that will be released by each factory to the farmers.

The service will continue during the planting and harvesting season, and Mr. Cullen announced that the railroad company would release 800 to 900 section hands for this purpose under the conditions agreed to, and in addition would furnish free transportation for all factory employes released for farm labor.

GARDEN PRIMERS FREE.

Mayor's Committee Has Instructions for Amateurs.

Mayor Mitchel's Food Supply Committee has for distribution a large number of copies of a garden primer prepared by George W. Perkins, Chairman of the committee, with the advice of the Faculty of the State Agricultural College at Cornell Uiversity.

The primer recommends vegetables to be grown in backyard gardens, gives the dates for planting, detailed instructions as to care, and a ground plan of a small garden. Copies may be had by application to the committee's headquarters at 71 Broadway.

Reserve Act Amendments.

The Senate Committee on Banking has reported favorably on the bill amending the Federal Reserve Act. On the whole, the measure is the same as that considered by the previous Congress, the essential difference being that the new bill makes more liberal the provisions governing the admission of State banks and trust companies into the system. This change was particularly urged by the Federal Reserve Board. "This section," declares the report of the Senate Committee, "provides for a readjustment and decrease in the reserves required of member banks. The object of the amendment is twofold. First, to increase the gold holdings of the Federal Reserve System, and thus strengthen the system against any exigency that may result from the European war; and, secondly, to decrease the amount of reserves required of member banks. The amendment would add approximately $200,000,000 of gold to the present holdings of the Federal Reserve banks. The amendment also proposes to require the member banks to maintain in their own vaults, for till money, an amount equal at least to 4 per cent. of demand deposits."

LAWS BEING FRAMED TO FIX FOOD PRICES

Secretary Houston Favors Packers' Plan to License the Distributing Agencies.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Legislation to empower the Council of National Defense to supervise distribution of food, and, if necessary, fix maximum and minimum prices, was being framed today as one of the results of yesterday's conference between Chicago meat packers and Secretary Houston of the Department of Agriculture.

Headed by J. Ogden Armour, a delegation of the foremost packers, including Edwin Morris, E. A. Cudahy, Thomas E. Wilson, and L. F. Swift assured Secretary Houston of their utmost co-operation and voluntarily proposed that the Government take steps to fix prices through the Council of National Defense. The licensing of food-distributing agencies so that the Government may trace any movements of middlemen or others to monopolize supply or force rises in prices, is one of the features of the plan the packers proposed.

As their own "bit" in defending the nation, the packers offered a plan to distribute their products at a minimum of profit to themselves, and one of them estimated the saving to the public would approximate at least $100,000,000 a year.

Secretary Houston favors the plan, and wil halve a part in drafting legislation to put it into effect. The power to be invested in the Council of National Defense, it is said, would be used only when the national interests required it. Whenever there was evidence of price fixing or monopoly of supply the Council would fix maximum and minimum prices to check it.

Trucking Land Offered to Cities.

PATERSON, N. J., April 17.—Catholina Lambert, retired millionaire silk manufacturer and owner of Belle Vista, the Lambert house overlooking Paterson, has offered to this city for truck garden purposes a tract adjoining his home, estimated to be equal to more than 1,000 city lots. Mayor Radcliffe has accepted the offer. Michael F. Burns of New York has offered all his Passaic property, not yet developed, to the City of Passaic for gardens.

COTTON LESS ACTIVE

Market Shows Nervousness and Irregularity—Close 10 Points Lower to 2 Higher.

Trading on the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday was less active and fluctuations were narrower than at any day in recent weeks. The market showed renewed nervousness and irregularity and indicated that there had been a considerable reduction in outstanding interest, with operators generally inclined to wait for further developments.

The market opened steady at a decline of 8 to 15 points in response to relatively easy cables, and sold 12 to 16 points net lower during the early trading. Covering checked the decline at this level and there were rallies of 10 to 15 points, followed by another setback on the favorable Western belt forecast and renewed liquidation. Prices eased back to about the low point of the morning, then steadied on Liverpool buying, with the close at about the best point of the day on July and later deliveries. October contracts, after selling at 18.55c early, touched 18.69c in the late trading and closed at 18.68c.

July contracts sold between 19.70c and 19.86c, closing at 19.85c, with the general list closing steady, net 10 points lower to 2 points higher. April and May were relatively easy under scattering liquidation in preparation for the first May notice day.

There was buying of October by people who were supposed to be selling in Liverpool in a belief that easier freight rates would bring the two markets closer together. Ocean freight room from New York to Liverpool was quoted at $2.50 asked, and lower quotations were also reported from Savannah and New Orleans.

Following was yesterday's range of prices:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Mon.
April	..	..	..	20.25 Bid	20.35

March	18.87	18.87	18.81	18.89 Bid	18.94

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and unchanged at 20.50 for middling upland. Southern spot markets were as follows: New Orleans, 19.81c; Savannah, 20⅝c; Augusta, 20.19c; Galveston, 19.85c; Memphis, 20c, and Houston, 19.60c.

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton quiet; sales, 7,000 bales; speculation and export, 500; American, 5,000. Imports, 9,000; American, 8,000. Middling upland, 12.72d. Futures opened barely steady, 8 to 10 points lower. Closed quiet but steady at a net decline of 17 to 21 points. May-June, 12.25; July-August, 12.12; October-November, 11.58; January-February, 11.48; March-April, 11.47. Manchester yarns dull and easier; cloths dull.

Yesterday's port receipts were 21,009 bales, compared with 26,175 last year. Stocks total, 1,117,991 bales. Exports for the day were 27,859 bales, making 4,498,666 so far this season, against 4,280,814 last year.

FOUND GIRL BABY IN A PEW.

While she prayed in the Church of the Paulist Fathers, Sixtieth Street and Columbus Avenue, last night Mrs. Alice Muline of 354 West Fifty-sixth Street heard the cry of an infant. She found a month-old baby girl wrapped in a pink blanket in a pew nearby.

The child's eyes were blue, and it had no other covering than the blanket. Mrs. Muline carried the foundling to Patrolman Harris of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station and offered to adopt it, but the baby was sent to Bellevue Hospital.

TWO OFFICIALS SUSPENDED.

Secret Charges Against Collector Scott and Brother in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Joseph J. Scott, United States Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of California, and his brother, Andrew C. Scott, Chief Deputy Collector, were today suspended from duty pending the investigation of secret charges against them.

Free Health Guidance for Insured.

The Life Extension Institute announced yesterday that it had made an agreement with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company by which all holders of the company's policies from $1,000 up will receive the benefit of free consultation and guidance regarding health preservation. About 600,000 policy holders are affected. The policy holder is entitled, upon presenting an application, to a thorough physical examination, a report on his condition, guidance as to his hygienic needs, and information with reference to medical treatment.

Consolidated "Progressives" Dine.

The singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by 200 members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York opened the first dinner of the Progressive Association of that Exchange, held at the Biltmore last night. The dinner was the beginning of a series of "get-together" meetings in the interest of the Exchange. The speaking was limited to members of the institution, and an entertainment by professionals followed the addresses. The Dinner Committee consisted of J. Frank Howell, James A. Gillies, William S. Silkworth, George Shaskan and W. Curtis Otterson.

DEFEND OUR AIRPLANES.

Committee Reports That, Type for Type, They Equal European Product

That, type for type, American airplanes are equal to the best European products, and that American fighting airplanes have a factor of safety of six, whereas European machines have only a factor of three, is brought out in the official report of an investigation made by the Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, of which Alan R. Hawley, President of the Aero Club of America, is Chairman, and which is co-operating with Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher in the organization of the Naval Reserve forces. The report says in part:

"An investigation of statements that American airplanes are not used at the front in Europe has brought out the fact that the airplanes ordered in this country so far, with the exception of our large airplanes, which are superior to any European product, have only been the training type. The complaints from the representatives of different countries which have ordered airplanes in the United States are entirely of our limited output. They state that they could use thousands of additional airplanes of the training type, as well as of the remarkable large seaplanes, which are not obtainable elsewhere outside of the United States. These facts are substantiated by the fact that additional orders have been placed continuously in this country for airplanes and air motors.

"Our investigation shows that statements that American fighting airplanes do not have the speed and climbing ability of foreign fighting machines, is based on the fact that in America we demand a factor of safety of six, whereas foreign machines only have a factor of safety of three. Foreign countries also accept machines that land at a speed of close to 100 miles an hour; in the United States we expect our fast airplanes to land at a speed not exceeding sixty miles an hour. W get a speed of approximately 120 miles from our machines, while the European machines get only about ten miles more."

For Dry Areas by Proclamation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 17.—Senator Alfred J. Gilchrist introduced a bill today which would give the Governor power to establish, by proclamation, areas in which special regulations over the liquor traffic, including prohibition of sales, shall obtain. The bill is a war measure, and the Governor's orders would remain in force only for the duration of the war and three months thereafter.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The action of the Canadian Government in removing the import duty on wheat and flour from America, and thereby automatically removing our duty against the Canadian product, had a very bearish influence on the wheat market yesterday. At one time the May position in Chicago sold at $2.21½, a decline of 16¼c from the high point of Monday, while July got down to $1.88¾, or a loss of 11¼c. There was a partial rally at the close on covering, but final figures showed net losses for the day of 8 to 11¼c.

In the local cash market, No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $2.59½, free on board, New York; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.43½, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.50½, free on board, New York. Opening navigation.

CORN.

The corn market was influenced by the decline in wheat, and prices were weak, closing with a partial rally, but 4⅜@4⅞c under the close of Monday. There were further offers from Argentina, but it was thought highly improbable that these would assume sufficient proportions to be much of a factor in the situation. In the local cash market, No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.57, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was easier under liquidation influenced by the decline in wheat and corn, and closing prices were 2¼@2⅝c net lower. Export sales were estimated at 400,000 bushels of Canadian. The local cash market was easy; standard quoted at 78½c; No. 2 white, 79c; No. 3 white, 78c; No. 4 white, 77@77½c; fancy clipped white, 80@81c; ordinary clipped white, 79@80c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

In line with the break in grain, there was a violent drop in the provision market yesterday, with closing prices not far from the lowest of the session. Live hogs were weak, and there was considerable selling based on expectations that the Government may fix food prices and on the action of the Chicago packers in offering their plants to the Government. Chicago receipts were 15,000 hogs, with 28,000 expected on Wednesday. Kansas City had 18,000 hogs, Omaha 14,000, and all Western points 100,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The general decline in other commodities exerted a bearish influence on the market for cottonseed oil, with longs disposed to liquidate. At the close of the day values were 9 to 26 points net lower. Total sales were 54,000 barrels.

SUGAR.

After opening irregular, 1 point lower to 2 points higher, trading in futures became active, and free offerings by Cuban interests started a realizing movement which sent prices off rapidly, the close showing net declines of 4 to 11 points. The decline was thought to have placed the market in a better technical position, and at the low point of the day operators were buyers. Sales for the day amounted to 31,500 tons. Range of prices.

The market for refined sugar was firm, and, while there was a good inquiry reported, business was light, owing to the inability of refiners to accept orders, who appear to be well sold ahead. Prices were listed at from 7.50c to 8c for fine granulated, while three of the refiners were out of the market entirely. The decline in the contract market caused a little easier tone in actual sugar, and the spot price declined 1-16c, to 6.46c, duty paid. Local refiners were again active buyers, and the following sales were reported: 50,000 bags Cubas, April shipment, at 5¼c, cost and freight; 3,200 bags Cubas, afloat, at 5 7-16c, cost and freight; about 50,000 to 60,000 bags Cubas, May shipment, at 5¼c, cost and freight, and 1,700 tons Santo Domingos, April shipment, at 5⅝c, cost, insurance, and freight. At the close April shipment Cubas were available at 5½c, cost and freight. Spot quotations follow: Centrifugal, 6.46c; molasses, 5.58c; cost and freight, 5 7-16c.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was less active yesterday, and an early bulge was followed by reactions, with last prices showing net declines of 3 to 5 points. Sales were reported of 47,500 bags. The total spot market was quiet, with Rio Grades higher at 10⅛c for 7s, while Santos was unchanged at 10⅝c for 4s.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 11,269 packages. Prices gained a fraction on the higher qualities of fresh creamery, while the medium and inferior grades advanced about ½c. There was a strong feeling throughout, and, while the trade is only moderate, the position of the market seems to be quite strong. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per lb, 47@47¾c; extras, (92 score,) 46½@46¾c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 45@46c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 43@44½c; thirds, 40@42c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 48@48½c; extras, 47@47½c; firsts, 45½@46½c; seconds, 43½@45c; creamery, held, extras, 45c; firsts, 43½@44½c; seconds, 42@43c; thirds, 40@41c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 46c; good to prime, 44@45½c; common to fair, 38@43c; renovated, extras, 39½@40c; firsts, 38@39c; lower grades, 35@37c; imitation creamery, firsts, 38@39c; ladles, current make, firsts, 37½@38c; seconds, 37c; lower grades, 35½@36½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 36½c; No. 2, 36c; lower grades, 34½@35½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 31,288 cases. Arrivals are moderate for the season and the market is very firmly supported. The price improvement of the day before was fully sustained, and on some grades a further gain was made on late sales. Current distributing trade is limited and is showing the effects of the high prices ruling. A good deal of stock is going direct to the warehouses, arriving at a cost above its present prompt selling value on the open market. Western advices continue firm. Some sales of high-grade storage firsts have been made as high as 37c, and some are now held higher. Current packings are moving fairly, early sales being at 34½@35½c, when passable as firsts, with some fine Northern lots reaching 36c. The lower qualities of fresh gathered are working out fairly well at proportionate prices. Dirties and checks firm. Nearby white eggs are moving rather slowly in consumptive channels, but there is still call for stock for storage and values are favoring sellers. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 37½c; storage packed, firsts, 36½@37c; fresh gathered, firsts, 35@36c; seconds and lower grades, 33½@34½c; dirties, No. 1, 33½c; No. 2 and poorer, 32@33c; checks, good to choice, dry, 32½c; undergrades, 31@32c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 38c; ordinary to good, 36½@37½c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 36½@37½c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 36@37c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 36½@37½c; gathered brown and mixed colors, ungraded, 35@36½c; duck eggs, Western and prime Southern, 36@38c; ordinary, Southern and Far Southern, 34@36c; goose eggs, 60@75c.

FORWARD
"The World's Largest Jewish Daily"

A trenchant AMERICAN Newspaper

The Forward is "foreign" only in that it is printed in the traditional language of the Jews. In every other particular it is a trenchant American newspaper published for and read by men and women imbued with the highest type of American democracy.

Editorially it discusses every question of national and international moment. In literary quality, breadth of view and cogency of reasoning, these articles have been compared by American writers to the best in American journalism.

Its news columns report first-hand news gathered by special correspondents in every part of the globe. As befits an American newspaper, the great bulk of its news relates to our common national interests.

In advertising to the readers of The Forward you are giving expression to an American thought in another language.

ASKS FOR RECEIVER FOR AETNA COMPANY

ASSETS EXCEED LIABILITIES

Sale of Property, It Is Alleged, Would Embarrass Government In Its Need of Munitions.

The expected application for a receiver for the Aetna Explosives Company, Inc., was filed yesterday in the Federal District Court by counsel for the Grasselli Chemical Company of Cleveland, Ohio, a creditor to the amount of $103,655 due for merchandise. Tomorrow morning Judge Mayer will hear counsel representing all interests in the case and will name a receiver whose duty it will be, if the application is granted, to continue the business and to issue certificates for money sufficient to carry it on.

Notwithstanding the fact that the concern is deeply in debt, it was said that its assets, consisting of plants and other property in several States, accounts due, and especially many large contracts for munitions for the Allies, greatly exceeded its liabilities. It is contended that the sale of the property would not only practically destroy all of the assets because they are of a character especially adapted for the business of manufacturing explosives, but that its extinction would embarrass the Government in its need for munitions of war.

It is explained that the application for the appointment of a receiver is made because other creditors are pressing for payment of accounts and threatening to bring suit if payment is not promptly made. The company was organized on Nov. 28, 1914, and on Feb. 8, 1916, under an amended certificate of incorporation, its authorized capital was $18,100,000.

In the application for receivership it is set forth that A. J. Moxham, a former President of the company, made contracts in its behalf with Edward W. Bassick, whereby commissions amounting to several million dollars were to be paid to Bassick for his services in effecting contracts with the French Government. Mr. Moxham and F. L. Belin, a former Treasurer of the company, gave the company's notes for $753,234 in partial payment of the commissions.

It is alleged that the notes were made without authority and in violation of the duty both Mr. Moxham and Mr. Belin owed to the company. Suit was filed in the United States Court by Mr. Bassick for $321,583, still due upon the notes, and for further commissions amounting to $3,113,330. Another suit has been begun against the company by Herbert F. John, an indorser of five of the notes given to Mr. Bassick, to recover $141,580.

Similar suits have been begun by Herbert F. John and the Lenpier Trading Company and Delaney T. Smith, indorsers of some of the notes given to Mr. Bassick for a total of $379,474. All of these actions are still pending in the courts. The defendant company has outstanding a mortgage and trust agreement with the Guaranty Trust Company to secure a bond issue of $5,000,000 which mature Jan. 1, 1945. About $2,000,000 of these bonds are in the hands of the public, $3,053,750 worth of them are pledged to secure the performance of certain contracts, and $58,200 worth are still in the company's treasury.

Besides these liabilities, the papers say, the company is indebted in excess of $3,000,000 for merchandise and for money loaned on its notes. Some of these debts are past due and the remainder will soon become due. But the company says that it has on hand sufficient money to meet its obligations now due and that it will be able to meet those immediately maturing. Stanchfield & Levy counsel for the company, filed an answer to the suit in which the allegations made in the complaint were admitted.

Interest Due on German Loans.

A number of inquiries have been received by a law firm of this city from business houses concerning the payment of interest on loans and notes held by Germans. Those making the inquiries have been uncertain on the point whether the interest runs on throughout the entire war period when maturity has been reached after the declaration of war. These inquiries have been answered with the information that the interest stops when the plan or note becomes due, although payment of either is withheld until after the war.

Hard Coal Demand Abnormal.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that in their eagerness to secure prompt delivery of anthracite, retail dealers are bidding prices up on individual coal at such a rate as to give the appearance of a runaway market. This is probably the first time on record that such a condition has existed in April, except in strike years. It has been brought about by a very strong demand from the consuming public and a serious curtailment in production since the first of the month. The local market for bituminous has held steady, and in the last few days has had a stronger tone.

Dress Goods Unsettled.

Conditions are rather unsettled among dress goods producers. The cutters-up have not yet assumed a definite policy regarding the future, and as a result some are anxious to get in deliveries of dress goods and others are canceling. The retailers also have a hesitating policy, and this is reflected in the primary market. In some instances lines have been withdrawn because war contracts have been taken by the mills. Customers of these organizations who find their usual source of supply shut down on them, have rushed around the market trying to place substitute orders. In this way, it is thought, the demand of the moment appears greater than it actually is.

Will Soon Quote New Prices.

Under Monday's date one of the largest concerns in the country manufacturing mechanical rubber goods has sent a letter to the trade withdrawing all previous prices and promising to quote new ones in a few days. The letter says that it has been found necessary to advance selling prices because of the high cost of rubber and the abnormal advances in cotton duck and sheetings of all kinds, as well as coal, power supplies, &c., which increase the cost of production. It is intimated that the coming prices, though advanced, will be lower than those quoted later for goods that will have to be made up wholly from raw materials purchased at current market prices.

"Patriotic" Millinery Gaining.

The call for "patriotic" color effects in millinery seems to be improving steadily here. The bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America tells of some active buying of hats and trimmings of this type by consumers, the call for shapes being especially good in red and blue for immediate wear. In the trimmings cherries, poppies, and velvet ribbons of red have sold well lately, as have bluets, foliage, wheat, and burnt effects in blue. Also along this line, gold-plated army and navy buttons are being used for hat pins and are selling well. The whole millinery trade seems to be reviving now from the dull period that immediately followed Easter, and which was helped by the unseasonable weather.

Fall Carpet and Rug Openings.

On Monday next the wholesale department of W. & J. Sloane will place on show for the Fall, 1917, season all the rugs, carpets, and linoleums for which they are the sole selling agents. These include the products of McCleary, Wallin & Crouse, the Shuttleworth Brothers Company, C. H. Masland & Sons, the Willow Grass Rug Company, the Shelton Mills, and the Nairn Linoleum Company. Effective June 1, advanced prices on Nairn linoleums, mill shipment, are announced. Prior to the advance, business will be taken at current figures for shipment to Oct. 31, and subject to the mill's ability to deliver within that period. Starting June 1, printed 10-4 linoleums will carry the same basis of price as printed 16-4 goods. Monday, April 30, is the date set by the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Company for its opening of Fall rugs and carpets.

Must Buy in Primary Markets.

So limited are local supplies of the most-used kinds of crude rubber that large buyers have been forced to trade direct with the primary markets in order to find enough to fit in with their plans for buying. This is said to be the explanation of the comparative dullness that has been in evidence here for some time. Trading is going on here all the time, it is said, but with the big operators out of the market sales do not mount up as they would otherwise. Yesterday spot lots of first latex and smoked sheets were firmly held at 82 cents a pound, while up-river fine was quoted at 77 cents for spots. Up-river coarse and upper Caucho ball were held at 52 cents.

Women's Wear Buyers Undecided.

The retail trade in women's wear appears to be passing through a period of indecision. Buyers have not yet settled for themselves whether war times will yield them their ordinary demand or whether there will be retrenchment. Coming at a time when the course of trade is unsettled, even in normal years, the declaration of war has not improved the situation. After Easter there is a period of price cutting, and then gradually the demand assumes a more regular course. The war has only served, according to those well posted on the situation, to create a more uncertain feeling than usual. The advice even of sellers is for the retailer to go slow until conditions become better defined.

Mark of Merit for Dresses.

The Associated Dress Manufacturers of New York met at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday when formal announcement was made of the adoption of a "mark of merit" label for the product of the members. This label will be attached to garments manufactured under approved sanitary conditions. J. J. Goldman, President, and Hardwick S. Benedikt, Vice President of the organization, defined its objects and told how it was proposed to elevate the sanitary standards of the entire industry. Dr. George M. Price, Director of the Joint Board of Sanitary Control, explained how the manufacturers should go about making their factories as sanitary as possible. There were twenty-five manufacturers present at the meeting, which adopted a resolution offering the support of the association to the Government.

Gray Goods Sales Small.

The first American naval "engagement" of the war may have had an effect on trading in the local gray goods market yesterday, and it may not. The fact remains that there was little doing, aside from a steady call for clothing specialties in which khaki twills continued to dominate. Selling houses said little about sales of sheetings and fine goods, and not much more about printcloths. In the latter, however, May-July deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s were reported sold at 8½ cents, spot lots of the same goods bringing 8¾ cents. Other spot business was done on 39-inch 68-72s and on 38½-inch 64-56s at 9¾ and 8¼ cents, respectively. Closing printcloth prices were:

39-inch, 72-76s	10½c	38½-inch, 64-56s	8¼c
39-inch, 68-72s	9¾c	38½-inch, 60-52s	7½c
39-inch, 56-44s	7c	38½-inch, 60-48s	7¼c
38½-inch, 64-64s	9c	27-inch, 64-60s	5¾c

EXPLAINS RATE DEMANDS.

Pennsylvania Official Analyzes the Present Railroad Situation.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—Exception has been taken by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to statements contained in the telegrams sent to President Wilson by the trustees of the Utilities Bureau opposing a horizontal increase in railroad rates. George D. Dixon, a Vice President, said in a statement issued today:

"The trustees of the Utilities Bureau seemingly desire the public to think that the railroads have failed to disclose the grounds upon which they base the justice of their appeal for higher rates. The facts are that the railroads' case rests upon conditions known to every one, and these conditions exist at this very moment. We are face to face not with a theory but with a situation that must be met and dealt with promptly if serious consequences to the country are to be averted.

"In the last two years the prices of everything, from raw materials to wages, that enters into the cost of rendering transportation service, have enormously advanced. The price received by the railroads for giving the service has practically stood still. Transportation is today the only commodity of great importance that is being sold on a peace basis in this country, and the railroads are paying war prices for everything they buy.

"The 15 per cent. advance in rates for which the railroads have asked, instead of being excessive, will only partly meet the increased costs that must be faced. The railroad situation and the military needs of the country are not matters concerning which we, as a nation, can afford to indulge in academic discussions. We are face to face with hard facts, possibly the hardest in our history, and we ought to govern ourselves accordingly."

Paper Readjustment Hangs Fire.

The Preferred Stockholders' Committee of the International Paper Company has issued a notice to stockholders announcing that deposits of stock will be received only up to and including April 26, at which time it must be decided whether the readjustment plan is to be carried out. The committee states that the response of stockholders to the plan calling for the payment of 7½ per cent. in cash, 14 per cent. in preferred stock, and 12 per cent. in common stock, while encouraging both as to amount of stock actually deposited and the number of stockholders, has not convinced the company and the committee that a sufficient amount of stock has been deposited to warrant it in declaring the plan operative.

Missouri Pacific Time Extended.

Announcement is made by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., reorganization managers, that holders of certificates of deposit issued by the Central Trust Company or Guaranty Trust Company or issued or stamped by Broes & Gosman of Amsterdam, representing stock of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, will be required to pay on or before May 22, 1917, $49.95 per share, or at their option on or before that date $12.45, and the remaining $37.50 on or before Aug. 22 next, with interest on such deferred payments at the rate of 6 per cent.

CRUDE OIL SELLS AT $3.10.

Refiners Predict Higher Price Still—Unprecedented Demand the Cause.

PITTSBURGH, April 17.—Pennsylvania crude oil went to the highest price on record here today, when the principal purchasing agencies announced an increase of 5 cents a barrel, to $3.10. Other grades were advanced 2 cents, as follows: Mercer black, $2.45; Corning, $2.40; Cabel, $2.37; Somerset, $2.20. There was no change in Ragland from $1.

Unprecedented demand was assigned as the cause of the advance which, refiners say, forecast higher prices for gasoline.

FRANCHISE HEARING

STREET SURFACE RAILWAY EXTENSION—BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN

Board of Estimate and Apportionment
City of New York

Application having been heretofore made by the

UNION RAILWAY COMPANY OF NEW YORK CITY

for a franchise to construct, maintain and operate a street surface railway upon and along

AMSTERDAM AND NAGLE AVENUES AND DYCKMAN STREET

from West 207th Street to the right of way of the New York Central Railroad Company at or near the foot of said Dyckman Street, Borough of Manhattan, as an extension to its existing system, the petition therefor published, a hearing held on Friday, March 23, 1917, due notice of which was given, and an inquiry made by this Board to determine the terms and conditions to be imposed—

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to law, that a PUBLIC HEARING will be held at Room 16, City Hall, Borough of Manhattan, at 10:30 o'clock A. M., on Friday, April 20, 1917, upon the proposed contract for the franchise, embodying all the terms and conditions to govern the grant, at which all citizens interested shall be entitled to appear and be heard.

PROPOSED CONTRACT

Copies of the proposed resolution, containing the form of contract with all the terms and conditions of the grant may be obtained at the office of

Protecting the Safety of Bonds

Conservative investment houses not only use the greatest care in the original purchases of bonds they offer customers, but also make a point of seeing that the security back of the bonds is maintained, and, whenever possible, strengthened, up to the time of maturity.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The stock market is still a creature of fears. It slumped off very easily at times yesterday on professional selling, and rallied just as quickly when the short interest attempted to cover its commitments. There is very little bona-fide investment demand on the part of the public. In stocks, as in bonds, the average investor is holding aloof until he can get a line on the probable changes which will be worked in the yield of securities by the tremendous financing which the United States is undertaking for itself and Allies.

In such a market one stock after another comes in for particular attention as rumor supplies material for traders' operations. United States Industrial Alcohol was a centre of activity for some time yesterday, and liquidation of some large accounts was indicated in the selling that carried the price down from 112½ at the opening to 107 at the low. Traders have found that the holdings of this issue have become concentrated to a degree that makes short selling a risky operation, and the shares rebounded nearly three points at the first sign of a let-up in the selling. Studebaker, which has been almost as conspicuously weak among the motor stocks as it was strong in the former period of liquidation in that group dropped off to 87⅝ yesterday. General Motors fell to 105½. It is a foregone conclusion that the taxation of luxuries cannot go far without affecting both automobiles and their fuel. Steel was practically unchanged at the close, although rumors are already in circulation as to a possible change in the dividend rate at the meeting to be held April 24.

The most important part of the United States contribution to the Allies in making her entrance into the conflict an aid to victory will be along financial lines. We are not ready with men or guns, and our navy seems likely to be occupied largely in home waters. In the matter of credit we are fully prepared, and dollars are just as effective in crushing Germany as soldiers and shells. The course which the program of taxation will take is the most important influence underlying the security markets. It is particularly apparent to bankers, but a fact easily proved to any one, that the taxation of excess profits and incomes may very easily be pushed to a point where the agencies which produce the earnings will be stifled. For this reason the announced intention of the Secretary of the Treasury to call in a large number of well-known business men and financiers before definitely deciding upon the Government's financial plans was regarded as most encouraging. Handled rightly, it will be possible for the Administration to provide a very considerable portion of this year's extraordinary expenditures out of new and increased taxes without cramping industry or killing personal initiative. That Wall Street is willing to meet the Administration more than half way in making any measures effective was indicated by the announcement yesterday that plans for bringing an issue of $200,000,000 Canadian Pacific bonds out on an attractive basis here had been abandoned, lest they militate to some degree against the success of the forthcoming offering of Government bonds.

Aldermen, at Mayor's Call, Vote for Issue to Meet Emergency.

At the request of Mayor Mitchel, the Aldermen yesterday passed a resolution requesting the Board of Estimate to authorize the Controller to issue special revenue bonds to the amount of $250,000, as specific need arises, in order that the money may be immediately available in case of necessity as a result of the war. In a communication to the Aldermen the Mayor said the existence of a state of war between the United States and Germany made it incumbent upon the city to place itself in a position to meet promptly any emergency which might arise.

"It is imperative," he wrote, "that every step be taken at this time in anticipation of later needs. It is proposed to prepare the City Government to assist the National and State Governments in every way within its power, and to organize New York for the most efficient participation in the conduct of the war. This work will involve unforeseen expenditures which will necessarily be made, and which will oftentimes be demanded promptly."

LONDON STOCKS IN DEMAND.

Market Is Sustained by Latest War News and American Advices.

LONDON, April 17.—Money was in good demand today. Discount rates were not affected by the report that another £50,000,000 in Treasury bills will be issued next Friday, as the market is very bare of trade bills at present.

The stock market was sustained by the war news and American advices. All allied stocks were harder, though business expansion in British securities was checked by a disposition to await details of the budget. Japanese and Chinese bonds attracted attention, and interest in the mining section broadened, but shipping shares were irregular and Spanish bonds weak. American securities declined with Wall Street and closed undecided after meagre transactions.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Preparing for Freight Rate Advance.

The expectation of a freight rate increase has had a natural effect on contracts being closed by producer and shipper. It was learned yesterday that salesmen of the United States Steel Products Company, the export department of the Steel Corporation, had been instructed to notify export shippers that allowance for freight rates, which may be from 15 to 20 per cent. higher than the old quotations, should be taken into account in making purchases for future delivery.

March Soft Coal Shipments.

March, with its twenty-seven working days, brought an increase in shipments of bituminous coal of 16.5 per cent. over February, with twenty-three days devoted to mining operations. The gain in March over the same month last year was 8.8 per cent., according to the United States Geological Survey. An improvement in the car supply of Eastern mining districts was displayed in March by an increase of 6 per cent. in the average daily car loadings over the February record on twenty-two roads. The average loadings on sixteen roads in the Middle West, on the other hand, decreased 10 per cent., and a reduction of 15 per cent. was shown by seventeen other roads. Shipments of beehive coke in March increased 35.3 per cent., compared with the preceding months, but a decrease of 10 per cent. from the total in March, 1916, was reported.

High Coal Contract Prices.

The indictment of a number of soft coal companies and individual producers as a result of a Government inquiry into the price situation evidently has had no material effect in bringing down contract quotations for the current year. It is understood that prices ranging from $3 to $3.50 a ton are being accepted by consumers, in contrast with quotations ranging from $1 to $1.50 in normal times. So far no definite steps have been announced looking toward the application of less than the current prices for coal to be used in forwarding the Government's war preparations.

Central Leather Down and Up.

Central Leather became a centre of bearish operations for a time yesterday, with a subsequent strong recovery. At the lowest level the price was down 2¾ points from the maximum established earlier in the session, and at the close the net recession was no more than ¼. Presumably the earnings of the company will be affected by the special arrangements being worked out with various producers by the National Council of Defense in regard to supplies for the army and navy. The fact that the company is known to be in an especially favorable position in regard to stocks of raw material, however, has acted as a deterrent to prolonged efforts by short sellers.

Profit from Circulation Bonds.

United States Government 4 per cent. registered bonds are selling now at 106½. A national buying them at this price, and taking out additional circulation, can net a profit of $1,767 per $100,000 of circulation. It was said yesterday by bond experts that the basis of profit now possible is the highest on record.

New York City Bonds Weak.

Bonds of the City of New York were weak yesterday, the quotations being from ¼ to ½ lower than Monday's. The decline was ascribed to reports of Secretary McAdoo's suggestion regarding legislation designed to make State and municipal bonds subject to the Federal Income Tax. Banks and bond houses have been advised by counsel that the likelihood of Congress attempting to enact such legislation was very remote, and that, moreover, the imposition of a Federal tax on State or municipal bonds would be held unconstitutional. A distinguished lawyer pointed out yesterday that a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court set at rest the fear expressed by Ex-Governor Hughes that the Income Tax Amendment to the Constitution might result in giving Congress the power to tax State and municipal bonds. This lawyer said that the decision made it clear that the phrase "from whatever source derived," used in connection with the taxation of incomes, did not create new sources of taxation for the Federal Government, but that the amendment was construed as only removing the obstacles to a Federal income tax law that confronted Congress, in the light of the Supreme Court's decision in the Pollock case in 1894, when the court held an income tax law unconstitutional. It was pointed out yesterday that one sovereignty has not the right to impose taxes upon another sovereignty and that consequently Congress was without power to tax obligations of States and municipalities. Such a tax could only be levied with the consent of the State or municipality, and it is not supposed that any State would voluntarily submit to such taxation.

STEEL CO. PASSES DIVIDEND.

Sloss-Sheffield Decides to Build Up a Large Working Capital.

Directors of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company yesterday deferred the dividend on the common stock for the current quarter. The issue was replaced on a dividend basis of 1½ per cent. quarterly last January, and the fact that payments were stopped after only one had been made caused considerable comment in the Street. The company's earnings from sales of pig iron have been running on a heavy scale for more than a year.

The management, it was learned, decided to build up a large working capital and to this end decided to keep as much of the earnings as possible in the treasury. Recently Henry Evans, President of the Continental Insurance Company, became a Director after becoming extensively interested in the company. Waddill Catchings, formerly head of the Central Foundry Company, was elected President of the Sloss-Sheffield Company last month and took charge of operations. These additions to the management resulted in new plans which called for conservation of income and the extension of the company's activities.

RAISE CHILE COPPER CAPITAL

Shareholders Agree to Plan Increasing Stock to $135,000,000.

Stockholders of the Chile Copper Company yesterday ratified a plan to increase the authorized capital stock from $110,000,000 to $135,000,000. The proposal was originally presented to shareholders at a special meeting a few weeks ago at Wilmington, Del., and at that time it was decided to authorize an issue of $100,000,000 bonds. Of the new bonds, which are convertible and bear 6 per cent. interest, $35,000,000 will be offered stockholders for subscription at par on April 24 with the subscription period expiring May 29.

C. K. Lipman, Secretary, informed the share owners that the company's mill, which has a capacity of 10,000 tons of ore a day, was handling between 7,000 and 8,000 tons daily. The mill capacity, he stated, is to be increased eventually to 27,000 tons a day. The ultimate net cost of copper will be 6 cents a pound, including transportation to New York from the Mines in Chile, he said.

ANNUL C.P. BOND SALE TO AID FEDERAL LOAN

J. P. Morgan & Co. to Keep Investment Market Open for Our Government.

OTHER ISSUES HELD UP

Governors of Reserve Banks Decide to Make No Awards for $5,500,000 of 30-Year Conversion Bonds.

With the object in view of keeping the investment market as nearly bare of new offerings as possible, in order to insure a popular reception for the forthcoming sale of United States Government bonds, J. P. Morgan & Co. and associates yesterday canceled arrangements for bringing out in this market an offering of $200,000,000 of Canadian Pacific dollar bonds. Delays which had come up in perfecting the plans for the railway offering had made it appear likely that the private offering could not be sold far enough ahead of the Government financing to prevent some interference.

The Canadian Pacific financing was initiated before the United States recognized the existence of a state of war with Germany, and was conceived primarily for the benefit of the British Government. The railway management was glad to co-operate in the plan, but it was not to benefit in any way, since none of the money provided would have gone to the company. In order to supply $200,000,000 of credit on this side it was arranged that the railway should sell its dollar bonds through an American banking group, turn the proceeds over to J. P. Morgan & Co. for account of the British Treasury, and receive back for cancellation an equivalent amount of railway securities issued in pounds sterling, and sold years ago to British investors. The Government has mobilized or listed $198,9[illegible]9,[illegible]80 of Canadian Pacific 4 per cent. debenture stock, Atlantic & Northwest first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds, Algoma District first mortgage 5s, and Ontario & Quebec 5 per cent. debentures, which was to have been turned back to the company as part of the plan.

Arrangements had been made to offer the railway's twenty-thirty year 5 per bonds at 97, at which price a popular success for the big issue seemed assured, when the question of possible injury to the Government financing was raised. Even though the operation was being arranged for the British Government, and not for private interests, it was decided after a conference yesterday afternoon to drop the matter.

It is possible that the sale of the Canadian Pacific bonds will be effected here along the lines now abandoned when the United States financing has been completed, but as this is not likely to be the case for some months it was suggested yesterday that the plan might not be revived until the war was ended.

A committee of Governors of the Federal Reserve banks which had invited bids for about $5,500,000 of United States thirty-year conversion 3 per cent. bonds announced yesterday that inasmuch as "no satisfactory" proposals had been received, it was decided not to make any award.

That the bonds would not be sold became evident about a week ago when the Administration's War Loan bill was introduced by reason of the fact that the new $5,000,000,000 bonds which are soon to be offered to the public will bear interest at 3½ per cent. and will be sold at par. While the bill provides that Panama Canal bonds authorized but not yet issued should bear 3½ instead of 3 per cent. interest, and raises the rate of other authorized issues, the bill is silent with respect to the conversion 3 per cent. bonds. Under the circumstances no bank or bond house felt justified in bidding par or over for the bonds offered by the Federal Reserve banks, and these banks naturally thought it better to hold the bonds than to sell them at a loss. Figuring on a 3½ per cent. basis, the conversion 3s are worth 90¾, according to bond experts. About a month ago the Federal Reserve banks sold approximately $7,000,000 of conversion 3s at a price between 101⅛ and 102. Today these bonds are quoted at from 97 to 98.

Charles J. Rhoades of Philadelphia is Chairman of the Committee of Governors.

BANKERS NAMED TO AID IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Ready to Handle Any Unusual Problems That May Arise in This Country During the War.

The State Department was informed by local bankers yesterday that arrangements had been made to handle any unusual problems in foreign exchange which may arise during the war period. A committee consisting of Max May, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company; J. H. Carter of the National City Bank, J. E. Rovensky of the National Bank of Commerce, and George Leblanc of the Equitable Trust Company was formed on Monday to look after the work.

A member of the committee said that the step was taken simply to meet any emergency which may arise as the result of changing financial relations between the nations while the war lasts. Its functions, if the need arises, may be similar to the committee of bankers in London which was formed under the trading with the enemy measures early in the conflict, which scrutinizes all financial transactions put through by British subjects with other nations.

A subject discussed at the Monday meeting, it is understood, was the status of "options" in reichsmark exchange which were outstanding at the time when financial relations with Germany were broken off. Banks and trust companies, following the procedure of peaceful times, had sold to persons with remittances to make to Berlin in the Summer and Autumn options calling for delivery at stated periods of reichsmark drafts or cable transfers. Some of these which were in effect when the break occurred have not yet been adjusted, but it is said no difficulty will be found in evening up the accounts.

MERGER OF BANKS RATIFIED.

Union of Bankers and Astor Trust Companies Effective April 23.

Stockholders of the Bankers Trust Company and of the Astor Trust Company, at meetings held yesterday, ratified the action of their respective Boards of Directors for the merger of the two institutions, effective April 23. For the purpose of equalizing the book value of the stocks of the two companies, Directors of the Bankers Trust Company declared a special dividend of $23 a share, payable to holders of record on April 20.

The Astor Trust Company will be continued, with no change in management, as the uptown branch of the Bankers Trust Company. After the consolidation, the Bankers Trust Company will have a capital of $11,250,000, undivided profits of more than $5,000,000 and deposits of about $300,000,000. Seward Prosser will continue as President of the Bankers Trust Company. The number of Directors has been increased from twenty-two to thirty.

TO AID SMALL INVESTORS.

Six Stock Exchange Houses Adopt Co-operative Advertising Plan.

Recognizing the growth in the number of small investors in stocks and bonds, six New York Stock Exchange houses have developed a plan for co-operative advertising with the view of placing their services more specifically at the command of such investors. The firms interested are John Muir & Co., Sheldon, Morgan & Co.; Hartshorne & Picabia; Wright, Slade & Harnickell; McClave & Co., and E. Bunge & Co.

These firms have been advertising individually for some time past, calling to the attention of small investors the advantages of their partial payment service. This permits an investor of limited capital to purchase such securities as he may desire at a time when he considers the price attractive, without waiting until he has accumulated the full purchase price.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department awarded yesterday $800,000 of 4 per cent. serial bonds of Porto Rico to Hayden, Miller & Co. of Cleveland at 99.30.

The city of Youngstown, Ohio, has awarded Farson, Son & Co. $225,000 of 4½ per cent. bonds, maturing Oct. 1, 1924 to 1934, inclusive, at 102.158 and accrued interest.

Spencer Trask & Co. have issued a booklet describing seventy issues of municipal, railroad, public utility, industrial, and foreign Government bonds.

Proposals for sale to it of first mortgage bonds of the Locomobile Company of America have been invited by the Bankers' Trust Company, as trustee. Bids are not to exceed 105 per cent. of the face value of the bonds and must be received by May 14.

Stone & Webster are offering $609,000 Eastern Texas Electric Company's first mortgage collateral trust 5 per cent. bonds at a price to yield over 5½ per cent.

The Municipal Service Corporation, controlled by Boston interests, is completing negotiations for the acquisition of the Youngstown and Suburban Railway Company, and is expected to take over the property May 1. The company operates twenty miles of electric line and is now controlled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

For consideration of plans for service in the war, the General Executive Committee of the Railway Business Association will meet today. The committee is composed of thirty-two manufacturers and merchants intertested in the manufacture of railway appliances.

At a special meeting of the Kentucky Petroleum Producing Company E. DeGolyer and A. K. Alford were elected as Directors.

At the annual meeting of the May Department Stores Company all retiring Directors were re-elected. Jerome Dauby was elected a Director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of L. A. Braham.

The Crocker-Wheeler Company made record earnings for the first quarter of 1917. The profits, after paying dividends on the preferred stock, amounted to $44.17 per share on the common.

William F. H. Koelsch, Vice President of the Bank of United States and President of the New York Credit Men's Association, will speak tomorrow evening on "The Trade Acceptance an Economic Factor," at the annual meeting of the New Haven Association of Credit Men.

UTAH COPPER EARNS $50,280,073 IN YEAR

$39,148,943 FOR DIVIDENDS

Balance Equals $24.09 for Each Share of Stock Outstanding, of Which $12 Was Distributed.

The Utah Copper Company's annual report shows that the net production of copper last year, amounting to 187,581,824 pounds, cost 6.95 cents a pound to produce and was sold at an average price of 26.139 cents, making a profit in excess of 19 cents for every pound sold. The operating revenue from copper, gold, and silver turned out of the smelters was $50,280,073, compared with $27,155,942 in the preceding year, and the balance for dividends was $39,148,943, a gain of more than $11,800,000 over 1915. The balance was equal to $24.09 for each share of stock outstanding, of which $12 was distributed to share owners.

The production cost of copper in 1915 was 6.19 cents a pound. Commenting on the year's result President C. M. MacNeil said in the report yesterday:

"Had it not been for the large increase, particularly in labor cost and the large increase of taxation, the cost per pound would undoubtedly have shown a substantial decrease instead of an increase. There were produced 47,648 ounces of gold, for which the company received $20 an ounce, and 461,596 ounces of silver, for which the company received 66.68 cents an ounce. The total gross production of copper contained in concentrates was 196,752,631 pounds, compared with 156,207,376 pounds for the preceding year."

The report said that ore reserves at the end of the year aggregated 369,845,558 tons, averaging 1.41 per cent. copper. The addition to reserves in the year was 23,530,258 tons.

D. C. Jackling Managing Director, said in his statement that the outstanding feature of 1916 was the demonstrated ability of the mills to increase production more than 25 per cent., as compared to the best previous periods, while treating the same grade of ore and without any additions to grinding and concentrating machinery.

"This could, of course, only be done at a sacrifice of percentages of recoveries," he explained, "but it is to be remembered that at the high average price of copper for the year, earnings per ton have been greatly in excess of what they would have been under normal prices of copper and a recovery of 100 per cent. of all the copper in the ore, if such a thing were possible."

Partial Payment Progress

The undersigned, members of the New York Stock Exchange, offer clients the opportunity to acquire high grade investment stocks and bonds by means of the Partial Payment Plan.

Purchases are paid for through reasonable initial deposits and succeeding monthly installments.

The opportunity to invest is thus opened to practically every earner in the country.

We offer these facilities:

1. With the conviction that our efforts are of economic benefit to the country as a whole. The savings of the people are brought to the investment markets at once, without the usual incidental but unconscious hoarding and with the elimination of the usual extravagant spending.
2. In the belief that the plan is beneficial to the individuals who adopt it. Your savings work for you all the time. You don't have to wait until you have saved a big sum. You invest-as-you-go.
3. With the knowledge that the Partial Payment Plan is beneficial to us as your agents. It tends to make successful, permanent clients—a broker's best asset.

The Partial Payment Plan is popular because it is based on the right ideas. Do you know what it is? What its terms are? What it will permit you to do?

UNITED STATES GOVT. BONDS

Inasmuch as the bulk of the business in United States Government bonds is done over the counter, and not on the Stock Exchange, THE TIMES gives the following quotations, obtained from bond dealers:

	Bid.	Asked.
U. S. 2%, 1930	98	99
U. S. 3%, 1918	99	100¼
U. S. 4%, 1925	105½	106½

Panama 3%, 1961	..	97½
Conversion 3%, 1947	..	98

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Many of the prominent stocks touched new low prices for the downward movement in the earlier trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The market in the afternoon reflected a somewhat steadier tone for the majority of the list, with some of the active issues making good recoveries. United States Steel common, as usual, was the stock with the largest volume, more than 35,000 shares changing hands.

REORGANIZATION.

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit issued under an Agreement dated the 15th day of September, 1914, known as Bondholders' Protective Agreement in the matter of the First Mortgage Five Per Cent. Thirty-Year Gold Bonds of Birmingham, Ensley & Bessemer Railroad Company:

The undersigned Committee gives notice that the reorganization of the above company (Plan No. 1 under the Plan and Agreement dated September 15, 1915,) has been completed, the properties sold at foreclosure have been conveyed to the New Company, which is known as Birmingham-Tidewater Railway Company, and bonds of that Company are ready for distribution to the Committee's Depositors. The stock of said Birmingham-Tidewater Railway Company has been transferred to Birmingham Railway, Light & Power Company in consideration of the guaranty by said last named company of the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds of the new company held by the Committee.

Upon surrender to Empire Trust Company, Depositary, at its office, 120 Broadway, New York City, of their Certificates of Deposit duly endorsed in blank with signatures witnessed, Depositors will receive:

1. First Mortgage Five Per Cent. Thirty Year Gold Bonds of Birmingham-Tidewater Railway Company, dated January 1, 1916, (Scrip Certificates for odd amounts less than $500), with coupons maturing July 1, 1917, and all subsequently maturing coupons attached of a face amount equal to fifty per cent. (50%) of the Birmingham, Ensley & Bessemer Railroad Company Bonds represented by said Certificates of Deposit.

2. An amount in cash equal to the interest on said new bonds (or on said scrip as the case may be) for the year 1916.

If the delivery and payment are to be made to parties other than the registered holders of the Certificates of Deposit, the certificates must be duly endorsed for transfer by the registered holder, whose signature must be guaranteed by a bank official, a New York Stock Exchange Member, or acknowledged before a Notary Public.

Amounts representing interest cannot be paid unless certificates of deposit are accompanied by the certificates required under the Federal Income Tax Law and the rulings of the Treasury Department. The interest payments represent coupons maturing July 1, 1916, and January 1, 1917. Income tax certificates must, therefore, be sent for each of these payments.

Unless Depositors otherwise direct and transmit to the Depositary funds sufficient to defray all charges, all bonds forwarded to Depositors will be forwarded by express valued at par, charges collect.

The Management of Your Estate

Demands: Absolute Safety of Principal, Stability of Income

These in turn demand: The constant exercise, on the part of your executor, of Sound Business Judgment

The only certain way of securing this indispensable requirement is by appointing some reliable trust company as Executor and Trustee under your will.

The Union Trust Company is now safeguarding estates for the fourth generation of those who originally entrusted their property to us—fifty-two years successful administration of Trusts.

We are also qualified to serve you as

Guardian—of minors, or Committee of incompetents,
Depositary—for funds of every description,
Treasurer—of a corporation or association,
Registrar—or Transfer Agent for corporations,
Agent—to attend to all details of Real Estate management.

The officers of this company are always accessible and will be glad to discuss your financial problems with you, in person or by correspondence.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Duone Realty Company, a newly organized corporation, of which J. E. R. Carpenter is President, was the buyer of the vacant plot 100 by 175 on the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and 103d Street. The property was sold a few weeks ago for Arthur Brisbane, who had recently acquired it, by Pease & Elliman. The brokers have obtained a first mortgage loan of $90,000 for the new owners from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. No immediate plans for improvement are contemplated. Title to the properties was recorded yesterday.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

James C. McEachen bought from Solon B. Lillienstein 158 West 119th Street, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 17.8 by 100, and resold it through the E. A. Polak Realty Company to M. J. Schwartz. The buyer will alter the premises into bachelor apartments.

Army and Navy Club to Move.

Negotiations are practically closed for the leasing of the present quarters of the Army and Navy Club at 107 and 109 West Forty-third Street, extending through to Forty-fourth Street, between Broadway and Sixth Avenue, to Mme. Landes, for alteration into a French restaurant. The club has for some time been considering a removal to a new and larger site, and a meeting of the Governors will be held this week to act upon the plan. The property is owned by a syndicate of club members.

Bronx Sales.

The four-story apartment house at 956 Intervale Avenue, 43 by 100, has been sold by Epstein & Garfitz for the Broadway and Cathedral Parkway Company to an investor.

Brooklyn.

The three-story flat at 522 Sixth Avenue, corner of Fourteenth Street, on plot 20 by 100, has been sold by the John Pullman Real Estate Co. for Frederick L. Ostergren to Andrew Brosnan.

I. Salzberg has sold for the Connelly Investing Co. to S. Lass the two-family cottage, on plot 40 by 100, at the southeast corner of Forty-eighth Street and Fifteenth Avenue.

Frank H. Malone has sold for James C. Francesconi the one-family dwelling at 179 Eighty-first Street in the Bay Ridge district.

E. T. Newman has sold in the Park Slope section the two three-story store buildings at 120 and 122 Seventh Avenue, between Carroll and President Streets, for Gold and Temlitz. The former was purchased by Max Blatt and the latter by Peterson's dyeing and cleaning firm.

Long Island.

Frances M. Palmer has purchased for her country home a six-acre estate, with dwelling, from Jacob Williams at West Hill, Huntington. Theodore S. Hall was the broker.

Pell & Tibbits sold for the estate of Petrus A. B. Worrall his former country residence at Roslyn, L. I., consisting of a large dwelling, stable, garage, gardener's cottage, and other buildings and 16 acres of land to Elderfields Reservation, Inc., adjoining their recent purchases through the same brokers.

Jersey City Sales.

Harry Usland purchased from the National Corporation the frame dwelling at 125 Summit Avenue, northwest corner of Gardner Avenue, on plot 118 by 120. The site will be improved with a four-story apartment house.

Andrew Tobin has sold to Armour & Company a plot 75 by 100 on the northwest corner of Coles and Sixteenth Streets. With this purchase the Armour Company now controls thirty-two lots, comprising the block bounded by Seventeenth Street, Monmouth, Sixteenth, and Coles Streets, on which will be erected a warehouse.

Morris Bienenstock has bought from Otto Venino, for improvement with a business building, the vacant plot, 90 by 66, on the southwest corner of Bergenline Avenue and Fulton Street, Union Hill.

Westchester County.

Pease & Elliman sold for Mrs. Edmund Randolph to Hjalmar H. Boyesen, for occupancy, her house near the Westchester Country Club and located on the club grounds at Westchester, N. Y. The place has about three acres, and the house is one of the finest in the section.

Commercial Leases.

Roy Scherick has leased with Douglas L. Elliman & Co. the store and basement on Madison Avenue, in the new building being erected on the block from Madison Avenue to Park Avenue, Forty-seventh to Forty-eighth Streets, by Dr. Paterno, to A. Warrendorf, florist, who has been thirty years at Broadway and Twenty-eighth Street. The lease is for ten years, aggregating about $75,000.

John Milberg leased from Leon Sobel Company, through Max Winder, 304 West 104th Street, for a term of ten years. The building will be altered into small apartments.

Pease & Elliman leased for Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer the five-story garage at 112 and 114 East Seventy-fifth Street, together with the adjoining property at 116 and 118, which is now a livery stable, but which will be altered into a garage, to the Urban Motor Company, Inc., for a term of twenty-one years. This entire plot, 100 by 100 feet, was sold by the same brokers to Mrs. Palmer about two months ago. The net rental asked was about $20,000 a year.

Long Island Factory Moving to the Bronx.

Henry Hof has leased for a term of years to Simon Ascher & Co. for the Hudford Motor Car Company, the four upper floors in the new concrete building at 2,441 to 2,445 Third Avenue, also an annex adjoining on the north side of 134th Street, making a total area of about 60,000 square feet. When completed, Simon Ascher & Co. will move their factory from Glendale, L. I., to their new quarters, employing about 300 people.

Realty Notes.

Title to the residence property at 874 Fifth Avenue was conveyed yesterday to Louis T. Haggin.

William D. Bloodgood & Co., Inc. was the broker in the recent sale of 18 Ann Street for the Harris B. Dick estate to the National Park Bank.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE assessment rolls of real estate and personal property in The City of New York for the year 1917 have been delivered to the Receiver of Taxes and that all taxes on said assessment rolls shall be due and payable at his office in the respective boroughs of said city as follows:

All taxes upon personal property and one-half of all taxes upon real estate shall be due and payable on the FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1917, and the remaining and final one-half of taxes on real estate shall be due and payable on the FIRST DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1917.

All taxes shall be and become liens on the real estate affected thereby and shall be construed as and deemed to be charges thereon on the respective days when they become due and payable as hereinbefore provided and not earlier and shall remain such liens until paid.

The second half of the tax on real estate which is due as hereinbefore provided on the first day of November following the payment of the first half may be paid on the first day of May or at any time thereafter providing the first half shall have been paid or shall be paid at the same time, and on such payments of the second half as may be made in such manner prior to November first a discount shall be allowed from the date of payment to November first at the rate of four per centum per annum.

Borough of Manhattan, Room 200, Municipal Building.
Borough of The Bronx, 177th st. and Arthur ave.
Borough of Brooklyn, 236 Duffield st.
Borough of Richmond, Borough Hall, St. George.

SOMETHING GOOD
To my friends—Am back again in the real estate business and have an extra fine proposition to offer in building lots 25x100 in a progressive industrial town having 15 factories and exceptional train service. Commuting distance to New York. Notwithstanding the many exceptional advantages of this absolutely high and dry property, I offer beautiful lots at $78.00 on very, very small payments. Better secure a few lots for speculation and grow vegetables on them while making your monthly payments. Real estate will boom after the war. Let me send you free railroad tickets. A. OSTER, 64 West 35th St., N. Y., Room 608. Phone Greeley 187.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Barometric pressure continues high over the Eastern half of the country and low over the Rocky Mountain region and the Plains States. This pressure distribution has resulted in a general rise in temperature in nearly all districts east of the Rockies and showers in the upper Mississippi Valley, the north Plains States, and the mountain and western Plateau regions.

Temperature is now considerably above the normal in nearly all districts east of the mountains, but cool weather continues over the Northwest, the Pacific States, and the west Plateau region.

Except for showers Wednesday in the Ohio Valley the weather will be fair during the next forty-eight hours east of the Mississippi River.

Moderately warm weather will prevail during the next two or three days over the Eastern half of the country.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the Atlantic Coast will be gentle, variable, except fresh east off the Florida Coast; fair weather.

FORECASTS TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair and warmer Wednesday. Thursday, probably fair, moderate temperature.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and warmer Wednesday. Thursday, probably fair and continued warm.

Northern New England — Partly overcast and warmer Wednesday. Thursday, unsettled.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	46	37	4 P. M.	54	57
6 A. M.	46	36	6 P. M.	54	51
9 A. M.	49	45	9 P. M.	54	45
12 M.	55	55	11 P. M.	50	45

This themometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 47; for the corresponding date last year it was 51; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 49.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 43, at 8 P. M. it was 47. Maximum temperature, 58 degrees at 1:20 P. M.; minimum, 36 degrees at 5:30 A. M. Humidity, 63 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 67 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.89 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.34 inches.

Education Notes.

The Parents' Association of the Seward Park School will hold a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock. Mayor Mitchel will deliver an address on "Patriotism." Other guests will be President Willcox, Vice President Whalen, Joseph Barondess, Isidor M. Levy, and General George W. Wingate of the Board of Education, Acting City Superintendent Straubenmuller, Associate City Superintendent Ettinger, and District Superintendent Kidd. There will be music by the Hebrew Orphan Asylum Band.

The Interborough Association of Women Teachers will hold a meeting at 4 P. M. on April 20 at the Washington Irving High School. Subjects for discussion will be plans for assisting the Government in the war situation, advisability of postponing the annual birthday party in view of the exigencies of the state of war now existing, and progress of the pension bill. At the close of the meeting all who are willing to join a new association for the purpose of rendering service to the nation will remain and form a temporary organization. It is generally conceded that teachers are equipped in many ways to give unusual service in the present emergency, and it is evident that the best work will be accomplished through organization.

The Attendance Officers' Society, Education Department, has pledged itself to give loyal support in the fullest measure to whatever policy the United States Government may adopt.

The Board of Superintendents has nominated William O'Flaherty, a Bronx Principal, to succeed I. E. Goldwasser as District Superintendent. Mr. Goldwasser resigned from the position.

Arthur M. Wolfson, Principal of the Julia Richman High School, has been nominated by the Board of Superintendents as Principal of the High School of Commerce, to succeed John L. Tildsley, who was recently appointed Associated City Superintendent. It is said that, if Mr. Wolfson's transfer is approved by the Board of Education, Miss Kate Turner, now Acting Principal of Erasmus Hall High School, may be nominated for the Julia Richman Principalship.

The annual meeting of the Class of 1900, Hunter College, will be held at the Hotel McAlpin at 2 P. M. on April 21.

There will be a mass meeting tomorrow evening, under the management of a committee of high school teachers, in the auditorium of the Richmond Hill High School to consider plans for economic preparedness.

BELLS AT MIDNIGHT TO ROUSE PATRIOTS

Churches Will Ring In "Wake Up America Day" on Paul Revere's Anniversary.

FINAL PLANS FOR PARADE

Thousands of Women and Children to March Tomorrow in City's Appeal for Recruits.

Just as the bells of Lexington and Concord rang forth a summons to arms on the night of Paul Revere's ride, so the bells of all the churches in Trinity Parish will toll at midnight tonight and arouse the people of the city to another struggle for freedom. This is the first time in history that the church bells of the city will toll on the anniversary of Paul Revere's ride. It is expected other churches besides those in Trinity Parish will also participate in the midnight demonstration which has been arranged by the Recruiting Committee of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense as a fitting preliminary to the celebration tomorrow of "Wake Up America Day," which is designed to stimulate recruiting.

In making further plans for the celebration, the committee yesterday arranged to have 12,000 women, representing every kind of feminist movement, in the line of march. Miss Elsa Maxwell, who is in charge of the woman's division of the parade, announced that Mrs. J. E. Eustis, Mrs. Lydia Hoyt, and Mrs. George F. Baker, Jr., had been accepted as mounted aids to the Grand Marshal, Lieut. Col. Latham Reed of the Sixty-ninth Regiment.

Women and Children to March.

The Woman's Suffrage Party will mobilize in West Sixty-first and Sixty-second Streets, between Central Park West and Broadway. Miss Ethel Stebbins, leader of the Twenty-fifth Assembly District, has been appointed marshal of the division. The suffragists will wear a uniformed dress of dark blue, with white collar and cuffs, and white spats. They will wear yellow sashes and carry American flags. Some of the women who will march in this division will be Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Mrs. John Blair, Mrs. John Humphrey Watkins, Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mrs. Leonard Thomas, Mrs. Willard Straight, Mrs. Charles Tiffany, Mrs. Victor Morawetz, Mrs. F. Louis Slade, Mrs. Herbert L. Pratt, Mrs. E. R. Strange, Miss Charlotte Delafield, Mrs. Linzee Blagden, Mrs. V. Everit Macy, Mrs. Joseph R. Swan, Mrs. Learned Hand, Miss Adelaide Nutting, Mrs. Thomas B. Wells, Miss Camille Morgan.

The side streets leading from Fifth Avenue for one block east to west from Forty-seventh Street to Fifty-seventh Street, inclusive, have been set aside for the school children, under the direction of W. J. O'Shea and James H. Wade, District Superintendents.

The Recruiting Committee was informed yesterday that two airplanes would leave Governors Island at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and fly over the city as far as Fifty-ninth Street. They will drop thousands of patriotic appeals for recruits. From Governor Whitman the committee received an order appointing Lieut. Col. Lorillard, his military secretary, to the command of the 10,000 Boy Scouts who will participate in the parade.

British to March, Too.

The Woodcraft League of America will have a contingent in the Junior Division of the parade. They will be headed by the American flag and the flag of the league, followed by Woodcraft boys and Woodcraft girls, each carrying a hoe and wearing a sash labeled "Potato Patriots." A float giving a pictorial idea of potato raising will also form a part of the Woodcraft contingent.

The members of the British War Relief Division will be mobilized by Lieut. Col. Thord-Gray, late commanding the Northumberland Fusiliers, at Seventy-third Street and Fifth Avenue, where all Canadians and persons of British birth and descent are invited to join the ranks.

The committee in charge of the Actors' Fund Fair has arranged to have recruiting appeals delivered from the stage of every theatre in Manhattan and Brooklyn tomorrow. Special movie shows will be given, and patriotic features will be introduced in the performances wherever possible.

More than 15,000 college men and women will participate in a patriotic demonstration at the City College Stadium in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Resolutions will be passed pledging loyalty to President Wilson and the flag. Maj. Gen. O'Ryan will present colors to college training units. After the meeting a parade of students, including 2,000 girls from Hunter College, will be reviewed by General O'Ryan. They will then march to Carnegie Hall. Delegations from these colleges will take part: Columbia, College of the City of New York, New York University, Rutgers, Fordham, Pratt Institute, Polytechnic Institute, Cathedral College of Brooklyn, St. John's College of Brooklyn, Adelphi College, Stevens Institute, and Seton Hall of South Orange.

Recruiting for the army, navy, and marines continued yesterday to show the effect of a stimulating recruiting campaign. The United States Marine Corps had thirty-four enlistments before the day was over. Out of more than one hundred applications at the naval recruiting headquarters, on East Twenty-third Street, fifty-six men were enlisted. In the army the enlistments from New York and Manhattan were about seventy.

GERMAN INSURANCE RULES.

Supt. Phillips Restricts Companies Under Proclamation of President.

Jesse S. Phillips, Superintendent of Insurance, made public yesterday the rules prescribed by him relative to the continuance in business in the United States of German insurance companies operating in this country through branches, and whose principal offices are in the State of New York. The rules, which were issued in pursuance of President Wilson's proclamation, were as follows:

1. No moneys shall be disbursed except for administrative or agency expenses, or for settlements under policy or other contracts made by, or with such companies relating to the business of their United States branches.

2. Any such disbursement in excess of $10,000 or any disbursement for purposes not specified in Rule 1, must be approved by the Superintendent of Insurance or some person authorized by him in writing, which approval, when such disbursement is made by check, shall be evidenced by such check being duly countersigned by such Superintendent or person so authorized.

3. At the close of each day's business a statement showing total cash income and outgo, with cash balances in office and in each bank, shall be mailed to the Superintendent of Insurance at 165 Broadway, New York City.

4. There shall be prepared and forwarded to the Superintendent of Insurance at 165 Broadway, New York City, on the blanks heretofore used for the quarterly statements, a monthly statement, omitting therefrom lines 26-41, inclusive, on Page 1, such monthly statement to be furnished within thirty days after the close of each month.

5. All banks in which funds of the company are deposited shall be at once notified by the United States manager that no checks upon such banks drawn by the company or by the manager in excess of $10,000 shall be paid except when the approval of the Superintendent thereto shall be evidenced in accordance with the provisions of Rule 2.

6. In case of departments or branch offices having power to pay losses and make other disbursements generally, any such disbursement in excess of $10,000 shall be subject to the provisions of Rule 2.

7. The United States trustees shall not disburse any funds, make any investments, or sell any securities without previous notice in writing to the Superintendent of Insurance, at 165 Broadway, New York City, and a copy of these rules shall be furnished to each such trustees.

8. The representatives of the Superintendent of Insurance will make frequent inspections of the books of original entry and other accounts of the company, including vouchers for disbursements.

9. An agreement in writing shall be forthwith executed by the United States manager of each such company, whereby he shall specifically agree that no funds belonging to or held by him or under his control for the benefit of the company, will be transmitted outside of the United States nor used as the basis for the establishment, directly or indirectly, of any credit within or outside of the United States to or for the benefit or use of the enemy of any of his allies, without the permission of the United States Government.

The Superintendent announced that the rules were subject to modification at any time.

CONVICTION REVERSED.

U. S. Circuit Court Finds Error in Rulings of Judge Ray.

The conviction of Baron Eugene Francois Ernest Oppenheim, Richard Murphy, and Howard J. Rogers, indicted with W. T. Brice, for an alleged conspiracy to abstract money from the First National Bank of Amsterdam, N. Y., was reversed yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Oppenheim and Rogers were brokers in this city, Murphy is a lawyer of Amsterdam, and Brice was a teller in the bank.

The men were tried before Judge George W. Ray of the Federal District Court in Syracuse. Brice gave evidence for the prosecution. His thefts of the bank's money aggregated $170,000, of which it was alleged Rogers received $12,000, Oppenheim, $5,000, the brokerage firm of Oppenheim & Co., $18,531, and Murphy, who represented Brice in certain realty transactions in this city, about $33,000.

The Government averred that Oppenheim and Rogers must have known that the money they received from Brice had not been honestly obtained and that Murphy must have been equally well informed.

LONG WAR, SAYS GERARD.

And "Tango Lizards," He Adds, Must Do Their Bit.

TRENTON, N. J., April 17.—James W. Gerard, formerly Ambassador to Germany, was the principal speaker tonight at a patriotic meeting held on the plaza in front of City Hall. He received a great ovation when he appeared on the platform with Governor Edge, former Governor Stokes, and Colonel E. C. Stahl, a veteran of the civil war. Mayor Donnelly presided.

William Ogdensberg, 77 years old, a veteran of the civil war, sitting near the platform, dropped dead of heart failure from excitement.

Mr. Gerard predicted that the war would be a long and hard one for the United States. "This is not going to be an easy war for the United States," he said. "Many of you men will soon be called to the colors. Don't let the brave men go to the front to fight while the 'tango lizards' remain in the rear."

Addresses were made by Governor Edge, former Governor Stokes, and Colonel Stahl, and the Mayor.

Mr. Ogdensberg, who dropped dead, had been an Assemblyman from Mercer County thirty-one years ago. He was a prominent Mason, Odd Fellow, and Elk, and was born in Germany.

VALUE BRADY ESTATE AT OVER $5,000,000

Residuary Bequest to New York Hospital for Urology Institute Will Be $4,000,000.

JEWELS TO 33 FRIENDS

These Include Railroad Presidents, Actresses, and Employes—His Jeweler Gets $25,000.

The will of James Buchanan Brady, perhaps better known as "Diamond Jim," filed for probate yesterday, distributed his estate of more than $5,000,000 about as outlined in THE TIMES yesterday. The residuary bequest, estimated at more than $4,000,000, goes to New York Hospital to establish the James Buchanan Brady Urology Foundation, and his jewels, valued at $1,000,000, are distributed among thirty-three friends.

The Johns Hopkins Hospital of Baltimore, which received $200,000 from Mr. Brady in his lifetime, receives $300,000 in trust for maintaining the James Buchanan Brady Urological Institute, while $10,000 each went to the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, Newsboys' Lodging House, Railroad Employes' Hospital, Children's Aid Society, Fresh Air Fund, and Actors' Fund of America.

Mr. Brady left only $100 to his brother, Daniel M. Brady, who is well to do. They had not been on good terms for many years. To his sister, Mrs. Hattie Mathieu he left $25,000 in trust and provided that at her death the principal should revert to the residuary estate. Her son, Glendyn Cloran, receives a similar bequest. His aunt, Mrs. C. T. McArdle gets $10,000 outright.

Mr. Brady left $25,000 to his friends, John M. Hansen of Pittsburgh, Robert L. Gordon of New York, Richard C. Crowley, his secretary, and Robert H. Klitz, a jeweler, who aided him in collecting his gems, and from whom he purchased many of them. He also left $25,000 to "my friend," Miss Catherine Glaser.

The eighteenth paragraph of the will, which disposes of the jewels, says:

"I give and bequeath to my friend, C. S. Mellen, (former President of the New Haven Railroad,) my emerald, diamond and ruby ring; to my friend, F. D. Underwood, (President of the Erie,) my emerald and diamond ling buttons; to my friend, A. H. Smith, (President of the New York Central,) my turquoise and diamond link buttons; to my friend, J. A. Middleton, two emerald and diamond studs; to my friend, M. McDonald, my turquoise and diamond scarfpin; to my friend, J. M. Hansen, my catseye ring; to my friend, H. H. Hewitt, my catseye scarfpin; to my friend, W. H. Miner, my enamel studs; to my friend, J. M. Schumacher, my star sapphire ring; to my friend, A. T. Herd, my black opal scarfpin; to my friend, Frederick Houseman, my fancy sapphire watch; to my friend, Clarence Housman, my fancy sapphire scarfpin; to my friend, R. L. Gordon, my diamond studs; to my friend, George Stevens, my enamel diamond ring; to my friend, R. H. Wilbur, my black opal; to my friend, E. E. Loomis, my star sapphire watch; to my friend, R. C. Crowley, my diamond ring; to my friend, P. R. Todd, my garnet and sapphire scarfpin; to my friend, E. B. Thomas, my platinum transportation watch; to my friend, R. H. Klitz, my diamond scarfpin; to my friend, Raymond Hitchcock, my sporting watch; to my friend, Harry Fox, my sporting ring; to my friend, Jennie Dolly Fox, my pearl ring; to my friend, Jean Schwartz, my sporting scarfpin; to my friend, Rose Dolly Schwartz, my pearl chain; to my friend, Jules C. Weiss, my Napoleon watch."

Mr. Brady further directed his executor to consult with Robert H. Klitz, of Jung & Klitz of 1 Maiden Lane, New York City, "who is entirely familiar with my jewels," for the purpose of identifying the articles bequeathed. In the sale of any jewels for the benefit of the estate the executors are directed that such sales shall be made through Mr. Klitz.

The decedent directed that "to the end that any of my partners in any of my business relations may not be embarrassed in any way by the withdrawal of my estate from such business associations and partnerships upon my death," they were authorized to continue his interest in such businesses not to exceed five years.

The Columbia Trust Company, Robert L. Gordon, and Richard C. Crowley, who are named as executors and trustees, are authorized to continue any of Mr. Brady's investments, or to convert them into cash and reinvest the proceeds.

In setting apart the residuary estate to the Society of New York Hospital for the establishment of "the Department of Urology, James Buchanan Brady Foundation," the testator specified that the technical head of the department should be known as Director and appointed by New York Hospital, "except in so far as the appointment of Dr. Oswald S. Lowsley is herein provided for." Mr. Brady directs that if Dr. Lowsley is willing to serve he is to be appointed the first Director, and "all plans for equipment and building as may be possible and necessary under this legacy shall be submitted to him for his approval."

Dr. Lowsley was graduated from Johns Hopkins in 1912, and has been clinical assistant at the Post Graduate Hospital here and assistant urologist at Bellevue. He treated Mr. Brady for several years.

Mr. Brady directed that Mr. Crowley, his secretary, and Mr. Gordon, his business associate, shall receive treatment in the department free.

The will, executed Jan. 16 last, was witnessed by Charles A. Moore, Charles A. Moore, Jr., and Alfred J. Babcock.

HARRY N. REYNOLDS SHOOTS HIMSELF

Son-in-Law of Charles T. Barney, Who Was Also a Suicide, Had Been in Ill Health.

Harry Newell Reynolds, a retired manufacturer, shot himself dead yesterday in a bedroom of his home, 26 East Ninety-second Street. He had offices at 225 Fifth Avenue, and was 50 years old. Though he had retired from active business, he was listed as President of the Berlin Laboratory, Ltd., chemists; Treasurer and Director of the Dayton Arcade Company, and a Director of other corporations.

Ill health led to the suicide, the police say. Mrs. Reynolds, who was Marie Barney, daughter of Charles T. Barney, one-time President of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, and himself a suicide, entered his room last evening to see whether he needed any medicine—he had been sufering from a weak heart for a long time—and she found him stretched across the bed, dead. A revolver with one chamber empty lay on the floor. He had shot himself, apparently, in the afternoon, but the case was not reported to the police until late last night.

TELLS OF MURDER IN PRISON

New Jersey Convict Says Negro Inmate Was Slain by Trusties.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 17.—The charge that James Williamson, a negro, who was found dead in his cell in the State Prison in 1913, was murdered by trusties was made by James Lawrence, a fifteen-year convict, when the Prison Inquiry Commission named in January by Governor Edge reopened its inquiry today.

The charges about which Lawrence testified were filed by the Citizens' League of Hudson County, and it was said that some of the evidence on which they were based was furnished by W. S. Boyd and Patrick Quinlin, agitators of the Industrial Workers of the World, who figured in the Paterson silk strike.

The witness described Williamson as "sassy" and said that he was "beaten up" several times. While the trusties were giving Williamson the beating that caused his death, he alleged, Keeper George W. Lowe, who still is employed at the prison, was at the end of the corridor shamming sleep.

The trusties who attacked Williamson, he said, were armed with pieces of lead pipe. The body, he said, remained on the floor of the cell for twenty-four hours before the man was pronounced dead by the prison physician.

Dr. J. W. Crane, who was employed at the prison when Williamson died, was called to the stand and said that the county physician had found that the negro's death was caused by palpitation of the heart. It was decided to refer the case, including the testimony taken, to the Mercer County prosecutor's office.

Michael Leo, serving a thirty-year sentence from Essex County on the charge of burning his wife to death, testified that smuggling and thievery were carried on in the prison. He produced a half pint bottle of whisky which he said he bought for 50 cents from a trusty, who told him he had obtained it from a deputy. He said also that trusties took clothing outside the prison and sold it, and alleged that he had been kept in chains that caused blood to spurt from his wrists. This was denied by Dr. Crane.

18 WON'T DISMANTLE PLANTS

Recalcitrant Owners of Wireless Here Reported to Washington.

Acting on a request from Secretary Daniels, Police Commissioner Woods has taken a census of the wireless stations in and about New York. The Secretary of the Navy requested the commissioner to order the owners of the stations to dismantle them, and of the 1,028 stations found, owners of only eighteen refused to comply with the request of the commissioner to dismantle their plants. These refused on the ground that their stations were not in operation.

The names of the eighteen who declined will be forwarded to the Navy Department for further action, at once.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 17.—Lady Johnstone, wife of Sir Alan Johnstone, recently British Minister at The Hague, is progressing satisfactorily after an accident she had Friday at the American Consulate General.

Lady Johnstone, who is American born and was Miss Pinchot, sister of Gifford Pinchot, slipped on the waxed floor of the consulate and fell, fracturing a bone.

Gives $500 for Schoolboys' Uniforms

Announcement was made yesterday that Simon Ulman had sent a check for $500 to General George W. Wingate, President of the Public Schools Athletic League, to be used toward buying khaki uniforms for high school boys who are taking the league's course of military instruction. The money will be given to the Stuyvesant High School Organization, only half of whose members possess uniforms. Each boy will receive half the price of the uniform and he will contribute the rest.

War Bars Sandy Hook Boats.

Thousands of sojourners along the Jersey coast will have to travel by train during the coming Summer instead of aboard the three boats of the Central Railroad of New Jersey which have run for years between this city and Sandy Hook. The company announced yesterday that the service would not be renewed because of "circumstances beyond the company's control."

POLICE CAPTURE 'CAPTAIN.'

The police in Hoboken yesterday arrested a young man who, they say, has been posing as "Captain Earnest S. Robinson" of the Twenty-second Engineers of New York City in a new and entirely correct uniform of the rank he claimed. The arrest was made on complaint of Lieutenant Robert Applegate of the New York National Guard. The prisoner said he was George H. Robin of 340 West 146th Street, and before that of Roselle, N. J. His occupation he gave without a smile as "looking after my own interests." He is charged with carrying dangerous weapons, impersonating a military officer, and with being a fugitive from justice.

Lieutenant Applegate is a dentist in Hoboken, and several days ago Robin, in uniform, was examined by him for dental work. Applegate became suspicious and notified the police. Robin was traced to the Hofbrau Hotel, at Second and River Streets, where he had been stopping, and was arrested as he was about to leave in civilian clothes.

AN INTERVIEW CORRECTED.

What Lawrence Langner Said About Patents in Wartime.

The omission of the word "not," through a typographical error, reversed the meaning of an interview with Lawrence Langner, a patent attorney of this city, published in THE TIMES last Friday. The interview dealt with the probable status of patent relations between this country and Germany now that war has been declared, and the sentence in which the error occurred should have read:

"Unless some action is taken by this country, such as was taken by Russia and by which the Russian Government appropriated all patents owned by Germans relating to war inventions and held all other patents invalid, it may be assumed that the German Government will not confiscate patents owned by American citizens."

All Wool—As Usual—in Hart Schaffner & Marx Spring Clothes

We'd hardly think it needful ordinarily to remind you that Hart Schaffner & Marx Spring Suits are all wool—but right now there's a reason for it.

Woolen's are mighty scarce—and there's more than the usual incentive to some makers to mix cotton with it; so there are a good many "nearly wool" suits and overcoats about.

But there's not the slightest manipulation in Hart Schaffner & Marx fabrics—we can assure you that on our own word and that of the makers.

Spring Suits, $20 to $50.
Spring Overcoats, $20 to $38.

ECONOMICAL POWER

POWER—Power is the very life of your car. It is the energy that makes the car leap forward in the instant get-away. The energy that carries you swiftly and smoothly on high speed without effort. It is the energy that takes you over the hills, through the deep sands, through the snowdrifts of winter.

POWER makes your car easy to drive on the Road or in Traffic. Power makes you forget the mechanism of your car. It meets the emergencies of travel and traffic without noticeable effort, without faltering. That is the way Studebaker has made Studebaker cars the most powerful cars on the market in ratio to weight.

They have made them powerful by perfecting design—four years Studebaker Engineers have concentrated their skill in improving, refining and perfecting Studebaker motor designs, until today Studebaker is the most powerful car on the market, in ratio to size or cost.

At the same time it is economically powerful. It gives you great power with very reasonable gasoline consumption.

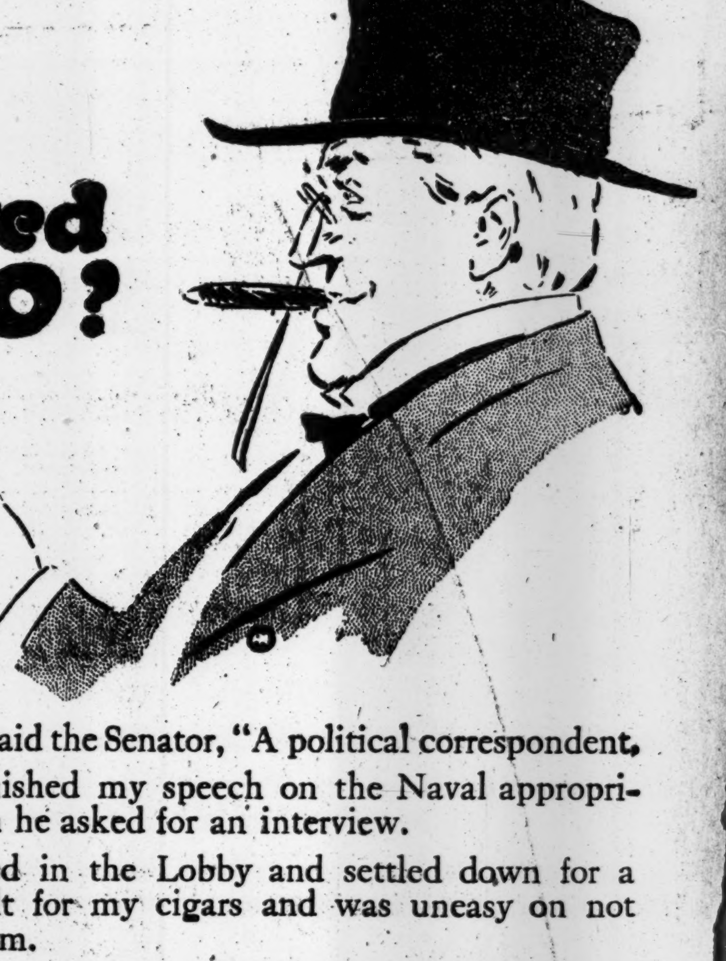
Who Discovered Ricoro?



Corona size, 7c
Box of 50—$3.25
Imported from Porto Rico

"I know," said the Senator, "A political correspondent.

"I'd just finished my speech on the Naval appropriation when he asked for an interview.

"We stopped in the Lobby and settled down for a talk. I felt for my cigars and was uneasy on not finding them.

"He saw my discomfort and gave me a fine big Corona size cigar—a smoke of exceptional quality.

"When he said it was a Ricoro—price 7c—the surprise was as great as getting a majority vote in a hostile district."
